Informant's tip led to arrests

Two Chicago men arraigned in Bollacker murder case

by JOHN MAES
Two more Chicago men were arraigned for murder Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court in connection with last Thursday's shotgun killing of Richard Bollacker. Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733 Palmer Ave., and John Murphy, 18, of 5514 Augusta Blvd., were ordered held without bond in Cook County Jail by Associate Judge Marvin Peters pending a preliminary hearing in a Des Plaines court Thursday.

The two were arrested Sunday evening by Chicago Police Area 5 homicide investigators at the apartment of a friend, Jerry Thurbush, 21, in the 5300 block of Dakin Street.

The arrests came from a tip supplied by an informant, Chicago police said.

An unnamed Oak Park girl, 16, also wanted in connection with the killing was taken into custody with Del Moro and Murphy. She was turned over to Chicago juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

Thurbush was also charged with aiding the two men. Police said an auto owned by Thurbush was used by the assailants the night of the killing.

Charges of battery and resisting arrest were also brought against Del Moro.

The other suspect, Peter Mukite, 21, of 1823 Haddon St., is currently in Cook County Jail awaiting the Thursday hearing, following his arraignment for the murder last week.

Mukite was arrested Thursday by Des Plaines police near Del Moro's home after being named as one of the killers by Bollacker's girlfriend, Cindy Graf, 16, who told police she was beaten and left for dead after watching Bollacker's death.

Bollacker's body was found in the Grand Forest preserve near Ballard and Rand Roads in Des Plaines after Miss Graf, who told police the suspects shot at her but missed, went to the road and hailed a passing motorist who alerted police.

The girl, who lived at a local psychological treatment center, Incentives Inc., 2424 Dempster St., is still under constant police watch at an undisclosed location.

Bollacker, who lived in a west side Chicago apartment at the time of his death, was reportedly involved in a love triangle with the girl and one of the suspects. An argument apparently started the night of the slaying after the couple announced they were planning to be married, police said.

TWO OF THE THREE men charged in the slaying of John Murphy, 17, were arrested Sunday by Chicago police. Richard Bollacker were taken to arraignment in Des Plaines, yesterday. The pair, Richard Del Moro, 18, and

Orchard Place finally getting back to normal

by MIKE ZAREMBA

Things are finally getting back to normal in Orchard Place.

After four months of seeing their neighborhood in somewhat of a shambles, residents on Fox, Pearl, Joseph and Morse streets welcome an otherwise unfamiliar sight — Rossetti construction crews and landscapers.

For more than a week, Rossetti's crews and landscapers have been out working, steadily laying topsoil, grading, piecing the neighborhood back together, to correct a bad situation, according to company officials.

Piles of cement slabs, asphalt and other debris have cluttered the parkways since February. Another section of Des Plaines — the 1500 blocks of Oakton, Cora and White streets — was faced with the same problem.

Rossetti Construction Co., contracted to install storm sewers for both residential areas, finished the installation work in mid-February. But they never got around to cleaning up the mess and restoring the property, which was part of the $147,500 contract with the city.

For more than four months, residents from both areas complained to city hall, the mayor and aldermen. They said the neighborhoods were "unsafe and dangerous" to the children playing in the piles of debris.

Joseph Lapetina, vice-president of operations for the Rossetti Construction Co., said the company is "doing its utmost to rectify what has happened."

Both Lapetina and Tony Rossetti, president of the company said the biggest reason for the delay in the restoration work was constant bad weather.

"People don't realize how wet it has been. They don't know how many problems the construction crews face with the bad weather. Last August, September and October, 50 per cent of the time we had rain. This caused a lot of work to back up," Lapetina said.

"The people and the city have been happy with our work before," Lapetina said. Rossetti Construction Co. has been doing business with Des Plaines for more than 18 years, he said.

"We've done a lot of good work in the town. One bad job can ruin everything. We realize this and we're doing everything possible."

Lapetina said the delays and problems with the storm sewer job caused the "worst publicity" for the company in its years of business.

Residents of both troubled areas said the storm sewers are working fine. Before, both areas were plagued with flooding problems.

Many residents said they expected delays and "a certain amount of inconvenience" when the job was started. Many said they were just glad to see the work being done. But after four months of delays in restoring the parkways and streets the complaints started.

The most common complaint from the residents was why the construction crews didn't come out and at least pick up the piles of debris. Residents said some of the children were hurt while playing in the junk. Many people said they were afraid to cut their lawns. No serious injuries were reported.

Why didn't the crews come out and spend one day to clean up all the debris? "There really isn't any good reason," Lapetina said, "but we are doing our utmost to rectify it."

Music, work and luck—a July Fourth parade

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

When the Des Plaines Fourth of July parade compacts its way down Lee Street tomorrow, the real horn tooting will already have ended.

The parade downtown began months ago. Tony Kaltschuck was the maestro. His music played hard work.

"YOU START WITH an idea — a theme. And, you build from there starting around Jan. 1," said Kaltschuck, the executive secretary of Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

That idea marches toward more organization — bands are contracted; a parade line-up is planned; floats are scheduled. The headaches pile-up.

Kaltschuck, who has organized parades here for 10 years, sat quietly in his office yesterday — seeking housing for 110 Canadian lasses due to march in Wednesday's parade.

The girls, members of St. John's Girls Drum Corps from Ontario, Canada, need "someplace to sleep, someplace to clean-up. The big problem is showers."

The search for housing included schools and churches. The problem reawakened memories of three years ago when three out-of-town bands, from Seattle, New Orleans and Madison, threatened to withdraw from the parade because there was a dearth of sleeping quarters. Algonquin and Chippewa Junior High schools and Glenview Naval Air Station came to the rescue in 1970.

"A parade is a success only if it has decent music," Kaltschuck said. "And, you need enough of it."

THE LIST OF music-makers this year includes The Guardsmen from Mount Prospect; The Cadets Drum Corps from Marion, Ohio; the Phantom Regiment Drum Corps from Rockford; the Silver Sabres Drum Corps from Salina, Kan.; St. Paul Scouts Drum Corps from St. Paul, Minn.; the Canadian group and the Imperials from Skokie.

"This is the first year I've had to arrange housing for all of the out of town groups," Kaltschuck said. "It's quite a problem."

The attraction of the drum corps is tonight's "Music in Motion" competition at Maine West High School stadium. The groups will battle for cash prizes, starting about 7:30 p.m. at Howard Street and Wolf Road.

"You begin in February, looking for five or six good corps in addition to the host group," Kaltschuck said. Invitations are mailed nation-wide, through the Illinois Drum Corps Assn.

"USUALLY, QUITE a few" entries are received. "We're usually in a position to turn them down," he said. Chamber officials meet with drum corps "experts" and "invite the best groups possible." Competitors tonight include 4 of the top 10 ranked groups in the U.S.

The drum corps are contracted through the state association with prizes and some expenses guaranteed.

The contract requires the bands to march in the Fourth of July parade.

"PROBLEMS — WHERE do you want to start? How long a list do you want?" Kaltschuck said. "I have three hopes — there are three things I worry about":

• That parade marchers kickoff "on time and the schedule is adhered to." Things can get sticky with more than 90 marching units and complicated assembly areas. Line-up is planned at 11 a.m., an hour before the parade actually starts.

• That "no one gets hurt." It's the little things that count in putting together an accident-free parade. Police and fire officials must be notified. A tow truck must be available to assist breakdowns. An ambulance and first aid tents must be available for parade watchers and

Wants Northwest Community board to reconsider

Chapman to urge hospital: OK abortions

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will ask Northwest Community Hospital to reconsider its decision not to allow abortions on demand in light of the passage of legislation regulating abortions.

Mrs. Chapman, who thinks the hospital is not responding to the community will with its decision on abortion, said yesterday she will meet soon with Malcolm MacCoun, president of the private hospital in Arlington Heights, to discuss the abortion question.

A formal request to the hospital's board of directors asking them to reconsider their decision on abortions also will be made by Mrs. Chapman this week.

The board of directors voted last week not to perform abortions on demand and to continue its policy of performing abortions only when the pregnancy poses a threat to the mother's life.

Reasons cited for the board's decision were the need to conserve the resources of the hospital for other procedures and the inability of the Illinois General Assembly to replace the former Illinois statute on abortion with a statute consistent with the U.S. Supreme Court ruling striking down antiabortion laws.

WHEN THE BOARD took its action, legislation sponsored by Sen. Don Wooten, D-Rock Island, had already passed the Senate and was pending before the House. In an unusual July 1 session the House passed the three bills regulating abortions sponsored in the House by Rep. Robert G. Day, R-Peoria, by a three-fifths majority. The bills now await Gov. Dan Walker's signature. Mrs. Chapman said she did not anticipate any problem getting Gov. Walker to sign the bills into law because they follow guidelines established by the Illinois Department of Public Health and conform with the U.S. Constitution.

Eugenia S. Chapman

Under the first bill only licensed physicians will be able to perform abortions. Between the third and sixth months of pregnancy, the abortion would have to be performed in a hospital with life support equipment available. After the sixth month of pregnancy abortions may only be performed to save the physical or mental health of the mother. Consultation with two other physicians is necessary before a doctor can perform an abortion during the last three months of pregnancy.

The second abortion bill requires all facilities performing abortions to be licensed by the state. The third bill licenses medical facilities without provisions for overnight hospital stays and imposes restrictions on their operation.

The only question now remaining is when the bills will take effect — July 1, 1973 or July 1, 1974. The Illinois Constitution states: "A bill passed after June 30 shall not become effective prior to July 1 of the next calendar year unless the General Assembly by the vote of three-fifths of the members elected to each house provides for an earlier effective date."

THE HOUSE PASSED the three measures by the necessary three-fifths vote but the Senate, which voted on the bills more than a month ago, passed each by a simple majority, hence the confusion as to when they will take effect.

Mrs. Chapman was critical of the hospital's board for not waiting until the House had adjourned before making its decision, if in fact the lack of legislation regulating abortions was a major consideration.

"If they (board members) are worried about having a framework of state law to work within, they now have one," said Mrs. Chapman.

She said she hoped doctors on the staff at Northwest would be able to make their own decision on whether to perform abortions just as women can now make their own decision on whether to have an abortion.

"I do hope they will reconsider their decision but they are not a public body and I have no status with them except as a private citizen of Arlington Heights served by the hospital," said Mrs. Chapman.

MacCoun said yesterday he has not had an opportunity to evaluate the legislation regulating abortions and did not know if the board would reconsider its decision.

FBI statistics

Crime in suburbs soaring this year

Crime in the suburbs — especially violent crimes such as robbery and aggravated assault — increased dramatically in the first three months of 1973 as compared to a similar period a year ago, according to statistics released by the FBI's Uniform Crime Reports.

A survey of 2,150 police agencies representing more than 45 million persons showed serious crime in the suburbs increased 5 per cent over-all while serious crime in the nation decreased 1 per cent over-all.

THE INCREASE in suburban crime statistics can be traced to many factors, according to the FBI, but the continuing exodus to the suburbs of persons from core cities appears to be the main reason for the upswing in crimes committed.

A further breakdown of the suburban crime figures for the first three months of 1973 shows that violent crimes — which include murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault — increased 14 per cent. Crimes against property — burglary, larceny and auto theft — was up 4 per cent.

Murder in the suburbs was up 5 per cent, forcible rape 8 per cent, and both robbery and aggravated assault up 15 per cent for the first three months. Burglary was up 7 per cent, and both larceny and theft 3 per cent.

The makeup of the population, police strength and training and the attitudes of prosecutors and the courts are contributing factors to crime statistics, the FBI said. The increase in suburban statistics this year is part of an upward trend begun several years ago, the FBI said.

ATTY. GEN. ELLIOT L. Richardson reported that 100 of the nation's largest cities reported actual reductions in serious crime during the first quarter of 1973. Eighty-eight cities showed a decrease in the same period of 1972. Serious crime showed a 3 per cent decrease in the same period last year.

The figures in the crime reports are based on nationwide crime statistics contributed by local, county and state law enforcement agencies. Richardson said the statistical report has been changed this year to include all larceny-theft instead of limiting that category to larceny $50 and over.

Larceny-theft is primarily a crime of opportunity and the value of property taken is usually incidental to the criminal act.

The reports divide serious crime into two categories: Violent, which includes murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault and property, which includes burglary, larceny-theft and auto theft.

VIOLENT CRIME increased 6 per cent in the first quarter of 1973 compared to a 2 per cent increase in the first quarter of 1972. Property crimes, more numerous than violent crimes, decreased 2 per cent this year compared to a 3 per cent decrease in 1972.

Aggravated assault rose 9 per cent, forcible rape 7 per cent, murder 6 per cent, and robbery 4 per cent. Burglary increased 2 per cent, larceny-theft declined 4 per cent and auto theft was down 1 per cent.

Cities with 100,000 or more inhabitants reported a four per cent decrease in serious crime.

New fieldhouse for Harper? It's all up to Gov. Walker

Today is Tuesday, July 3, the 181st day of 1973 with 191 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer.

American author John Mason Brown was born July 3, 1900.

On this day in history:

In 1819, the Bank of Savings in New York City opened — the first of its kind. The first 80 depositors banked a total of $2,897.

In 1892, a strike began at the Carnegie Steel Co. in Homestead, Pa. Before it ended the following Nov. 20, seven guards and 11 strikers and spectators had been fatally shot.

In 1930, American troops met the North Koreans in battle for the first time.

A thought for the day:

French novelist Anatole France said, "People who have no weaknesses are terrible... there is no way to take advantage of them."

It's up to Gov. Daniel Walker whether Harper College will get its new fieldhouse.

The Illinois General Assembly approved an emergency appropriation of $1.6 million to replace a fieldhouse at Harper that was destroyed by fire last month. Approval came last Sunday after an amendment calling for identical $1.6 million grants to six other junior colleges was withdrawn.

The amendment circulated by Rep. Roscoe Cunningham, R-Lawrenceville, would have brought the total appropriation up to $11 million and would have assured a veto by the governor. Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, said Cunningham later withdrew the amendment and the appropriation for Harper passed.

There is still a chance that Walker will veto the appropriation and numerous other appropriations to stay within the limits of his proposed budget. Mrs. Chapman said the community must start a campaign to convince the governor to approve the appropriation for the Harper fieldhouse.

"From here on it's up to the governor," said Ron Keener, spokesman for Harper College. He said the $1.6 million is the state's portion of construction cost for the fieldhouse. Total cost will probably reach $2.2 million, he said, and the rest of the money will be paid by a settlement from the fire insurance company.

Kavanaugh, was also charged. He committed suicide last week.

WAKEFIELD SAID that if the current investigation reveals there is sufficient evidence to back up the charges, a formal pretrial investigation will be undertaken. If the allegations cannot be substantiated, the charges will be dropped, he added.

The outcome of this preliminary investigation will be made public, he added.

All of the men charged were held prisoner in a camp known as "The Plantation" near Hanoi. The servicemen, two Marines and five soldiers, have all denied aiding the enemy.

Young had told The Herald that while he made anti-war statements, many of his fellow prisoners had done the same thing after being tortured. He was a prisoner for more than five years.

IN ADDITION to Guy's charges, Navy Adm. James Stockdale filed similar charges against two other former POWs.

The misconduct charges named Marine Lt. Col. Edison Walwright Miller and Navy Capt. Walter E. Wilber. Both men are pilots and the first commissioned officers to be charged with misconduct as POWs.

The Pentagon said the preliminary investigation into those charges will be started this week.

A decision will be made within two weeks on whether the military intends to prosecute former U.S. prisoners of war charged last May with aiding the enemy.

Seven enlisted men, including Army Staff Sgt. John A. Young of Arlington Heights, were accused of collaborating with the North Vietnamese while being held prisoner by Air Force Col. Theodore Guy.

"The investigation into the charges by the secretary of the Army and the Navy will be completed by mid-July at the latest," Col. Donald Wakefield, Pentagon information officer, said.

Pile of small problems forced River Trails boss out

by MARY HOULIHAN
A news analysis

It was a small mountain of little problems that apparently forced the departure of Supt. Thomas Warden from River Trails Dist. 26 recently.

Included in the frustrating series of events were lack of action on pressing projects, teacher dissatisfaction, and a serious lack of judgment in the hiring of a school principal, according to informed board sources.

Warden resigned as superintendent at the end of May. Though school board members refused to comment on whether the board had asked for Warden's resignation, it was obvious that the board bought up Warden's contract when the board gave him a check for $14,000 in addition to the remainder of this year's salary.

According to board sources, Warden was at odds with the school board as early as fall, 1972.

PARAMOUNT AMONG the problems that popped up in board members' minds, according to sources, were Warden's reassignment of two Dist. 26 principals in spring, 1972, and the lack of progress in teachers' negotiations in the fall.

In spring, 1972, Warden recommended the reassignment of Ben Amundson, principal at Feehanville School, and Jim Ackley, principal at the River Trails Junior High School, to other positions in the district.

"The principal transfers were obviously disruptive. But the choice there seemed reasonable to the board then," one official explained.

In fact, at that time all the board members except Ted Wattenberg were new to the board and none had any cause to question Warden's judgment as superintendent.

According to board sources, Warden recommended the principal transfers because of a question of "administrative competence."

Though both principals protested the reassignments at first, they both decided to acquiesce after the board granted them each a private hearing.

THE PRIVATE hearings did nothing to change the situation, however. Miss Amundson was subsequently transferred from her first assignment at the River Road School to teaching a self-contained classroom at the River Trails Junior High School. Ackley stayed at his reassignment as director of district resource centers. After Warden's resignation, he was reassigned as principal, this time at Feehanville School.

Ackley said he thought his transfer was not motivated out of any personal problems with Warden. "He just didn't think I was the man for the junior high," he explained. "But that's the superintendent's prerogative. I think the board played it as a board should. You hire the superintendent to run the schools. If you want to run the schools, you get rid of the superintendent."

Teacher dissatisfaction with lack of progress on negotiations was also beginning to bother the board, according to one source. The problem was "the fact that nobody was addressing themselves to the question of where we were and what lack of progress there was," the source said. "When you get that kind of dissatisfaction, there is usually a cause."

To stem the tide of teacher dissatisfaction, several board members decided to sit in on teacher negotiations themselves. About two weeks after school had started, teachers signed a contract with the board.

"IT WAS THE little things that really started to gnaw on people," a spokesman explained. "Letters not being written or sent out. There were a number of phone calls from people who'd been in the district a long time who were familiar with things. They didn't like the things they saw going on, the lack of results, and the problems that upset teachers that weren't being taken care of."

According to sources, Warden wasn't having problems with just the teachers and parents. As less administrative functions were getting done, Assistant Supt. James Retzlaff was finding it harder to deal with Warden, the spokesman said. "Retzlaff had a choice of keeping quiet or trying to get things done," said the source. "The more he tried to get things done, the more defensive Tom got, and the association deteriorated."

There had been rumors that Retzlaff was trying to undermine Warden as superintendent to catapult his own career. According to one informed board source, however, Retzlaff was just trying to do his job. "To show an example of his general attitude toward his trying to be reasonable and helpful, he (Retzlaff) suggested in the staffing plan this spring that he move over to a principalship," the source said. "And he volunteered to do that. Even at a reduction in pay."

ACCORDING TO sources, there was no one incident or incidents that led the board directly to act in the matter of the superintendent. "It's hard to say what brought it to a head. The board has to have confidence in a superintendent, but at what point does a board continue to accept answers that are not satisfying?" the source asked.

Without a doubt, however, the four-month delay of action on construction of a new roof at Feehanville School and problems with Arthur Adelberg, the principal at Feehanville who had a history of problems as a superintendent in Elmhurst Dist. 3, were instrumental in bringing about action by the board.

ing about action by the board.

"The main thing was what was happening to the district in terms of education," one spokesman explained. "The element that was probably most pronounced was that he didn't do the proper homework when handling Adelberg."

Also, the board apparently was beginning to think of Warden as much too abrasive for a school superintendent. "Early in this year, Tom really didn't have the greatest attitude towards the board," the source explained. "Really, it was something less than cooperative and respectful of people as people. Tom cannot conceive that he has any deficiencies. Everybody else is bad, at fault and wrong."

ASKED IF WARDEN'S problems in Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59 (he was transferred from the principalship of Forest View Elementary School by Supt. Don Thomas) figured in the board's decision at all, the board source said, "This board was de-tuned from 59 details. He (Warden) was evaluated, pure and simple, on what he did in Dist. 26."

Thomas reassigned Warden as curriculum coordinator for the district in 1971. Thomas later filed his resignation as superintendent.

Though the Dist. 26 board viewed Warden as "a hard guy to work with," there are those in Dist. 26 who worked with Warden and who felt just the opposite.

This is the straight dope:

'Kindergarten ain't that easy'

by REGINA OEHLE

Kindergarten ain't all that easy. You gotta learn to read — and do hard projects like drawing or making jack-o'-lanterns. But sometimes it's fun. You get to play with blocks and have milk and cookies.

And that description comes straight from the horse's mouth. Nineteen first graders gave the Herald firsthand information on what to tell kids just starting kindergarten.

ALL NINETEEN agreed on one thing — "You gotta listen to the teacher." If you don't, you get into trouble. You might even get sent to Mr. Stine, said Frank Severino, a first grader at Maple School.

John Stine is the school's principal. If you're "real, real bad," said Rhonda Davitt, of Stevenson School, "you get kicked out of school. Then there's no more friends to be with during the day and your mom would be real upset."

What you should do besides listen to the teacher is work hard, all 19 said. "Work as hard as you can to get A's so your mother will be proud of you," said Brentwood School student Sandra Fukuya.

"If you don't work," warned Miltra Khazal, Stevenson, "You'll get a note to your parents."

WHEN ASKED WHAT advice he would give, Daniel Falotica, of Brentwood, said "stay in school." If you try to sneak out, said Stevenson School student Peter Cannon, "you'll get into big trouble. Your teacher will call home."

"When you're in the playground for recess outside never try and sneak away," said Maple School student Frank Severino. "You get into big trouble 'cause it shows on your report card," he added. "They'll clobber you, man," as soon as that report card gets home.

The first graders also gave more specific "don't's."

- "Don't scribble in your writing book and don't go on the swings if the've got water under them," said Mary Francis Concepcion, Brentwood. "You'll get your shoes wet and catch a cold, then have to stay away from school a week or two and get a bad report card."

- You shouldn't cheat in math or reading, said Brian Gorny, also of Brentwood.

- Don't get to school real, real late, said Peter Cannon, Stevenson. "Then you have to do your work at lunchtime."
- "Never go into the washroom when the teacher's planning the work 'cause then you don't know what to do," said Daniel Blanco, Maple.

- "Don't go on the school roof after school because you might fall off," said Harry Decker, Brentwood.

- Don't scream in the hall because other kids in their rooms are working, said Paul Carbakal, Stevenson. He also advises pre-kindergartners not to fight, run or steal.

- "Work hard," was the only comment Lori Delzer, Brentwood, made.

- "You should listen to the teacher and not talk back to her," advised David Royal, Brentwood.

- "When school's over don't fool around and don't go home. Because then, your mom might get worried and call your dad and you get into trouble," said Peter Kourtis, Maple. He also said you shouldn't walk down the middle of the street. "Maybe your teacher will catch you and take you to your mom or you might get sent to the principal."
- (for boys) Don't bite the girls and don't hit them, said Amy Lower, Maple. She said she'd advise her brother, who hasn't started school yet, to "shut up and keep his mouth closed."

- Don't go into the puddles if it's a rainy day, said Cathy Tierney, Brentwood.
- You should wear a dress so you look pretty, said Jackie Gross, Maple. Never go out into the street after a ball, she added; always tell the teacher.

"KINDERGARTEN can be hard," Kanee Oda summed up. "Sometimes you're shy when you meet other people. It's hard to go to school when it's the first time."

Brian Meyerowitz sympathized. He said the first five days he went to nursery school, he refused to get on the bus by himself. When his mom brought him with the car, he simply refused to get out of the car. But after those first traumatic days, he "loved it."

Was it worth it? "Now we know how to read real good," Rhonda said.

"GO TO SCHOOL and learn," was Brian Meyerowitz's advice to children just starting kindergarten. "You should be good," he added. "Because if you aren't, you get into trouble."

You might have to go to the office and sit there, or get your name put on the bulletin board and stay after school.

Curbs taking 'bang' out of Fourth?

by JOE SWICKARD

The boom and bang that traditionally greeted Independence Day may be a thing of the past.

Earlier this year, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission proposed a ban on almost all fireworks.

Should the proposed banning come to pass, the explosive souvenirs of Southern vacations would no longer plague police departments.

Capt. Maurice English, of the Arlington Heights police department, said the main source of the illegal fireworks is families returning from trips to states where the explosives still are legal.

"Every year right after Easter vacation we start getting more calls about kids with fireworks. They buy them in Florida or Georgia and bring them back here. Or the father buys a bag of firecrackers for the kids," he said.

THE ONLY restriction on fireworks nationwide currently is a ban on anything that contains an explosive charge in excess of two grains.

This makes cherry bombs and giant firecrackers illegal. However, they continue to be available on a bootleg basis. There is some doubt that even the proposed ban would eliminate this market entirely.

Firecracker fans have begun petitions to the commission to protest the proposals.

One petition signed by 70 persons, mostly from Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Mississippi, said it had been a "tradition since the founding of our nation to celebrate Independence Day with the booming of cannons and the display and shooting of fireworks."

"Let us not lose any more of our dwindling freedoms," the petitioners wrote.

ILLINOIS LAW prohibits devices that explode or are propelled by explosions. Local ordinances are closely patterned after the state law. Sparklers also are on the wrong side of the statute.

However, many neighboring states permit the sale of firecrackers, skyrockets and bottle rockets. Travelers returning from Missouri, Kentucky and Indiana often bring along a few items to enliven the neighborhood on a quiet night.

Despite reports of roadside stands selling fireworks just across the border in Indiana, the Illinois State Police make no special surveillance of Illinois residents stocking up the contraband.

"If we stop a car and the devices are found, naturally we'll take the appropriate action. But we don't keep a steady watch for them coming back," a spokesman for the state police said.

Area police departments report that fireworks are being confiscated from juveniles, but in no greater numbers than usual. Most cases involve a youth with a few packets of small firecrackers.

ALTHOUGH rockets, "crackers" and sparklers are illegal in Illinois, residents can celebrate with smoking and flashing items that look just like the real thing.

Some local stores stock a number of devices similar in appearance to the tiny bombs. "Magic glowworms," "snakes," and caps are offered for sale at the check-out counter.

Other items offered for sale carry warnings to use under adult supervision in emergency cases only. Directions for one smoke cartridge states, "Light and get away."

No matter what regulations become law, it is doubtful the Fourth ever will be celebrated with a whimper instead of a bang.

Sander taken from tow truck

Thieves stole an auto body sander valued at $83 late Wednesday, police said.

The tool was taken from a tow truck outside the house of Paul Sternberg, 1184 River Rd., according to police.

Sternberg told police he saw a white-and-orange convertible sitting in his driveway and noticed the sander missing from his truck when he went outside to investigate after the car had pulled away.

Drum & bugle corps kick off July 4 gala

Independence Day celebrations begin about 7:30 p.m. tonight at "Music In Motion" drum and bugle corps competition in Maine West High School's football stadium, Howard Street and Wolf Road.

Marching units from four states and Canada will compete.

Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

Fourth of July parade kickoff will be at noon.

On IIT list

Thomas Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wilson, 1035 Walnut, Des Plaines, has been named to the Dean's List at Illinois Institute of Technology for academic achievement during the previous semester.

Wilson was one of 671 students named to the IIT Dean's List for attaining a grade point average of 3.0 or higher, based on a 4.0 scale.

July 4 parade combines talent, music—and luck

parade. Civil Defense personnel must be co-ordinated. Nothing can be thrown from floats.

- That "there's no rain." Only one storm has thundered on parades Kaitschuck has organized. "It rained in the middle of a parade, about four or five years ago. We just kept right on going."

The Chamber is insured against losses if the drum corps competition is rained out. More than $5,000, including drum corps prizes and expenses, are tied-up in the parade. Adult $1.50 and children's 75 cent tickets to "Music In Motion" will offset the parade expenses.

If it rains, the "expensive" insurance will backup the guarantees. Kaitschuck looked yesterday for rainfall measures because more than two-tenths of an inch, falling during performance hours is minimum to collect on the insurance.

"Parades are a gamble," Kaitschuck said. "If it rains, you're out of luck. You can't reschedule a parade."

"Nine out of ten times there are deletions or additions" to the parade line-up, he said. Final marching instructions were mailed a week go. "We've had 18 or 19 changes since then."

The marching orders include numbered cards to be carried in front of each unit. "Sometimes two units get the same number. If you don't have firm control, you won't have a parade."

"THE IDEA IS TO give people the most enjoyment possible," Kaitschuck said. "We want to give them the nicest thing we can."

"I think there's satisfaction" in organizing the parade. "There's a great deal of satisfaction when you look around — when you see people watching, getting a kick out of something they see or hear."

Walker austerity budget may force veto

Will 'breakthrough' education bills get go-ahead?

by KATHY BOYCE

The Illinois General Assembly scored a "revolutionary breakthrough" in education legislation last weekend as it wound up its current session, according to Rep. Eugene Chapman, R-Arlington Heights.

Three bills, granting "what educators have been asking for years," were passed by the General Assembly and sent to Gov. Daniel Walker.

They call for an appointed state board of education, a new state aid formula for schools that attempts to equalize the amount of aid given to all schools in Illinois, and a school construction bill that finances up to 70 per cent of the cost of new school buildings in elementary and secondary school districts.

The fate of these bills still is in question as they await Walker's signature. The governor has announced an austerity budget for state funds, cutting back the amount of aid to schools and may be forced to veto several bills to stay within his proposed budget. "I feel very sympathetic with the governor," Mrs. Chapman said. "He doesn't have a money machine."

THE BILL calling for an appointed state board of education, replacing the elected office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction, is the "first major implementation of our new state constitution," Mrs. Chapman said. The Constitution calls for an appointed board of education, governing public schools in Illinois when the term of State Supt. Michael Bakalis expires in January 1975.

The bill provides for a 17 man board of education appointed by the governor. Eight members would be appointed from the first judicial district in Cook County, two members from the other four Illinois judicial districts and one member appointed at large. The board would appoint a superintendent from among its members.

The governor has said publicly that he favors a mixed board, with part of the members elected and part appointed, Mrs. Chapman said. She said supporters of the bill hope to convince Walker to sign the new law. Mrs. Chapman said she is optimistic that the governor will approve the bill because it "improves education in the state without the expenditure of much additional funds."

"I believe educational groups are in support of this bill," Mrs. Chapman said. The Illinois Association of School Boards, the Illinois Parent Teachers Association, and the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce all favor it. "I think it is an excellent bill. I believe that appointment by the governor is much preferred because it gives an opportunity for a broad range of members on the board," Mrs. Chapman said, adding she hopes businessmen, farmers, labor leaders and former school board members will be named to the board.

THE LEGISLATURE also passed a new formula for figuring the amount of state aid to be given to local school districts, changing a formula that has been in effect since 1928. The formula, part of the resource equalizer bill sponsored by Rep. Gene Hoffman, R-Elmhurst, guarantees a school the amount of money its property tax rate would raise if it had a high property valuation set by the formula.

The bill would eliminate disparities between school districts with high property valuation and those with low valuations. According to Hoffman almost every school district in the state would profit from the new formula, which will be phased into existence over a four-year period. The bill would increase state aid by about $139 million next year.

"All school superintendents in our area favor the measure," Mrs. Chapman said. "I am convinced it will help our area get our fair share of the state dollars and will help the taxpayer because it will roll back property taxes." She said the bill is an alternate formula that schools may choose if they do not wish to use the present formula. No schools will receive more than 25 per cent of the state aid increase guaranteed to them during the first year the formula is in operation, she said. Most school districts in the Northwest suburbs will come close to the 25 per cent mark, Mrs. Chapman said.

SCHOOLS in the Northwest suburbs also will get a boost from another state-aid bill passed by the House last week and by the Senate early Sunday. The Dual-Unit Equality bill, or DUE bill, will be tacked on to the state aid formula to eliminate the inequity of funds given to dual and unit school districts.

According to the present formula, unit districts with kindergarten through twelfth grade receive more money than dual districts where elementary and high schools are administered separately. State officials say the DUE bill will cost $57 million, about 42 per cent of the $134 million in Walker's budget that has been set aside for increases in state aid to schools.

Bakalis has opposed both the DUE bill and the resource equalizer bill. Walker has spoken in favor of DUE and has said he hopes the state aid formula can be simplified.

The school construction bill will be a boon to school districts with growing enrollments. Under the bill the state will pay up to 70 per cent of the costs of constructing a new school and also provide partial funding for school remodeling. According to Mrs. Chapman, schools that issued bonds in 1969 or after for new school construction can receive state money for payment on the interest and principal of these bonds.

NEW SCHOOLS are now constructed entirely with local funds. In instances where a school has spent money to the limit of their legal bonded indebtedness, the state grants a loan for construction of new schools, which the district pays back over a period of years. Schaumburg High School in High School Dist. 211 is an example of a school that was financed entirely with state money.

Under the new Constitution, the state has primary responsibility for funding education, and the school construction bill removes some of the burden from the local school district. "Now 100 per cent of the cost is at the doorstep of the local taxpayer," Mrs. Chapman said.

Elk Grove Village man gets year for tax count

A 50-year-old Elk Grove Village man was sentenced to a year in prison and a $10,000 fine Friday after he was found guilty of failing to file an income tax return for the year 1967.

The man, Bartholomew Walsh, 1388 Westdale Ave., also was ordered to pay the cost of prosecution by Federal Court Judge Julius Hoffman, who imposed the maximum allowable sentence on Walsh.

Walsh had pleaded guilty June 8 to one count in a two-count indictment. He was taken into custody immediately after the sentencing to begin serving his sentence.

The sentencing was announced by U.S. Atty. James R. Thompson and Roger C. Beck, district director of the Internal Revenue Service.

A spokesman for Beck said Walsh previously worked for his brother, Jack Walsh, a plumbing contractor, who currently is serving a four-year sentence for income tax evasion and failing to file a return.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON — The U.S. capital, where prestige is next to godliness, if not two lengths in front, now has a new status symbol.

The latest mark of distinction is the White House list of President Nixon's top 20 political enemies. As revealed at the Watergate hearings.

Being on the White House enemy list is not exactly tantamount to winning a Nobel Prize. But among administration critics, it suddenly has become a highly coveted badge of honor.

Those who made the list must now be recognized as superstars of the anti-Nixon forces. They're basking in glory that comes from being singled out as doing more than anyone else to get under the President's skin.

THOSE WHO didn't make the list are burning with envy and asking themselves what they did wrong.

At some point in time, to borrow the favorite Watergate expression, did they accidentally say something the President liked? Somewhere along the line did they make a mistake and picture him in a favorable light?

Such questions are now haunting some of Nixon's most steadfast detractors. And I would be less than candid if I did not report that some of the losers have traces of sour grapes in their spleens.

"This is another example of how unfair the White House can be," one labor leader with a built-in anti-Nixon bias complained.

"Leonard Woodcock of the Auto Workers Union can't hold a candle to me when it comes to disparaging administration policies. Yet the White House puts him on the list and leaves me off."

I SAID, "Are you suggesting that the omission was a deliberate attempt by the White House to make it appear that your criticism doesn't have much sting?"

"That's exactly what I'm suggesting. I've built my reputation on my opposition to the President."

"What are the members of my union going to think when they see that list and discover that the White House didn't regard me as one of his 20 top enemies?"

"I'll tell you what's going to happen — they're going to start wondering if maybe I was soft on Nixon — if maybe I was pulling my punches when I pretended to be in there slugging."

I said, "I'll admit it makes you look bad. But I can't believe that leaving you off the list was part of a conspiracy or anything like that."

The union man's face darkened. "Why not?" he demanded. "We know from the Watergate testimony that they were cooking up all sorts of dirty tricks. Whoever drew up that enemy list definitely was out to get me."

topic of conference

"Senior Citizens and Community Service" will be the subject of the second Green Turnip symposium at Oakton Community College, 7000 N. Nagle, Morton Grove, July 24, at 8 p.m.

State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, and W. Russell Harris, assistant professor of sociology at Oakton, will speak. Dorothy Oliver, city editor of the Des Plaines Herald, will serve as moderator.

The program will focus on discussions of shared resources within the community, according to Harvey S. Irlen, group chairman at Oakton. The symposium is coordinated with a special college curriculum called the Green Turnip Survival Seminars Program.

A panel from the Mayer Kaplan Senior Adult Center of the Bernard Horwich Jewish Community Center will keynote the discussion. They are Matt Rottner, former union organizer, Bernard Libby, former high school teacher, and Sarah Hayden, art teacher.

The curriculum of the Green Turnip seminars, which began this summer with philosophy and humanities courses, investigates the problem of survival as a central theme in liberal arts. For information about the seminars during the fall term, contact Irlen, at 967-5120, Ext. 310.

Potential mail fraud victims get $6 million back

More than $6 million was restored to potential victims of mail frauds during a recent nine-month period, Postmaster Robert J. Proebstle reported.

Proebstle said he had been advised by the chief postal inspector and Assistant Postmaster Gen. William J. Cotter that postal inspection service enforcement activities resulted in $6,222,060 in restitutions to those victimized by mail frauds. The report covered the first three quarters of the current fiscal year.

"The report shows it is worthwhile for those who have good reason to conclude they have been the victim of a scheme to defraud in which the mails were used to report the facts to the post office," the postmaster said.

The restitutions resulted from 3,630 promotions that were discontinued largely on inspection service action. Restitutions ordered by the courts totaled $2,853,528; "voluntary" restitutions totaled $2,009,708 and an additional $1,359,428 resulted from other recoveries.

Included in the 12,000 or more mail fraud investigations completed each year by postal inspectors, Proebstle said, "are those based on complaints from postal customers who allege failure to receive merchandise or promised refunds from mail order firms. Not all such failures or broken promises indicate a scheme to defraud, but may, in fact, be merely the result of poor business practices."

"However, when a postal customer cannot obtain satisfaction through his own efforts," Proebstle added, "he should not just write his transaction off as a loss. Return of his money is possible in some cases."

The Doctor Says...by Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Start off slowly when using an exercise bicycle to avoid strain

Dear Dr. Lamb — With all the emphasis on exercising today, I feel my husband and I do not get enough of it. We bought an exercising bike. What I would like to know is, how can we go about it. I mean, how much time to start with, and how should we increase the time. I have started with five minutes three times a day. Am I overdoing it?

Dear Reader — There isn't any set rule for this. It also depends a lot on the type of exercise bicycle you're using. Some are fixed so you can adjust the tension on the wheel and thereby increase the load. People who are in reasonably good physical condition to start with can obviously begin at a higher level than those who are unaccustomed to any significant amounts of physical exercise. In general, and it has to be simply a general rule of thumb for the person I have not seen and not been able to examine or know what his exercise history is, I suggest that he start at a very low level. Of course, if he already has any medical problems he is aware of, he should talk to the doctor before beginning any exercise program.

For the individuals who appear to be in good health and have just not had any significant amounts of exercise, I usually suggest that they start bicycling for three to five minutes at a speed which is comfortable for them and at a tension which doesn't create very much stress on the legs.

THAT IS, IT should be comfortable and well within the capacity of the person without any strain. Then, the amount of exercise can be increased about a minute a week. Always make certain to stay within a comfortable speed and tension on the wheel and never exercise at a rate that makes you feel that the legs are working too hard or that it causes the heart to beat too fast.

If you want to take your heart rate while you're exercising, you can usually do it. For medically unsupervised exercise you should try to keep your heart rate below 120 beats per minute while exercising. If the exercise effort causes your heart to beat any faster than this, you are either pumping too fast or the tension has been turned too tight on the exercise bicycle.

EXERCISE BICYCLES are fine because they can be placed in front of the television set. Individuals who spend much time in front of the television set are the very ones who often need the exercise, and the exercise should be something besides reaching for potato chips and dip or, just as bad, bending the elbow. It also provides a way of occupying yourself while you're doing exercise.

Pedaling at a very slow rate without any heavy load on the bicycle during your favorite television program is a good way to program a daily exercise activity. Exercise done during the evening newscast, for example, combines keeping you well informed and keeping you in shape.

Exercise bicycles also have the advantage of eliminating the jarring effect that sometimes occurs with jogging and running type programs. They can also be used by individuals who have balance problems but are still able to do some exercise. Then, of course, they can be used in all kinds of weather indoors.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

The Stayman convention has reached rubber bridge players. North used it correctly and South found himself in a good game contract.

West opened the king of diamonds. East played the deuce. He wasn't going to waste his ace or jack and West shifted to the jack of clubs.

This gave South a chance to make an overtrick. All South had to do was play three rounds of clubs in order to get rid of dummy's last diamond, start the hearts and wind up with a cross-ruff for 11 tricks.

South didn't quite get around to that. He won the first club in dummy; played three rounds of trumps; did discard that last diamond on his good clubs and then attacked hearts. Unfortunately it was too late. East took his ace of hearts and led his last club. South had to ruff in dummy and eventually lost his last two diamonds.

Incidentally, while South could have made an overtrick he should have settled for four after the club shift by attacking hearts immediately. He couldn't be sure that clubs would go around three times.

Wheeling 'bloops' Post 208 to 9-1 consolation defeat

by HERALD SPORTS STAFF

Best news from Wheeling's Legion Tournament is that Elgin and Northbrook have already accepted bids for next year, bringing the total to six teams with two more expected.

From that standpoint, the weekend games at Wheeling were a success as Barrington and Thornton will also return. A dampener was early elimination of Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

Arlington Post 208 surrendered four runs in the final inning, losing its opener, 6-5, to Thornton. Wheeling lost, 5-4, to Barrington.

That dropped both locals into the consolation bracket, Wheeling dominating Arlington, 9-1, on Sunday. Thornton won the title, 2-0, over Barrington. Both runs scored after two outs in the sixth.

"Very definitely, we would have liked to have seen our local teams in the finals. But they didn't win their ballgames and that's the way she goes," said Gene Sackett, Ninth District commissioner.

Sackett said next year's expanded tourney will be held on approximately the same dates, late in June.

Thornton and Barrington battled through five scoreless innings in the title game. Losing pitcher Eldridge had two outs in the sixth when Thornton hit him for three doubles and a single.

The winning pitcher for Thornton was Toff who struck out 11 batters and gave just four hits.

HOSTS TAKE CONSOLATION, 9-1
Wheeling didn't exactly wear out any baseballs in Sunday's consolation title game of its own tournament.

Arlington Post 208 had to be worn out, however, Coach Lloyd Meyer's young men had to chase down 15 Post 1968 hits, most of them bloopers or infield singles.

Still, it matters not how the hits fell in. It's the score that counts.

When Wheeling pitcher Terry Kukla had retired the final hitter, the battle between Ninth District teams saw coach Bob Grybasz's team winning, 9-1. The victors were glad to accept the win, so-called talented runs and all.

The game started out to be a pitcher's battle with Wheeling able to score only once in the first two innings off starter and loser Mark Blasco. Ron Henricks provided the damage with an RBI single.

Post 1968 went up 3-0 in the third on run-scoring singles by George Kange and Keith Steelman. However, when Arlington bounced back with one in the top of the fourth — an RBI double by Rick Sidor — it looked like Post 208 was ready to make a game of it.

Wheeling's pesky bats and Kukla's steady pitching didn't allow such a comeback. Kukla threw hitless ball after the fourth, finishing with a two-hitter, four strikeouts and four scattered walks.

In the bottom of the fourth, Wheeling snuffed out Arlington's hopes. Ten men came to the plate as five hits, two Arlington errors and six runs were recorded. Chalking up the RBIs were Kukla, Steelman and John Theriault. The latter hit the longest shot of the day — a line drive double to center that scored two.

Mark Leonhard blanked Post 1968 over the last two innings, but they still managed to threaten twice and stung Arlington's big right-hander for three hits, including a double by Bob Burke.

Steelman paced both teams with 3-for-3.

SEVENTH KILLS POST 208

Thornton's four-run seventh, on just two hits off Tom Good, threw Arlington Heights into the Sunday consolation game against Wheeling which had lost to Barrington.

Arlington Post 208 took a 5-2 lead into the last inning against Thornton but came away 6-5 losers. Good was the losing pitcher. He relieved Dan Cunningham who pitched six innings, yielding two runs and five hits.

Good had one man out plus a runner at first when the roof caved in. A double, walk, double and wild pitch sent four runners scurrying home to end the game.

Arlington trickled two scoring chances through its hands in the early going so after three innings, Thornton led, 1-0. That run came on a double and single off Cunningham in the first.

Post 208 should have gone ahead big early. In the first, five men batted, all reaching base and none scoring when a double play helped Thornton.

In the second, Alie Weicher got around to third after two outs but Cunningham flied out.

Arlington bunched five runs in the fourth through sixth to take a commanding 5-2 lead. Thornton added its second run in the fourth when Rick Sidor and Cunningham erred and the latter tossed a wild pitch.

Greg Hauptly opened Arlington's fourth by striking out. But after a John Dillon single, Dar Townsend homered for a 2-1 lead. Thornton tied it in the home fourth.

Mike Broderick's one-out homer in the fifth put Arlington back on top, 3-2. George Vukovich, who singled and stole second, came home on Hauptly's basehit.

In the sixth, Bruce Hanson doubled, reached third on the catcher's error and scored on Townsend's single. Two batters went out before Weicher doubled Townsend to third. Cunningham grounded out to end that threat.

Cunningham struck out five and walked five in six innings. Good retired no batters.

WHEELING SLIPS, 5-4

Wheeling blew an early 4-0 lead and skidded into the consolation bracket when a five-run fifth by Barrington shelved host Post 1968, 5-4.

Wheeling trotted eight men to the plate as they scored three times in the first inning, but Keith Steelman's leadoff double in the third was their last hit. The only Wheeling baserunner after Steelman was John Theriault. He reached when Barrington catcher Harry Moore dropped Theriault's third strike.

Post 1968 starter Bob Peter struggled, giving up 16 hits and barely escaping harm in the second and fourth before Barrington exploded for its five-run rally. Left fielder George Kange drilled a perfect throw to nail a Barrington runner at the plate in the second, and the winners stranded two runners in scoring position in the fourth inning.

In the fifth, however, Barrington teed off on Peter. After a strikeout, Kevin Fromm and Mike Felt singled and Mark Heyse drew a walk to fill the bases. John Pratt then worked the count to 3-2 before coaxing another walk to force one in.

After the second out, third baseman Bob Burke committed an error that let in another run and kept the bases loaded. Then Moore lined a shot to left which eluded Kange's dive and went to the fence. Moore was thrown out at third but his hit cleared the bases and gave Barrington all the runs it needed.

Wheeling took a 3-0 lead in the first when Jeff Brisson walked and scampered all the way to third on John Theriault's sacrifice bunt. Brisson scored when Kange beat out an infield hit. Then Steelman lined a single to right and Terry Kukla was hit by a pitch to jam the bases. Henricks forced Kange at home but Pat McGinn singled up the middle to drive in two.

Wheeling scored its other run in the third when Steelman doubled, advanced to third on an infield out and tallied on Henricks' sacrifice fly.

John Koenen got the win for Barrington, fanning seven.

Name these players to win Arnie or Lee

Area golf enthusiasts had a rare treat last week — Arnold Palmer and Leo Trevino were in town.

Neither won the Midlothian Country Club hosted Western Open, but both commanded the largest galleries most of the time.

Meanwhile, most of the other touring pros moved through the milling crowds almost incognito. Few asked for their autographs; hundreds strained to get Arnie's and Lee's.

Now you can have those much sought-after signatures of these two greats by simply telling us who these other golfers are in the Herald Sports Department's "Name the Pros" contest.

Simply identify all or as many as you can of this magnificent seven and a framed 8 by 10 action shot of Arnie or Lee is yours.

There will be two winners — one for each picture. The one with the earliest postmark receives first choice.

In case of a tie, the post mark again will be used to break the deadlock.

In addition to the framed, autographed photograph, the two winners will also be pictured in the Herald with their prizes.

The contest won't run very long, so get your guesses in soon. Just write the name of the golfer next to the number given by his picture. Send your postcard or letter to:

Lions sweep Norwood Park

Logan Square limited visiting Norwood Park to one run in each game and raised its league record to 3-5 with a doubleheader sweep by scores of 8-1 and 2-1 in Sunday Ninth District legion action.

The superb pitching jobs were turned in by Mike Cook, with relief help from Paul Kastner and Bob Wagner, in the opener, and Jim Miller in the nightcap. Miller's impressive showing highlighted the afternoon, as he struck out a fabulous total of 15 Norwood Park batsmen.

Miller surrendered a run in the top of the first on his only walk of the game and a couple singles. From there he settled back, scattering four hits and staying out of trouble.

Logan Square's two runs were unearned. The Lions tied the game at 1-1 in the third when Tom Chapman walked and raced to third when the Norwood catcher made a throwing error on Mark Rickerson's sacrifice bunt. Bob Foster singled him in.

It remained 1-1 until the last of the sixth, when Steve Bobowski walked, Stan Bobowski singled him to second, both moved up on a balk, and Steve tallied the winning run when the second baseman booted Jim Bucaro's routine grounder.

The Bobowski brothers collected three hits apiece to pace the Lions to an 8-1 shellacking over Norwood in the opener.

After Steve's triple down the right-field line and Stan's RBI double made it 1-0 in the first inning, Logan Square sailed the game away in the third. Ed Collins walked and stole second before Steve Bobowski got a base hit. Jim Bucaro delivered a run-scoring single and another run scored when Tom Chapman's infield popup got lost in the sun and fell safely.

Mark Hartley drove in two more runs with a base hit between short and third to cap the uprising.

In the fourth, Steve Bobowski singled again and stole second prior to Paul Kastner's base hit up the middle, which scored Bobowski.

Logan Square's two errors both occurred in the fifth inning and paved the way for Norwood Park's only run. Mike Cook went the first five innings with four strikeouts and no walks before exiting.

Kastner pitched the sixth and Bob Wagner handled the seventh with no damage.

Prospect wins pair of 1-run decisions

Mount Prospect American Legionnaires continued their feast against non-league competition Sunday with a doubleheader sweep against visiting Genoa, 5-4 in the opener and 3-2 in the nightcap.

The twin victories upped Mount Prospect's overall record to 9-4, but it remains .500 in Ninth District action at 2-2.

The double one-run decisions were determined by different methods. Prospect notched the opener by erupting for all five runs in the first two innings and coasting to the decision while coach Merv Fink's club spotted Genoa a 2-0 edge in the finale before rallying for two in the fifth and the winner in the sixth to ball out a 3-2 tussle.

Gordy Johnson was beneficiary of the winner's first-game uprising and nailed down the triumph. The Prospectors took advantage of a streak of wildness in the first frame that found Ken Butzen, Bob Chen, Dale Schoenbeck and Rick Haanung all aboard via walks that produced the game's first run.

Another tally crossed on a fielder's choice and a third on a balk before Randy Sherpin ripped a single. Genoa jumped right back into contention in the top of the second with a pair of scores off a hit batsman, a walk and three singles.

Mount Prospect matched the feat with two of their own in the second as Butzen singled, Chen reached on a boot at second, Schoenbeck cracked a base hit and Haanung belted a double.

Three walks and a double by Genoa in the sixth brought the visitors within one, but Mount Prospect hung on to preserve the nervous triumph.

A batch of errors got Mount Prospect in trouble in the nightcap as they handed Genoa a 2-0 advantage on a trio of misplays in the second and fourth frames.

But Mount Prospect hurler Jim Ennsle shook off the pair of unearned failings and slammed the door on Genoa over the final three innings and watched his teammates rally for the victory.

Prospect deadlocked the count in the bottom of the fifth on a walk, an error and singles by Loren Crites and Jim Laing and pushed the winner across one inning later on Sherpin's base hit, a sacrifice by Neil Schmidt and Schoenbeck's pinch hit.

Ennsle, displaying consistent control, walked only a pair while retiring six on strikes to notch the verdict. Mount Prospect will play its Ninth District chase tonight against pace-setting Arlington Heights at Recreation Park.

Northbrook nips Wheeling

Handicapped by the absence of several starters, Wheeling's Legion baseball team dropped a 5-3 decision to Northbrook on the winners' diamond Friday night.

Wheeling bunched all its runs in the fifth inning, but managed only one other hit throughout the contest. Pat McGinn led off the big fifth with a two-base hit. A walk to Casey Frankiewicz and a single loaded the bases.

Sal Floretti pinch hit for starting pitcher Gordon Nelson by flying out to right, all runners holding. Leadoff man John Theriault then drew a walk, forcing in a run. John Slack drove in the other two when he stroked a single. A strikeout and a fly ball ended the inning.

That rally had given Wheeling a 3-2 advantage but Northbrook scored three more times in the sixth to sew up the victory. The winners collected five hits to Wheeling's four.

Wheeling got men as far as second base only twice other than in their scoring inning. Terry Kukla led off the second with a double but was stranded there. Walks to Floretti and Theriault with one out in the seventh gave Wheeling one final hope of pulling it out, but Slack and Ron Henricks both went down on strikes to snuff out the threat.

Six-nation tourney

U.S. hockey to Leningrad

The first annual World Junior Hockey Championships will be held December 27-January 7 in Leningrad, U.S.S.R., with the United States entry to be composed of players from the six-team Midwest Junior Hockey League (MJHL).

Robert Fleming, vice president of the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States, sanctioning body for American international competition, called the United States participation a "significant step in committing the U.S. to playing on a junior level (ages 18-20) in recognized world amateur competition."

Fleming, also chairman of the U. S. Olympic Ice Hockey Committee, said it's likely the junior program will contribute substantially to U.S. development for the 1976 Games.

Six MJHL franchises include the Chicago Nordiques, based at Randhurst in Mount Prospect.

Only one MJHL club, North Star Juniors, has support from the National Hockey League. They're aided by the Minnesota North Stars.

Other clubs include St. Paul (Minn.) Vulcans, St. Cloud (Minn.) Blues and Fargo (N.D.) Sugar Kings. The Thunder Bay Ontario Hurricanes are the MJHL's only Canadian team.

The United States will be joined by Canada, Russia, Finland, Sweden and Czechoslovakia in the six-nation field. The last four countries conduct European junior championships. The addition of the United States and Canada for the round-robin tournament makes it truly world-wide.

All except Canada are expected to field all-star teams. The Canadians will probably enter their national junior "A" teams, the Toronto Marlboros.

Murray Williamson, MJHL director and coach of four U.S. National and two Olympic teams, said there is "no doubt that future world play will be conducted in two spheres — amateur and professional."

Restricting international amateur competition to the junior level has many advantages, according to Williamson, special projects director for the Minnesota North Stars. The NHL is partially subsidizing the MJHL as part of its player development program.

"Most important, it will do away with arguments about who's pro and who's amateur because there will be only one criteria — age. Secondly, it will make International rivalry more exciting and appealing to spectators because the competition is bound to be more even than in the past with some countries fielding what amounted to professional teams."

There is a strong possibility, Williamson revealed, that a United States city will be site of the 1975 championships.

He said that negotiations are being held for an exchange series this fall between the United States and Sweden.

Four Swedish teams are under consideration which would have the Swedes playing one or two games here against each of the six MJHL clubs. The MJHL would send an all-star team to Sweden.

Several cities already are interested in joining the MJHL next season, according to the league president Ken Austin of Owatonna, Minn. They are Detroit, Mich.; Rochester, Minn.; and St. Louis, Mo.

Selections for the U.S. world junior championship team will start the first week in September at a tryout site in Minnesota. Final selections for the 20-man squad will be made after two months of league play. Teams are scheduled to open practice the last week in September.

Billy Casper—a winner, 'Ryder' again

by ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO (UPI) — Billy Casper was trying hard to make the Ryder Cup golf team and suddenly won the Western Open.

Casper thought his chance for the $35,000 first prize in the $175,000 tournament had disappeared after he missed a two-foot putt on the 12th hole and thereby lost a stroke to leader Bruce Crampton.

"I thought that was it as far as my winning the championship, but I felt I still had a chance to make the Ryder Cup team and I continued to play hard," Casper said.

He got his stroke back with a 10-foot birdie putt on the next green and on the 16th, he went in front after a "most unusual situation."

"I hit a very bad drive to the right, in the rough," he said. "I had an opening between a couple of trees. I worried mostly about a tree that was in front of me about 60 or 70 yards."

"I felt I couldn't reach the green, so I took a four wood. I hit it solid and it looked like I'd hit it right in front of the green," Casper said.

"When I walked up to it, it was Larry Hinson's ball that was in front of the green. Mine was right on," he said.

That one set up a birdie four and put him 12-under with two holes to go. He sank six-foot putts for par on the last two greens, finishing with a 69 and a 72-hole card of 272.

"I just closed my eyes on the last putt," he said. His finish was one stroke better than Hinson's and Hale Irwin's. They each earned $16,187.

Crampton, Hubert Green and J. C. Snead had 274s and got $7,233 for their efforts.

It was Casper's 49th win on the tour, but only his first in nearly two years. The prize boosted his total earnings to $1,377,723. It was his fourth Western title, the most for any player since Walter Hagen, who won it five times.

Arnold Palmer finished in a two-way tie for seventh place and Lee Trevino in a four-man bloc for 20th position.

Casper made the Ryder team for the seventh straight year. Others who made the squad, with most points after the Western, were:

Jack Nicklaus, Trevino, Tom Weiskopf, Gay Brewer, Lou Graham, Dave Hill, Tommy Aaron, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Homero Blancas, Palmer and J. C. Snead.

Road program will aid us

The recent plan outlined by Gov. Daniel Walker for improvement of secondary Illinois roads deserves the support of even Chicago suburbanites who are far removed from the rural roads of the state.

In his plan, the Governor called for spending $624 million in state and federal monies for various road projects in the state — many of them in downstate counties.

With some 646 miles of state roads slated for improvement the Governor rightly is paying some attention to roadways outside the immediate Chicago metropolitan area but still vital to the well being of the state.

Road programs in this state are nothing new, of course. In fact Republican Gov. Richard Ogilvie drew criticism for seeming to want to pave over the state with super highways.

While we disagree with the lemming-like approach of building highways for their own sake — the things seem to have a life of their own in the minds of the highway lobbyists — we like this latest attempt to improve Illinois' everyday roads.

Gov. Walker has called these roads the "home-to-work, farm-to-market" roads and anyone who has driven outside metropolitan Chicago can attest to the poor conditions of these avenues through the country.

Most roads in western Illinois are terrible. Bridges need work, potholes mar the pavement and the turns and twists are like something from another age.

If a line is drawn across the state from St. Louis to the Indiana line, most roads south of that line would be considered intolerable in most states of the Union.

Indeed, the lack of reliable secondary roads through most of Southern Illinois is a constant detriment to the area's economic revival.

Look at it this way: how often have you or a neighbor driven through Wisconsin, Michigan or Iowa and come back to comment on the poor roads in Illinois?

Home-to-work, farm-to-market roads are important to the state; they are just as important as the roads which bind the suburbs to the city's core.

Incidentally, the Governor has not forgotten us in his proposed road improvement plan. The use of $40.8 million in bond funds and $20.4 million in road fund money of the total amount will be set aside for road work on Chicago and Cook County projects.

We in the suburbs and the city are fond of reminding Springfield that we have needs up here too which must be met by the state.

We are glad this time to send this message to the Governor's office: we recognize that helping downstate with its roads is important for all of us.

A new globe?

It's not that the shape of the world's changed but rather our way of looking at it.

Now there's a German historian named Arno Peters who believes the old flat way of looking at the world — the Mercator Projection, it's been called — must be discarded.

In its place, Peters has developed his own flat map, which, he says, will replace the "colonial distortions" of the Mercator Projection.

In the old map — you probably remember it best from grade school or high school — Greenland and North America are blown up to fantastic size. In real life, they're much smaller than they appear on the Mercator Projection.

Peters' map squeezes down the top and bottom of the traditional globe, in an attempt to make them conform with real sizes.

You see, Peters says developing nations have been cheated by the misrepresentation of their true size, and his map will correct that failing. He concedes, however, that Mercator's Projection is still the most reliable map for navigation (which was its primary purpose anyway).

Unchallenged for accuracy, however, is the old, familiar globe-shaped world we live on. However, one never knows what might be inside our globe. A giant wiretap, maybe?

Notre Dame's women

Notre Dame's first group of undergraduate women has completed its first year at the formerly all-male university.

Outnumbered 17-1, the 365 women registered a grade point average of 3.12 for the first term, compared with an overall university average of 2.94. The coeds also gave Notre Dame an above-passing grade.

In their responses to a survey, the women generally commented favorably about the predominantly male faculty, but the tendency of some teachers to single out women for a "feminine viewpoint" during class discussion drew criticism as being "patronizing."

There is nothing like a dame, but don't say it at Notre Dame or you'll get their fighting Irish up.

Fence post letters to the editor

Dorothy Meyer applauded

Dear Emanuel M. Star:

Upon reading your letter to Dorothy Meyer in the Herald's June 28 Fence Post, I was moved to write my first letter to the Fence Post, which I enjoy very much. Isn't it wonderful to live in a country where we are free to express our opinions on any subject? In being receptive to the expressions of others, we are better prepared to form our own opinions. Bravo Fence Post!

Now, regarding your letter, I must come to Dorothy Meyer's defense and say she is one of my favorite columnists. I really "break up" over her column which sends me on my way with a smile. As I recall Dorothy's column entitled "Linear Idiots confront meters," I am convinced it was not intended to be a lesson in arithmetic. Dorothy is a very witty humorist who uses the most delightful quality of humor, she pokes fun at herself. In her humor Dorothy exaggerates her dilemma over a situation, the metric system in this case, which is what makes it so hilarious.

I can relate with Dorothy, as my favorite hobby is baking and the anticipation of the imminent transformation to the metric system confounds me. Will I be forced to turn in my cups and ounces for liters and grams? What about those pinches and smidgens? Think of all of Grandma's recipes that will have to be rewritten. Alas, Mr. Star, I had better order a copy of "The Arithmetic Teacher."

Perhaps, though, if you reread Dorothy Meyer's column in light of the wit and humor she expresses you will enjoy it too.

Backs TV diversity

Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heisler of Mount Prospect for encouraging the Herald's reading public to "voice their opinions..." I will.

First, I would like to encourage them to assume the public is just that — a marvelous collection of diversity.

Second, my hearty "yes" to Mr. Friedman's "Steamboat" and to Channel 11, the Public Broadcasting Service, which I hope will continue its program diversity.

Third, and perhaps most important, the Heislars and I can offer our comments because of some basic protections we both endorse. So let the Heisler family — nay, everyone — continue to exercise yet another basic — choosing not to watch that which offends them. I'm sure they and I would not agree on other listings as well. I will be truly offended, however, if they cause my choice to be made without my consent. Let us all keep the Public Broadcasting Service public, not Heisler!

The Herald welcomes and encourages letters from readers. Letters are published in "The Fence Post" column; no anonymous mail is considered for publication, and we will not withhold names on request. Letters in excess of 300 words are subject to condensation. Direct your mail to Herald Fence Post, P. O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

Seeks bike path

I am becoming increasingly disturbed by bureaucrats' misplaced priorities when it comes to "protecting" the citizenry. For instance, a federal grant of $100,000 for a ticket blitz in Arlington Heights to make sure that the harried motorist obeys every rule. But what have we here? Out on Central Road at 7:30 every morning, youngsters riding bicycles teeter precariously on the edge of the road on their way to school, while drivers must pass these nervous cyclists with a wide arc. Often a stream of cars rides slowly behind a bike because of oncoming traffic and the realization that at any moment he could take a nasty spill, slipping off the edge onto the pitted gravel sides, or onto the road. Wouldn't it be great to have a bike path along the shoulder of Central, just a three foot wide strip of asphalt from Chestnut to Wilke? 2 feet? 1½ feet? Anything to get our kids off that road. Oh, what I wouldn't do for a piece of that $100,000 to buy something real, instead of harassing an already uptight motorist.

And while I'm on the periphery of the subject, although this should be another letter. Please, officer, let me turn left on Campbell and get out of town during rush hours instead of forcing me to remain in that snail-paced, stop-and-go traffic. The logic for no-left-turns escapes me when there is a four-way stop at every other corner anyway.

Mrs. Barbara Breitbell

'Evil forces' wreck schedule

Elizabeth Taylor Burton and I have something in common and no, it's not beautiful violet eyes, Richard, or money. We're always late. In a recent interview she said it's not artistic temperament or conceit or lack of consideration for others and that she means to be on time but something always happens.

I know exactly what she means. No matter what time I get up in the morning I am always precisely 11 minutes late getting to work.

One morning last week the alarm clock didn't go off mostly because I forgot to set it the night before, and I didn't wake up until seven minutes to eight when the cat sat on my head. And I made it to work by 8:11.

The next morning I got up at six o'clock — and didn't get to the office until 8:11.

The six o'clock idiocy was because I wanted to wash my hair and it wasn't until I had my head under the faucet that I realized it was a mistake. For a late active like me, getting up at any hour is a terrible way to have to start a day, but six o'clock is ridiculous. I may be on my feet but nothing functions, least of all the mind.

So there I was with my head in the sink, wondering why. As it gradually occurred to me that I was drowning I remembered that clean hair was the objective. "Clean," I thought, "that must mean a cleansing agent is required." And I reached for the scouring powder.

That's the way my mind works at six o'clock in the morning and how come getting up at six is no way for me to get to work on time. It's better to sleep until the cat sits on my head and panic sets in and adrenalin takes over.

However, cats and adrenalin are not all that reliable, so my usual routine regrettably includes the alarm clock, set for the semi-reasonable hour of 7:15. That leaves ample time to have a piece of toast, get dressed, brush my teeth and fix my face.

Except on days when evil forces are at work, which is daily Monday through Friday.

They hide one shoe, move my glasses from where I know I left them last night and steal my makeup. Once I tried making a list of where everything was the night before, but next morning I couldn't find the list.

On those rare occasions when everything goes well inside the house, everything goes wrong the minute I set foot outside the house. The milkman pulls up right in front of the driveway — only a couple minutes' delay, actually, — but that gives the garbage truck time to get in front of me and following a garbage truck for six blocks is another way to not get to work on time.

Then there's always the commuter trains. Living on one side of town and working on the other is the suburban version of living on the wrong side of the tracks and I do. But it's a fact of life and I'm used to it.

I'm so used to it that yesterday when I hit that magic moment when the crossing gates were up and the traffic lights were with me, I stopped anyway.

Today I'm going to get to work on time. I didn't go to bed last night.

Dorothy Meyer

Dear Dorothy Meyer:

I have enjoyed your column with my morning coffee for quite some time now. I just have to congratulate you on the combined subjects of Swinging and pay public toilets in your column on June 26. It was very clever and aptly done.

Another headline might well have been "Public relief stations — to free or not to free."

Keep up the good work — I enjoy my morning chuckle.

He defends Chief Centner

The recent revelations in Palatine dealing primarily with the demolition of Chief Centner have shocked and worried me.

The chief has given so many years of service to Palatine and this is all we can do to give him "the ax" just two years before retirement.

What now must be demanded of Mr. Jones and all the trustees is that they submit reports to the Herald showing exactly Centner's handicaps. I ask that they produce evidence showing Centner's slow actions in dealing with the vandalism. (Example: a chart showing increase of population in Palatine and on the chart a number of figures showing the vandalism climb in 1970 as compared to 1972 and how many of these cases were solved.) This type of chart also should deal with drug abuse and all the areas for which the chief was fired. If a chart cannot be made showing adequate evidence against the chief, then he must be reinstated, and Wendell Jones has plenty of explaining to do.

The citizens of Palatine demand honest, concise answers to unanswered questions.

Business Today

by EDWARD A. LECHTIN

DETROIT — There have been complaints from automotive executives — both privately and in public — that Washington bureaucrats decide what cars will look like and how they will run. Entrance of the federal government into building cars was a "traumatic intrusion," says one Washington bureaucrat, who advises businessmen, both in the auto industry and elsewhere, to recognize that regulation is here to stay. Eric O. Stork, deputy assistant administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, recently participated in a three-day Environmental Activities Week seminar sponsored by General Motors. It was supposed to show that fighting between the automaker and the government has ended.

THE THEME WAS set by the chief executive of the giant corporation, chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg, who said that only a few barriers of misunderstanding and suspicion remain. That theme was shattered a few hours later as GM Pres. Edward N. Cole renewed a more familiar sound — one of shutdowns unless Congress revisits the standards set in the Clean Air Act of 1970.

Stork, the EPA executive, discounted doomsday talk but told the auto executives they had better get used to federal regulations.

Stork also said it is an unrealistic expectation for automakers to see federal regulation "as a bad dream, hoping they will soon awaken from the nightmare." "The public will continue to demand that the government protect it from various hazards, and the government will continue to respond to these demands," said Stork. "In other words, regulation of the auto industry is here to stay. You might as well learn to live with it."

POINTING TO commercial aviation and the food and drug industry as two areas which have adjusted to federal regulation, Stork said auto executives could take a hint from the men who control those industries.

Stork described three ways in which auto executives react to being regulated — pure outrage, the ostrich approach and realization that there may be a problem.

The first accomplishes nothing, he said, since regulatory officials always can put on the white hat, paint the opposition black as pitch and win the argument. The ostrich approach of ignoring the problem and hoping it will go away also doesn't work, said Stork, because the problems usually become bigger and more unmanageable.

To its credit, said Stork, GM appears to be taking the third course — "recognition that there is a real problem to be solved by the new law, as well as an assumption that the people whose job it is to implement the law are probably about as honest, sincere and intelligent as anyone else."

French group sees Schaumburg Motorola plant

A group of French government, military and industry officials visited the Communications Division of Motorola Inc., Schaumburg facility, recently for a tour and product line presentation.

The 27 members of the Centre Des Hautes Etudes De L'armement were accompanied by two escorts from the French Consulate General of Chicago. The Center of High Studies for Armement is an industrial/governmental commission which studies the military requirements of France.

Bob Swift, vice president, director of marketing, welcomed the French-speaking visitors to the division, and discussed the company's developing techniques and manufacturing capabilities.

Further attention was focused on the Communications Division products as they were discussed and demonstrated in a French presentation by Claude Leroux of Willowdale, Canada and Jean-Paul Pottier, of Schaumburg in Motorola's Product Display Salon. Advanced communications systems which were of interest to the group were discussed during the question and answer session that followed the presentation.

Who's to blame for shortages?

Fuel crisis spurs solar energy talks

by United Press International
Scientists met in Paris yesterday to discuss ways of turning the sun's heat into usable energy to replace shrinking supplies of oil and gas.

In Britain, the London Sunday Telegraph said the government was preparing plans to ration gasoline. Government officials, however, said the report was "far-fetched."

In Washington a House subcommittee announced it will investigate to see if anyone is to blame for the fuel shortage.

IN A RELATED development, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., charged during the weekend that major U.S. oil firms are "watering down" their gasoline by reducing the octane level — without reducing the price.

"Consumers are unfairly being asked to pay the same price for this watered-down product," he said in letters to the Cost of Living Council and the Federal Trade Commission.

In Paris, 600 experts from 70 countries met to discuss the sun's ability to heat homes, drive cars, protect crops, cook food, run refrigerators and distill water. The scientists will trade ideas in the largest conference on solar energy in history, and at one of the largest scientific meetings ever held under the sponsorship of the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

For 20 years solar energy has been in the experimental stage because the rich industrialized countries had enough oil and the developing countries in the sun belt who really needed it were too poor to develop it on a full scale, according to Harry Lustig of New York City College, one of the scientists.

"But most recently attitudes have changed quite dramatically and events have occurred which make it appear that the takeoff point for solar energy development may now have been reached," Lustig said.

IN BRITAIN, THE London Sunday Telegraph said the government is preparing plans for gasoline rationing in response to a warning that fuel supplies in Europe could dry up before Christmas.

"Speculators have been buying and storing vast amounts of petrol in the last six months," the newspaper said. "They are paying as much as $110 a ton, compared with the present average price of $70 and last year's price of $33."

The story said the prospect of serious shortages was discussed at a meeting of the European energy conference in May and that the nine Common Market nations were advised that these could develop before the end of the year.

At home, Rep. James J. Howard, D-N.J., said Sunday his subcommittee on energy will hold hearings later this month "to determine if the energy crisis, so totally publicized, might not better be called the 'energy cover-up.'"

"The energy crisis is exploding into a giant mushroom cloud of colossal confusion. As the oil companies wail of doom and the end of energy abundance, while they say there is no gasoline to sell, our limited investigation has indicated that some company representatives are quietly whispering that perhaps for the right price — a much higher price — they just might be able to come up with something," Howard said.

Energy use zooming

Energy consumption in the United States for heat, light and power reached another new high in 1972, notes a Commerce Clearing House report.

Energy equivalent to 72,091 trillion British thermal units (BTU) was required to meet the nation's total 1972 needs for heat, light and power in all forms. This was a 4.9 per cent increase over 1971 and more than double the 2.4 per cent rise from 1970 to 1971.

Petroleum was the top energy source, supplying 46 per cent of all domestic energy demands. Natural gas was next, supplying 32 per cent, followed by bituminous coal (17 per cent), hydropower (4 per cent), nuclear power (eight-tenths of a per cent), and anthracite (two-tenths of a per cent), according to the report.

Coal remained the major fuel for generating electric power, but its share of that market dropped from 52 per cent in 1971 to 51 per cent last year. Total demand for bituminous coal and lignite rose 3.3 per cent to 511.2 million tons, with electric utilities accounting for 65.6 per cent of all coal consumed in 1972.

Threatened shortages of natural gas caused many industrial uses to convert to other fuels, resulting in a modest 2.1 per cent increase in natural gas demand in 1972 compared with a 3.6 per cent rise in 1971.

Demand for petroleum and natural gas liquids rose 7.3 per cent to nearly 6 billion barrels. Demands for fuel oils in electricity generation rose 26.5 per cent to 515 million barrels while demands in the transportation sector, largest market for petroleum, increased 5.8 per cent to 3.2 billion barrels.

DuBrow on TV

public series

HOLLYWOOD — The noncommercial television network is in constant dire need of entertainment figures with popular appeal, and it looks as if one has been landed for the upcoming season.

He will appear, of all places, on the "Masterpiece Theatre" series, which normally is known best for its dramatizations of major literary works.

His name: Lord Peter Wimsey. Occupation: Superleuth, a very rich one. Origin: Created by writer Dorothy L. Sayers in the 1920s.

WIMSEY, portrayed by Ian Carmichael, will be offered to American video audiences in two "Masterpiece Theatre" serials, both of which were produced by the British Broadcasting Corp.

"Masterpiece Theatre," in short, is altering its approach in the new season. In fact, the first half of its 1973-74 schedule is described in a press release as its "Mystery Season."

On Oct. 7, when "Masterpiece Theatre" bows in for the new semester, we will meet Wimsey as the five-part serial "Clouds of Witness" gets rolling. And after this brief series, he will return in the four-part tale "The Unpleasantness at the Bellona Club," which begins Dec. 2.

A "MASTERPIECE Theatre" summary notes:

"... Carmichael's portrayal of the ... aristocrat is true to the literary conception: bibliophile, music lover, epicure, fashion plate, easy to underrate because of his languid style, but keen and quick when he must be, Wimsey also knows very well how to handle himself in a scrap brilliant record in The Great War, don't you know?"

So remember the name. Lord Peter Wimsey. A favorite of mystery-tale readers over the years. Now on his way to a run on American Public-TV. Should be a refreshing change from "Mannix."

If you decide to buy an older house, make certain it is in good condition. Check to see what is in need of repair or replacement. Check roof, walls, ceilings and floors. Remember, there are certain advantages to buying existing homes. The price of land, labor, and materials has increased steadily through the years, and an older home can perhaps provide you with more for your money. Weigh this against possible repairs that will be needed. Don't disregard the possibility, however, of purchasing a newly constructed house and the advantages it offers!

Take advantage of the knowledge and experience of the friendly staff at GEORGE R. BUSSE & CO., 12 E. Busse Ave., 269-0200; they can often prevent you from making a costly mistake. For prompt action, we also invite you to call us first with your listing. Be sure to visit our insurance department for all your insurance needs.

'One Fine Day' for garden wedding

To the accompaniment of a guitar, wedding guests provided the music as they all sang in unison at the outdoor garden ceremony uniting Sandra J. Fraser and Daniel S. Campagna June 9. The 3 p.m. wedding took place on the grounds of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Paul of Burr Ridge, Ill., under sunny skies.

Sandra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fraser of Berwyn; Dan's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Campagna of Des Plaines. The bride and groom participated in writing the double ring ceremony.

Sandra wore a full-length, white wedding gown with high neck and raglan sleeves. Cluny lace adorned the neck, sleeves and skirt. She carried garden flowers in a lace basket.

MRS. SHARON HROUDA of Berwyn, the bride's sister, served as matron of honor. Her gown and accessories carried out the yellow and white color scheme. Wearing baby's breath in her hair and carrying a yellow and white parasol, she was attired in a yellow voile full-length gown with long wide sleeves and ruffled skirt. The entire bodice, and trim on skirt and sleeves were of cotton lace.

Bridesmaid Barbara Fraser, another sister, was dressed identically to Sharon. Serving his brother as best man was James Campagna of Des Plaines. Others in the groom's party were Don Schroeder and Bill Johnson, both of Chicago.

Eighty guests celebrated the occasion at a reception at the Forest View Village Hall. The newlyweds honeymooned in Wisconsin for a week. They are now living in West Lafayette, Ind., where Sandra is completing her master's degree in education at Purdue University.

Both Sandra and Dan hold bachelor of science degrees from Northern Illinois University. In August they will be moving to Batavia, Ill., where Sandra is scheduled to begin teaching.

Bride has four 'Larrys' in her life

When Patricia Marie Smith became the bride of Lawrence Peter Davison she added two more "Larrys" to her life. She already had a father and brother by that name, and now has a husband and a father-in-law.

The bridegroom, son of the Lawrence B. Davisons, Franklin Park, is employed by Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Arlington Heights, and Patricia, daughter of the Lawrence S. Smiths, 1811 Johanna Terr., Arlington Heights, met him when she, too, was employed by the phone company.

The pair were married June 9 in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights, in a 3 p.m., double ring service with the bride's seven sisters and four brothers taking part.

Patricia chose an Empire gown of silk organza accented with Venice lace on the bodice, the sheer puffed sleeves, the scooped neckline and on her elbow-length veil. The gown had a chapel train. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, Garnet roses and lilies of the valley.

MRS. PAUL L. DUNN, Carpentersville, was her sister's matron of honor, and the couple's sisters, Susan Davison, Franklin Park, and Joan, Maurita and Carol Smith, Arlington Heights, and the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Terrance Smith, Chicago, were bridesmaids.

All wore identical navy blue dotted Swiss gowns with white organdy collars and long sleeves with French cuffs of the white organdy. They carried red carnations.

Stephen Davison, Franklin Park, was his brother's best man, and the bride's brothers, Lawrence, Oak Park; Terrance and Gerald Smith, Chicago; Paul Dunn, Carpentersville; and Gary Fink and Thomas Grizzoffi, Melrose Park, were ushers.

ALSO TAKING part in the nuptial mass were Joanne, Michele and Kelly Smith, sisters of the bride, and Mark Smith, youngest brother of the bride, who offered the sacred gifts.

A dinner reception for 200 was held at the officers' club at Fort Sheridan. The newlyweds honeymooned for 10 days at Ocho Rios, Jamaica, and are now residing in Melrose Park. A 1970 graduate of Arlington High School, Patricia is now employed by Salem Carpet Mills, Elk Grove Village. Larry is a '68 graduate of West Leyden Township High School.

Million dollar lady

She 'lives' real estate

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Mrs. Maxine Kokonas wins some and loses some. "Max," as she's known, admits she may not shoot the best golf at Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors' golf outings (she's won six booby prizes), but she has achieved just about every other goal she set for herself in the real estate business.

Only female sales manager in the Kolo Real Estate organization, Maxine manages Kolo's Des Plaines office. "Selling something or other" to somebody since she was a kid, she's a life member of the Million Dollar Club of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards. That means Mrs. Kokonas has sold more than one million dollars of real estate annually for three consecutive years.

What's Maxine's formula for successful selling? For her it has included lots of hard work and plenty of help from others. She also recommends boundless drive, enthusiasm and love for the work plus a penchant for a non-scheduled day. The latter is what set Mrs. Kokonas on the road to million-dollar selling.

"I HATE THE 9-to-5 concept!" she declares.

Gifted salespeople don't like an organized day and they won't get it in real estate. Mrs. Kokonas, who guides her sales personnel in field work after their initial six or seven weeks of preliminary training, can spot the ones who will do well in the business. The first thing she looks for is how the person relates to other people.

"Selling is people business," she said. Ability to handle people, ambition, competitiveness and willingness to give time freely contribute to super salesmanship, she added.

Good really salespeople sell service, says Maxine, and they work at the client's convenience, which may be any time or day . . . or night. "Max" herself often has worked a seven-day week from 9 to 9 or later. But she loves it.

To be successful in real estate selling, she tells her staff of 12 women and eight men, "You must love what you are doing and live it!" She thinks her counsel works. The Des Plaines office has won Kolo's monthly award for best sales every month for nearly a year, and Mrs. Kokonas has been managing that sales force for just a little more than a year.

THOUGH IT MAY help to inherit a talent for selling ("My mom is a born saleswoman," says Maxine), other ingredients are necessary to make it big in real estate. In Maxine's case, incentive and determination scored high.

Mrs. Kokonas first started selling real estate when she and her husband, Nicholas, suffered some business reverses several years ago. She chose real estate

"REALTOR BOARDS have done the whole country a service by establishing guidelines for the real estate business," declares Maxine Kokonas, sales manager for Kolo Real Estate in Des Plaines.

because she wanted "to make it bigger and fester" and she knew she couldn't do that by punching a time clock and collecting a regular salary.

"That was not the way for me," she recalled with a grin.

Enthusiasm helped boost her sales when she started eight years ago. She credited others with keeping her going. Each of her three employers has contributed to her education, Maxine says. And her family has been most helpful, including husband Nicholas who has backed her all the way.

HER MOTHER, Mrs. Carrie Wood, who lives with the Kokonas in Park Ridge, made it possible for Maxine to work outside the home while her children were growing up. Son John now lives away from home, while daughters Patty, 22, and Nicki, 15, help with cooking and housework. She mentioned also her nieces and nephews, Karl, Cindy, Kenneth and Michael Wood.

According to Maxine, the really successful real estate person becomes involved in related business interests. "Max" became a broker and an active member of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors last year. She has been on the Board and Associate Committees of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards and serves on the Real Estate Political Education Committee.

Maxine's zest for what she does is evident in the rest of her life. Though she admits to being consistently tardy, she attends all school, social and family affairs and vacations. And there's never time to be bored for if she's not working, she's reading a mystery, gardening, watching football or traveling.

Dear Dorothy? An office softball game has left me with a pair of white pants with ground-in grass stains. They look ruined, and maybe you can help. — Meredith Starnell.

Most reports that have come back from readers advise rubbing in shampoo, then laundering. Instead of the pre-laundering shampoo some have used the pumice soap, some a heavy-duty liquid laundry detergent. What surprised me was the suggestion of rubbing in glycerine, letting it set awhile and then laundering. It hadn't occurred to me that glycerine was water-soluble and doesn't leave a ring. Anyway, if these don't work for you, you can always bleach the pants with either chlorine, sodium perborate, hydrogen peroxide or a dye remover.

Dear Dorothy? While laboriously slicing each mushroom with a knife, preparatory to sauteing and freezing some eight or more pounds of this delicacy, I thought there must be a simpler and quicker method. My egg slicer — why not? Popping a mushroom in, stem side up, and lowering the cutter, in one swoop it was performing the job in just about 1/10th of the time — and with nice, uniform slices, too. — John F. Greening

New ways of handling old problems are what this column lives on. Thank you, Mr. G.

Dear Dorothy: Your pack might like to know what I did to a patent leather shoe which had a deep scratch on the heel. They were new but I was ready to use them as work clogs since the heel looked so sloppy. Someone suggested I get a tube of black automobile paint. Just a little squeeze and the shiny paint filled in the scratch so that it was no longer visible. — Alice Yu

Watergate makes 'Top Ten' tourist attractions list in Washington

by CLARE WRIGHT

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Every year the local Convention and Visitors Bureau lists its "Top Ten Tourist Attractions." I think it's time now to add one. Watergate.

While browsing through the Nation's Capital last week (and revisiting a few of those traditional sightseeing attractions) we heard more talk about Watergate than the Lincoln Memorial.

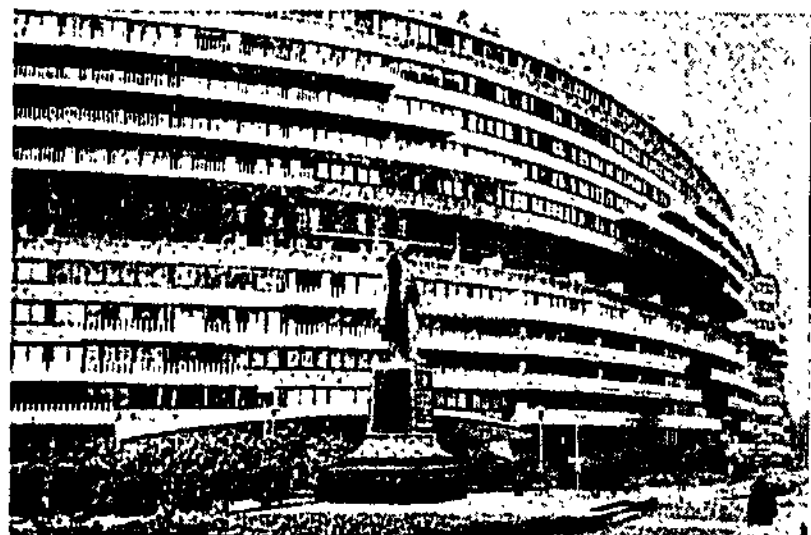

Driving past the 10-acre complex we saw throngs of people gawping at the office building at 2600 Virginia Ave., where the Democratic National Committee once occupied the sixth floor.

"Even tour buses stop here and let people off to gawk," said a Washington friend of ours.

SOMEONE ELSE commented that the airline captain had pointed out Watergate to his passengers along with the Washington Monument as his jet approached the capital city.

The infamous office building at 2600 Virginia Ave. is, of course, only one part of the huge Watergate complex.

There are also the 600 Virginia Ave. office building, swank apartment com-

NEWEST ATTRACTION for Washington, D.C. tourist is an apartment house guarded by a statue of Benito Juarez, who might be considered a bit revolutionary for his setting. The apartment is, or was, the bastion of many high-ranking Republicans, and the Democratic National Committee. The name of the place is Watergate.

U.S. CAPITOL — one of the "Top Ten Tourist Attractions" in Washington, D.C. Daily visitor hours are 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The best way to see the Capitol is to take the free guided 35-minute tour that leaves the rotunda every 15 minutes and takes you into the Senate and House galleries (even when the two bodies are in session.)

plexes, the Watergate Hotel, elegant restaurants, and a huge two-level shopping area that includes a supermarket, drug and variety store, post office, bakery, liquor store, florist, a terrific craftsmen's center and a wide variety of exciting boutiques and smart apparel shops.

The Watergate Hotel, we were told, is excellent. However, since the scandal broke, it's almost impossible to snag a room without long-time advance reservations.

The other "Top Ten" tourist attractions in Washington, D.C.? Here's a rundown:

- The U.S. Capitol — open 9-4:30 every day except Christmas, New Year's Day and Thanksgiving. A free, 35-minute guided tour leaves the Rotunda every 15 minutes starting at 9 a.m.

- The White House — open 10 to noon Tuesday through Saturday.

- Jefferson Memorial — open 8 a.m. to midnight daily.

- The Washington Monument — open 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. through Labor Day.

- The Lincoln Memorial — open 8 a.m. to midnight. It's beautiful at night when both the interior and exterior are spotlighted. There are free 15-minute tours from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

- The John F. Kennedy Center For the Performing Arts.

- National Archives — open 9 a.m.-10 p.m. weekdays and holidays; 1 p.m.-10 p.m. Sunday — closed Christmas and New Year's Day. The original documents of the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights are here.

- The National Gallery of Art — open 10 to 5 Monday through Saturday; 2 - 10 p.m. Sunday. This is often called the American "Louvre" and its collections surpass any others in the country.

- The Museum of History and Technology — open 9 to 5 daily. Among other great exhibits you'll also see the original Star Spangled Banner here.

- Museum of Arts and Industries — open 9 - 5:30 daily. The Columbia, the command ship for the first moon landing, is on display, and so are a moon rock, a Lunar Landing Module and other space hardware. You'll also see Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis, and the very

CRUISES

Cruises are one of the best buys in the travel industry today in terms of dollar value and enjoyment for the traveler. The excitement of being aboard ship, the food, the glamour of the ports where cruise ships sail, all combine to offer a beautiful vacation.

Ships are only one class of service on cruises, and the rate is determined by the location of your cabin. New and luxurious vessels are introduced annually, but, due to the increasing popularity of cruising, ships often are completely filled at peak times.

 WASHINGTON, D.C. — Get ready, animal lovers. The National Zoo is hoping for baby pandas by next April. Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing, the only pandas outside the Orient, are willing and just about able. By human standards pandas are pretty modest. They don't reproduce promiscuously. Matter of fact, a panda cub has never been born in a zoo outside China, the natural stomping ground for pandas. For years Russian and British zokeepers sought to breed their pandas, much to the delight of newspaper editors and zoo lovers around the world. But the late Chi-Chi and An-An, the pandas in question, didn't share the world's desires. But once pandas agree on the matter, they make up for lost time. The panda gestation period is 120-148 days, considerably on the rabbit side of the human equivalent. Zoo officials introduced the pandas to each other last year. They were allowed to visit through a chain link fence separating their outdoor playpens. There is no doubt, the pandas like each other. The mating will be attempted this fall, zoo officials say. The director of the zoo, Dr. Theodore Reed revealed the news at a cocktail party with visiting Chinese newsmen.

TRAVEL LORE

by Clare Wright,
TRAVEL EDITOR

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Even if you're not an animal lover, I dare you to visit the National Zoo and not be hopelessly smitten with Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing!

In case you haven't heard, those are the two panda "hams" that have been drawing hundreds of thousands of visitors here every week.

The National Zoo, in Rock Creek Park, is only one of 40 or more attractions that make this town a real "GP" feature.

Like somebody said, you don't have to be accompanied by a child to visit here, but it helps.

There's plenty of fun for all ages. The nice part about it is that families can enjoy adult and kiddie entertainment at the same time. It's not a case of pack the young ones off to the movies while you go have adult fun.

I've always been the sneaky type that likes to combine vacation sightseeing with a liberal dose of history lessons.

WHAT BETTER PLACE than the Nation's Capital! The free guided tours of the Capitol, the White House, the Lincoln Memorial and other historic spots are nicely geared to stimulate children of all ages.

By all means, be sure to take them over to the National Archives to look at the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. These are the original documents, not facsimiles.

Don't miss Ford's Theater and the house where Lincoln died, directly across the street.

Completely restored, the theatre is exactly like it was the night of April 14, 1865, during the performance of "Our American Cousin."

Downstairs in the basement is the Lincoln Museum, a fascinating history lesson all by itself.

They have a "Sound and Light" performance several times a day in Ford's Theatre. Unfortunately, the day we were there the sound wasn't working too well. Frankly, I think just sitting in the theatre for a few minutes — listening to the brief lecture that is presented about Lincoln's shooting — and then visiting the museum is impressive enough.

You mustn't miss the Federal Bureau of Investigation. A special agent sprints you through the trophy rooms and labs.

You enter the actual laboratory section of the FBI, where agents are studying specimens of handwriting, blood, poison, hairs, firearms and car paint to identify and apprehend criminals. You can tour the indoor shooting range, stand behind bullet-proof glass and watch a sharp-shooting agent pick off a man-sized paper target. It's a great show for youngsters — and the one who shows the most excitement gets to take home the target.

OTHER GREAT FAMILY attractions include the Naval Observatory, Treasury Department, Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and — of course, the buildings of the Smithsonian Institution.

In the Museum of History and Technology any boy or girl who collects stamps will go wild over the third floor stamp collection. The first floor has a terrific model boat collection, plus railroad cars and antique automobiles.

There are also the gowns of all the first ladies and several cases of old-fashioned toys.

In the Air & Space Building you can actually look inside the space capsules in which Alan Shepard and Colonel John Glenn orbited the Earth.

The Arts & Industries Building has Lindy's Spirit of St. Louis and the Kitty Hawk suspended from the rafters.

Washington is one of the world's least expensive tourist cities with accommodations available for every pocket-book.

Before you go, however, be sure to write the Washington Convention and Visitors Bureau, 1129 20th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036, for a brochure on room rates.

Recently we stopped at the Washington Hilton which is currently featuring a "Super Plan for Super Fun." You can stay for three days and two nights and have one full breakfast and one dinner, with a choice of menu, for $33.95 each for Mom and Dad. Children are free when occupying the same room as their parents — with four persons per room.

The hotel has special children's menus — a marvelous outdoor Olympic-size heated pool — tennis courts — a recreation center — and is only 12 blocks from the White House.

New campsites at Six Flags

Modern campgrounds and a new low-cost, two-day pass are attracting many Northwest suburban families to the giant Six Flags Over Mid-America amusement park near St. Louis.

The regular one-day price is $5.50 for children and $6.50 for adults, but the new two-day passes are only $8.75 for adults and $6.75 for children. The admission price permits unlimited use of all rides and shows.

Families with younger children are using the new two-day pass to enjoy the park on a more relaxed basis. With this pass, it's also possible to arrive late in the afternoon and watch Six Flags light up; then come back the next day for more fun.

Campers heading for Six Flags will find other interesting places in the St. Louis area — the soaring Gateway Arch, a world-famous zoo, the McDonnell Planetarium, and the Sports Hall of Fame at Busch Stadium.

Also nearby are Grant's Farm, the National Museum of Transport, and Meramec Caverns. And, you're just a few hours away from the Lake of the Ozarks.

There are several campgrounds in the vicinity of Six Flags, including: St. Louis County parks — Reservations must be made with the St. Louis County Park and Recreation Department, St. Louis County Government Center, 7900 Forsyth Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo. 63105, Attention: Mary Archey; Phone 314-989-2450 for groups desiring camping facilities.

• Top-Notch Camp Resort — North Service Road between Eureka and Six Flags, P.O. ## Bug crunch delicious? Games make travel fun

by MURRAY J. BROWN

NEW YORK — Next to walking, probably the best way to see the United States is by automobile.

While sightseeing can be exciting, long drives can be boring — particularly for the kids belted in their seats for hours with nothing to do.

Yet hope springs eternal in parents of small children before each vacation. "It's going to be different this year," they vow. "The kids are going to behave."

But once the car gets moving, the outcry is all too familiar: "Daddy, when are we going to get there?"

"Mommy, I have to go to the bathroom."

"He's picking on me."

The squirming and squabbling not only irritate everyone but often distracts the driver's attention.

MOTHER AND DAD usually have three choices — try to ignore the kids, threaten them into silence or — the wisest course — figure out ways to keep them occupied and happy.

Here are some suggestions, selected from a new free booklet called "Travel Fun with Trucks" available to the public through participating members of the National Association of Truck Stop Operators:

• Travel Bingo: Spell Bingo by finding the letters on roadway signs and license plates. The first one to see "B" says Bingo, then everyone looks for "I" and so on. The one seeing the most letters first wins.

• Person, Place, Thing: Ask someone to name a person, place and thing, then use all three in a single sentence. For VINTAGE CARS — Even the smallest fry can drive these old automobiles at Six Flags Over Mid-America near St. Louis. The adventurous will want to try Dodge City, a 5,000-square-foot arena where electric cars travel any direction guests want to drive them.

• Twin Flags Camp Grounds — 3 miles east of Six Flags on South Outer Road, 1380 S. Outer Rd., Eureka, Mo. 63025, 314-587-8864, 100 roomy sites, hot showers; full and partial hook-ups; laundry facilities, etc.

• Ramada Camp Inn — 15 minutes West of Six Flags on I-44 at Union turnoff Exit 247, 314-742-2370. Camp in the breeze or under the trees. 106 acres of fun, full hook-ups; large, new swimming pool, groceries, gasoline, bottle gas, playground and river frontage.

• Arrowhead Camping Inc. — Eight miles West of Six Flags on Interstate 44 to Gray Summit Exit, then one block east on Hwy. 100 to entrance, 314-742-2880. Gray Summit, Mo. 63039. 60 spacious sites, pull-thrus, full and partial hook-ups; hot showers, clean bathhouse, groceries, playground, nature trails, dump station.

1. Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the State of Illinois Department of Transportation at the Skokie Public Library, located at 5215 Oakton Street, Skokie, Illinois at 7:30 P.M. on Tuesday, July 10, 1973 for the purpose of considering a project for which financial assistance is being sought from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration pursuant to the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, generally described as follows:

A. DESCRIPTION OF PROJECT:

This project consists of the provision of adequate, safe, improved commuter parking facilities in the following municipalities in the 16 county Northeastern Illinois Chicago Urban Area in order to support the commuter traffic between these municipalities and the City of Chicago, Illinois: Arlington Heights, Barrington, Deerfield, Bensenville, Clarendon Hills, Deerfield, Evanston, Glenview, Harve, Itasca, Libertyville, Lake Park Forest, Park Forest, Roseville, Skokie, Tinley Park, Winnetka, Wood Dale. This is part of a continuing program of investment in commuter parking facilities in the area.

The estimated net project cost is $10,000,000. The Federal grant which is being requested by the Office of Mass Transportation, Illinois Department of Transportation, will provide two-thirds of the net project cost or $6,666,667. The State of Illinois will provide $2,000,000, and the participating municipalities listed above will provide the remaining $1,333,333.

2. RELOCATION: Seven families and ten businesses are estimated to be displaced by this project. Persons, families and businesses so displaced will be afforded rights as required by the

A Negative Declaration to report discussing the effects of the project on the environment will be available at the Department's offices for public inspection and copying, and it will be available for inspection at the Public Hearing.

D. COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING:

This project is in conformance with comprehensive land use and transportation planning in this area. The preliminary application for the proposed project has been reviewed by the A-65 Clearinghouse and 204 Review Agency, and the project will be reviewed as a whole by such agencies.

E. ELDERLY AND HANDICAPPED:

The guidelines of the program require that participants attempt to reserve commuter parking spaces in close proximity to rail station facilities for the use by the elderly and the handicapped.

II. At the hearing, the State of Illinois Office of Mass Transportation will afford an opportunity for interested persons or agencies to be heard with respect to the social, economic, and environmental aspects of the project. Interested persons may submit orally or in writing evidence and recommendations with respect to said project.

The proposals which will be considered at this hearing are those of the Villages of Arlington Heights, Barrington and Wilmette, and the City of Evanston (served by the Chicago and North Western Railroad, Northwest and North Lines), the Villages of Deerfield, Glenview and Libertyville (served by the Milwaukee Road, North Line) and the Village of Skokie (served by the Chicago Transit Authority).

Board of Education
School District No. 57
Cook County, Illinois

Published in Mt. Prospect Herald July 3, 1973.

Last year,
all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year,
he joined the
Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Demand for apartments declines

Larwin scraps plan to build 1,200-unit Tara Village

A reduction in the demand for apartment housing is apparently the reason that the Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. abandoned plans to build Tara Village, a 1,200-unit apartment complex in Wheeling.

Allen Weinstein, president of Larwin's Midwest Division, said the decision was made at the corporate level at the home offices in California. "A corporate decision was made not to go ahead with the project," he said. "It's that the market has gotten softer. Other areas are also kind of pulling in their horns a little."

Weinstein said to the best of his knowledge, the entire project has been scrapped. He said Larwin could not sell its position after having the project approved because the firm never actually owned the property at the southwest corner of Hinz and Wheeling roads.

"We have no position to sell or anything at all," he said. "We merely had an option on the property."

ACCORDING TO Weinstein, Larwin had an option to purchase the land from August "Gus" Stavros, who still holds an option to purchase the property. "The man we dealt with was Gus Stavros," he said. "He had the option."

Since Larwin could not sell its position to another developer, the apartment project as approved by the village will not be built. This means that an agreement between Larwin, School Dist. 23 and developers of Pleasant Run condominiums also has become void.

The agreement resolved an ongoing drainage problem at the John Muir School site on Drake Terrace in Prospect Heights. School district officials agreed not to oppose the development in exchange for a $42,000 donation and Larwin's promise to accept storm water drainage from Pleasant Run in their retention basin.

PRESENTLY, drainage from Pleasant Run flows onto the John Muir School site, resulting in ponding on the school property. School district officials have charged this ponding is a hazard to school children.

Developers of Pleasant Run, in turn, charged school district officials filled in the school property, preventing the natural flow of rain water from the development across the Muir site.

When the settlement was reached in April, developers of Pleasant Run said they would drop a lawsuit against the district which charged them with preventing the natural flow of water. It is unknown if the suit will be reopened because of Larwin's abandonment of the project.

Wheeling Village Mgr. George Passolt said he was quite disappointed that Tara plans had been dropped because they also meant the abandonment of plans to solve the drainage problems.

EDWARD GRODSKY, superintendent of Dist. 23, said he is hopeful the developers of Pleasant Run will consider putting in the proposed drainage system anyway.

According to Weinstein, the Tara development is not the only proposed development affected by the reduction in market demand. "Wheeling wasn't specially selected as an area," he said.

Weinstein also said it was not uncommon that proposed developments are abandoned before construction starts.

"This is a common practice in the development field," he said. "We attempted to go ahead and the decision was made by corporate headquarters to tighten up on multiple housing. We chose not to go further."

Vanguard takes first in corps competition

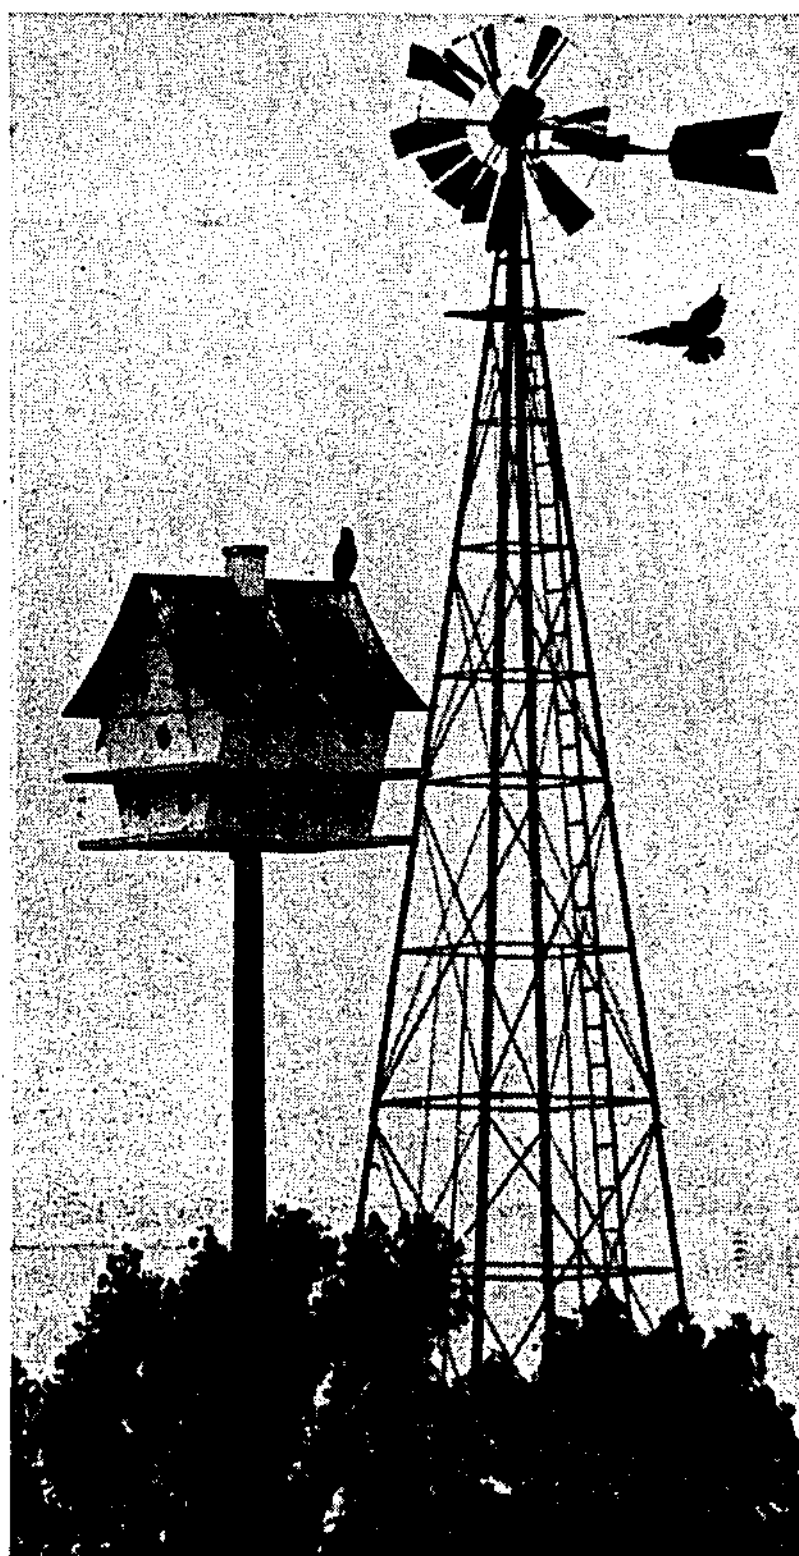

For the second year, the Vanguard of Santa Clara, Calif., marched away with first prize at the annual drum and bugle corps competition sponsored by the First Illinois Volunteers Drum and Bugle Corps.

Robert Hoeft, president of the Volunteers, said about 3,000 people attended the competition at the Wheeling High School stadium Sunday night.

Hoeft said the Vanguard scored 80.4 points of a possible 100. The Blue Stars of LaCrosse, Wis., came in second with a score of 78.8. The first place winners got $1,500 prize money, with the rest of the corps getting smaller amounts.

Scoring was based on marching and maneuvering, general effects and drum and bugle work. A panel of state judges presided over the scoring.

Money from the competition will be used to help finance the Volunteer's color guard's trip to New Orleans for the VFW National Convention Competition.

AIR CONDITIONING has become as much a necessity as indoor plumbing for everybody — even the birds. The local real estate agent who handles housing for our feathered friends reports houses like this one near a farmer's windmill are in great demand.

Fireworks ban—attack on tradition

by JOE SWICKARD

The boom and bang that traditionally greeted Independence Day may be a thing of the past.

Earlier this year, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission proposed a ban on almost all fireworks.

Should the proposed banning come to pass, the explosive souvenirs of Southern vacations would no longer plague police departments.

Capt. Maurice English, of the Arlington Heights police department, said the main source of the illegal fireworks is families returning from trips to states where the explosives still are legal.

"Every year right after Easter vacation we start getting more calls about kids with fireworks. They buy them in Florida or Georgia and bring them back here. Or the father buys a bag of firecrackers for the kids," he said.

THE ONLY restriction on fireworks nationwide currently is a ban on anything that contains an explosive charge in excess of two grains.

This makes cherry bombs and giant firecrackers illegal. However, they continue to be available on a bootleg basis. There is some doubt that even the proposed ban would eliminate this market entirely.

Firecracker fans have begun petitions to the commission to protest the proposals.

One petition signed by 70 persons, mostly from Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Mississippi, said it had been a "tradition since the founding of our nation to celebrate Independence Day with the booming of cannons and the display and shooting of fireworks."

"Let us not lose any more of our dwindling freedoms," the petitioners wrote.

ILLINOIS LAW prohibits devices that explode or are propelled by explosions. Local ordinances are closely patterned after the state law. Sparklers also are on the wrong side of the statute.

However, many neighboring states permit the sale of firecrackers, skyrockets and bottle rockets. Travelers returning from Missouri, Kentucky and Indiana often bring along a few items to enliven the neighborhood on a quiet night.

Despite reports of roadside stands selling fireworks just across the border in Indiana, the Illinois State Police make no special surveillance of Illinois residents stocking up the contraband.

"If we stop a car and the devices are found, naturally we'll take the appropriate action. But we don't keep a steady watch for them coming back," a spokesman for the state police said.

Area police departments report that fireworks are being confiscated from juveniles, but in no greater numbers than usual. Most cases involve a youth with a few packets of small firecrackers.

ALTHOUGH rockets, 'crackers' and sparklers are illegal in Illinois, residents can celebrate with smoking and flashing items that look just like the real thing.

Some local stores stock a number of devices similar in appearance to the tiny bombs. "Magic glowworms," "snakes," and caps are offered for sale at the check-out counter.

Other items offered for sale carry warnings to use under adult supervision in emergency cases only. Directions for one smoke cartridge states, "Light and get away."

Instrumental league elects directors

Several new members have been elected to serve on the Wheeling Instrumental League board of directors.

Bob Latham will assume the position of president of the board, Karl Krysa, vice president; Ed Klocke, second vice president; Toots Masler, recording secretary; Bobbi Krause, treasurer; Irene Mede, corresponding secretary; Shirley Missing, publicity chairman; Theresa Rutkowski and Alberta Alberta Klocke, uniform chairman; Ed Klocke, projects chairman, and Mrs. Higgs, calling committee.

The next board meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 9. Fund-raising ideas for the fall school semester are to be discussed.

Savings and loan may be barred from village

by LYNN ASINOF

Plans for the Pioneer Savings and Loan Association to move to Wheeling may have to be scrapped as a result of zoning delays by the village.

The savings and loan has until Jan. 3, 1974, to erect a new building at the corner of Dundee and George roads and open it for business. If it does not meet this deadline, Pioneer will lose its charter to move to Wheeling.

Attorney Carlton Lohrenz, representing Pioneer, said that in order to meet the deadline construction must begin immediately.

Wheeling officials, however, are now asking that the plans for Pioneer go through the zoning board because of a strict interpretation of the codes by Bill

Bieber, director of building and zoning.

Under the current business zoning, the village has a provision for banks. Bieber, however, has chosen to interpret the codes literally and maintains that a savings and loan company is not a bank. As such, there is no zoning for a savings and loan in village codes.

Lohrenz said this strict interpretation of zoning codes is unusual. "One of our arguments is that some other suburbs have the identical code and they have solved the problem by defining a bank as a financial institution," he said.

BIEBER WAS unavailable for comment as to why he chose the strict interpretation of the zoning codes.

According to Lohrenz, the village is now seeking a review of the zoning codes to determine if a savings and loan should be considered as a bank for zoning purposes. He said this procedure might take as long as three months, which would make it impossible for Pioneer to move to Wheeling.

Lohrenz said his clients had not expected any problem in getting building permits for their facility. He said they thought they had the proper zoning since banks are allowed under the current zoning for the property.

The lawyer also said Pioneer has already torn down the two abandoned gas stations on their property at the two southern corners of Dundee and George roads. He said one corner would be used for the new facility and the other would be used for parking.

BIEBER HAS advocated finding new uses for sites now occupied by abandoned gas stations. In fact, last month he recommended a lenient interpretation of the zoning codes to allow an auto repair clinic to be built at the northwest corner of Dundee Road and Milwaukee Avenue.

The building director recommended that the clinic be classified as a public garage under the existing zoning rather than as a place for automobile storage and repair under that designation. This lenient interpretation allows the clinic to be built without review by the zoning board or village officials.

When asked if the zoning delays could be interpreted as pressure for a payoff, Lohrenz said he had not been approached on this basis.

"To be quite candid, we expected to be approached on that basis, because Wheeling is like all the suburbs and there is some graft in all of them," he said. "However, we have not been approached on that basis."

HOWEVER, Ervin L. Wiemann, secretary of the savings and loan, said he has learned that there are other savings and loan associations that would like to come into the village.

Wiemann said Wheeling is an excellent location for a savings and loan. "There isn't a savings and loan in the area," he said. "At least not for four or five miles. There's definitely a need for one."

There is currently only one financial institution in Wheeling, the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank.

The nation

President Nixon invited Chinese Ambassador Huang Chen to visit the Western White House, apparently to discuss a possible trip to Peking by Henry A. Kissinger.

The Federal Housing Administration ordered its field offices to suspend issuing mortgages for housing, apartment and office projects, as well as Title I loans. The FHA said it was going out of business because Congress failed to renew the National Housing Act, which expired Saturday.

Grocers and farmers have asked the administration to scrap the current price freeze as soon as possible. One witness insisted parts of the nation's food distribution system were near collapse.

The Pentagon announced a sharp hike in the U.S. bombing of Cambodia, but denied violation of a presidential agreement with Congress not to widen the war without provocation.

The highest court of military law turned down attempts by attorneys for 1st Lt. William Calley Jr. to make the government disclose any White House involvement in the My Lai investigation.

President Nixon will remain silent on the Watergate affair until the current phase of Senate hearings ends in August, then discuss it in an "appropriate forum," it was announced.

Informant's tip led to arrests

Two Chicago men arraigned in Bollacker murder case

by JOHN MAES

Two more Chicago men were arraigned for murder Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court in connection with last Thursday's shotgun killing of Richard Bollacker.

Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733

Palmer Ave., and John Murphy, 18, of 5314 Augusta Blvd., were ordered held without bond in Cook County Jail by Associate Judge Marvin Peters pending a preliminary hearing in a Des Plaines court Thursday.

The two were arrested Sunday evening

by Chicago Police Area 5 homicide investigators at the apartment of a friend, Jerry Thurbush, 21, in the 5300 block of Dakin Street.

The arrests came from a tip supplied by an informant, Chicago police said.

An unnamed Oak Park girl, 16, also wanted in connection with the killing was taken into custody with Del Moro and Murphy. She was turned over to Chicago juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

Thurbush was also charged with aiding the two men. Police said an auto owned by Thurbush was used by the assailants the night of the killing.

Charges of battery and resisting arrest were also brought against De Moro.

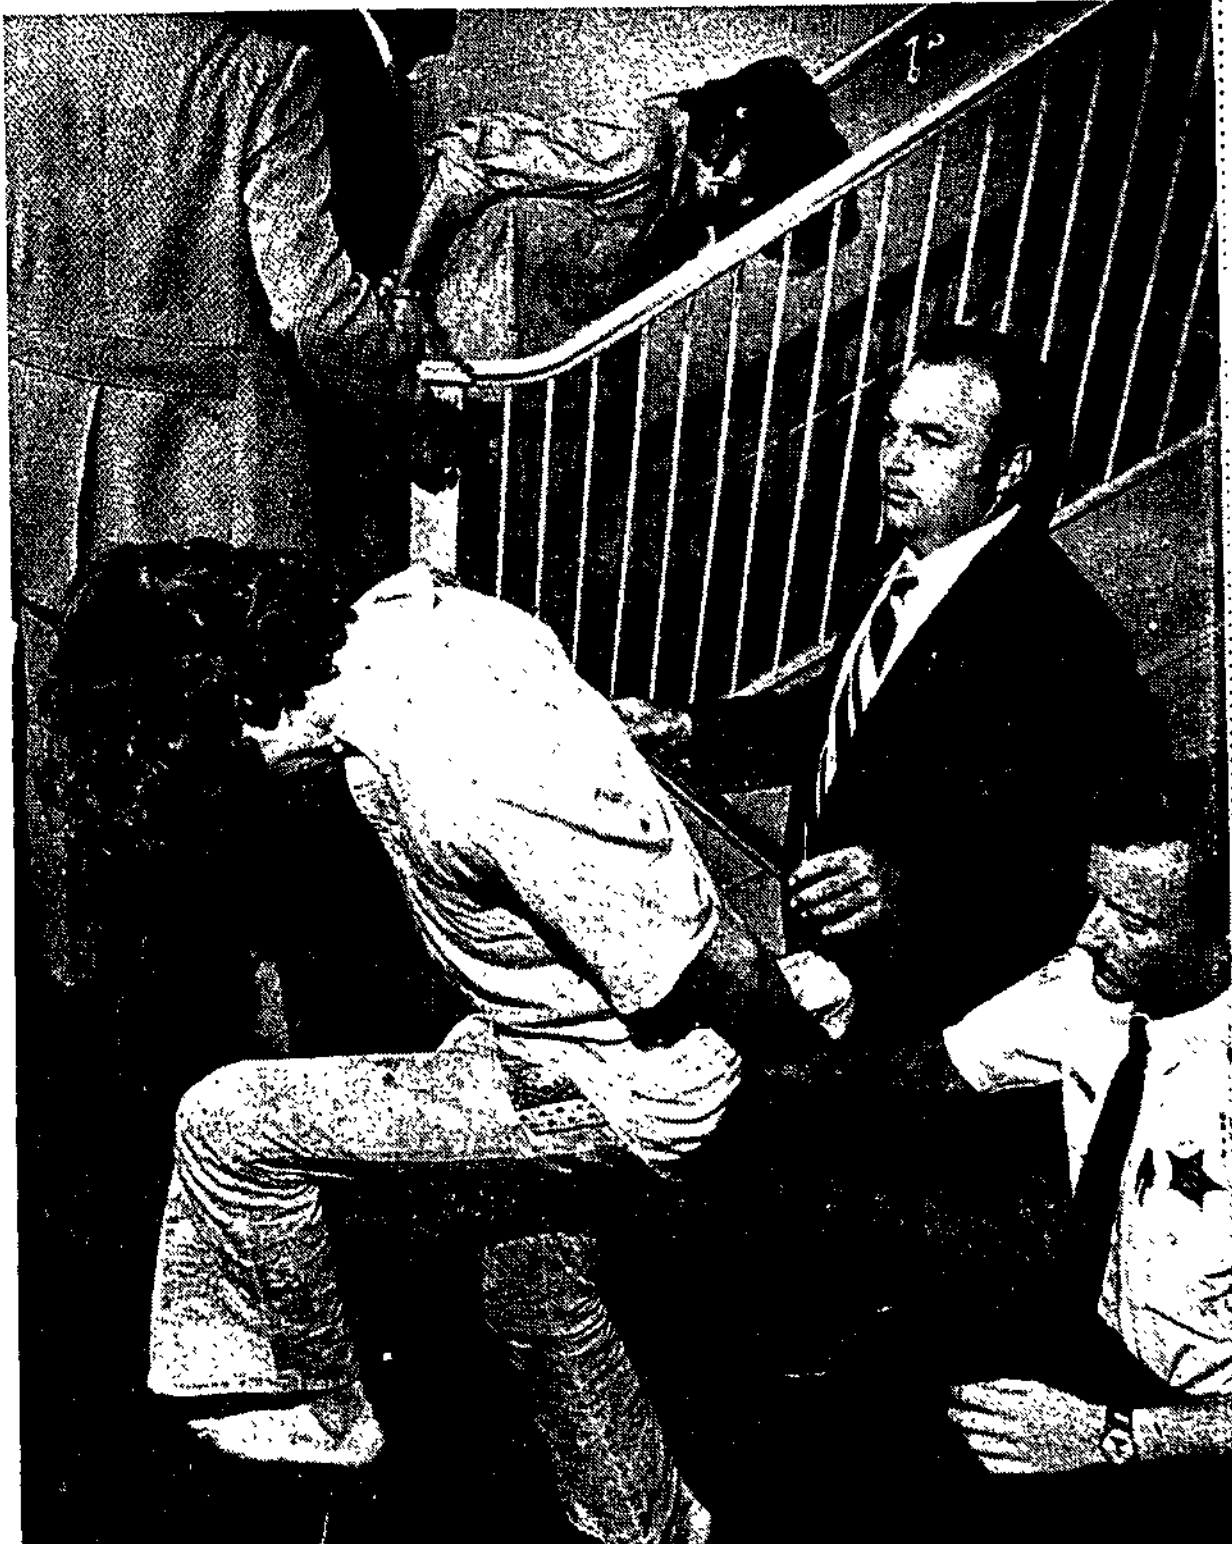

The other suspect, Peter Mukite, 21, of 1823 Haddon St., is currently in Cook County Jail awaiting the Thursday hearing, following his arraignment for the murder last week.

Mukite was arrested Thursday by Des Plaines police near Del Moro's home after being named as one of the killers by Bollacker's girlfriend, Cindy Graf, 16, who told police she was beaten and left for dead after watching Bollacker's death.

Bollacker's body was found in the Grand Forest preserve near Ballard and Rand Roads in Des Plaines after Miss Graf, who told police the suspects shot at her but missed, went to the road and hailed a passing motorist who alerted police.

The girl, who lived at a local psychological treatment center, Incentives Inc., 2424 Dempster St., is still under constant police watch at an undisclosed location.

Bollacker, who lived in a west side Chicago apartment at the time of his death, was reportedly involved in a love triangle with the girl and one of the suspects. An argument apparently started the night of the slaying after the couple announced they were planning to be married, police said.

TWO OF THE THREE men charged in the slaying of John Murphy, 17, were arrested Sunday by Chicago police. Richard Bollacker was taken to arraignment in Des Plaines, yesterday. The pair, Richard Del Moro, 18, and

Cafe for Randhurst clears first hurdle

A new restaurant for Mount Prospect passed its first hurdle last week.

The zoning board gave unanimous approval for a zoning variation to permit construction of the Boar's Head restaurant at the Randhurst Shopping Center. The variation is required because the restaurant will be in a new building separate from the rest of the shopping center.

Final approval of the variation must come from the village board. The restaurant, a beef and steak house, is scheduled for completion within six months after its start. Ralston-Purina Co. is the parent company. The building, if approved, will be in the area northwest of Montgomery Ward's Auto Center and will be accessible only from within the shopping center grounds.

When braking, he has two left feet

Joe starts 'new' driving course on wrong foot

Editor's Note: Driver's education — that special course taught high school students before they receive their driver's license — has changed somewhat in recent years. Herald Staff Writer Joe Swickard was a driver's education student in 1964 and last week went through the modernized version of the how-to-drive class at Prospect High School. He recalls how things have changed.

by JOE SWICKARD

I apparently took driver's education in the Automotive Dark Ages of the mid-1960s.

Now I have learned that many things I held as sacrosanct were meaningless rituals having no place in the modern world of motoring.

If you learned to drive prior to six years ago, you can join me in this latest episode of future shock: brake with your left foot.

STILL ABLE to absorb more punishment? Well, now the neophyte driver no longer has to parallel park to earn his license.

George Gattas, Prospect High School athletic director and supervisor of driver education, was to be the debunker of earlier teachings.

He stood on the Prospect parking lot early one morning last week to explain the program. Although it was noticeably chilly, he seemed perfectly warm in his gym teacher tee-shirt, slacks and gym shoes. I thought at first the shoes were a carryover many coaches affect during the off season. Later, I was to learn they were necessary.

He explained the program is divided into four phases: class room, simulator, closed course and behind the wheel (or BTW as it is known by the men who ride the suicide seat with the novice drivers).

THE FIRST REAL jolt to my education came as I watched Gattas strap the student driver warning signs to the cars. None of those "low price three" for these kids. They were going to learn in style.

Lined up in the early morning sun were two Rivas, an Electra and an Olds 88.

Students confined to the closed course would have to make do with Novas, Centurys, Montegos or LTDs.

(A check with Bill Cook Buick, Arlington Heights, revealed he supplies the luxury cars because the demand for smaller cars is too great to consign them to students. The cars used are then sold at $200 below invoice price, said Don Cook, sales manager.)

Gattas said the students prefer the smaller cars for driving on the course. But, for the streets, there's nothing like a Detroit Dream.

My turn for the boat ride would come late, first stop was the classroom.

TONY LANZARATTA is a summer driving instructor. It was his minor at Illinois State University.

The students were in for a treat this morning. To break up the monotony of lectures in summer school, Lanzaratta had some slides to show.

The slides were supposed to give the students new perceptions — looking for the unexpected.

One hour of zig-zag lines, checks and squares all jumping around and changing while I tried to look at them. An hour later, my retinas barely recovered, found me in a driving simulator.

The idea is to have a mock-up of a car with the appropriate wheels, pedals and controls. The instructor shows a movie and the students are supposed to "drive" along.

A computer, attached to the simulator, registers everytime an error is made.

In reality, the simulators look like a bump-up car with a pinball machine hooked up to the dash. Do something wrong and the appropriate sign lights up.

THE FILM was swell. John Drury, channel 7's ace news announcer, took us for a ride through Des Plaines, Winnetka and Highland Park.

It showed an old girl friend's house and the site of my first traffic ticket.

After 45 minutes of watching for careless delivery men and children chasing balls into the street, John had us "drivers" "pull" into an angle parking place in Highland Park. He left us there.

Next stop for me was the enclosed course where the students drive around the parking lot and practice maneuvers.

I was somewhat envious of these "intermediate" cars the kids got to tool around in. The North Shore high school I attended gave us Corvairs (remember them) with governors that limited speeds to under 15 m.p.h.

I watched with Gattas as the Buicks, Chevys, LTD's and Montegos made left and right turns.

What about my old nemesis, parallel parking?

"We set up some pylons where they can practice. But not too much. It isn't on the tests anymore," Gattas said.

My contemporaries and myself considered the drivers test as rites of passage toward manhood. Parallel parking was our ordeal by fire. Now they don't even test it. No wonder this younger generation is getting soft.

"T-BACKING MANEUVERS" were on tap. This replaced the incomprehensible "three point turn about" I practiced for hours. Just more evidence of decadence.

I soon saw the necessity for the gym shoes worn by Gattas.

He called one car in to practice the move.

"Look out. She can't control the car," he said as he displayed some fancy foot work while grabbing a pylon out of harm's way.

Around and 'round the cars went while Gattas watched for proper techniques such as hand over hand wheel turns and using the turn signal.

Summer reading program open to children in villages

Parents in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove may register children to participate in the summer reading program sponsored by the Wheeling Public Library.

Residents of either community may sign up children in the second grade or older to participate in the program that will include skits, games, stories, crafts, movies, a candy contest and of course, reading books.

The program will be operated at the Wheeling library, 850 Jenkins Ct. and St. Mary's School on Buffalo Grove Road in Buffalo Grove.

The first event in the summer program is scheduled for Thursday at the library. The antics of the "Gunk That Got Thunk," the Wicked Witch, the Wicked Wizard, Dracula and Frankenstein will be featured. The show will be repeated Friday at St. Mary's School.

Although Lake County Buffalo Grove residents are outside the Wheeling Public Library District, they can participate in the summer program without paying out of district fees.

By allowing the Lake County residents to take part in the program, Wheeling library officials are attempting to persuade them not to support a planned November referendum to create a new Vernon Twp. library district.

Wheeling library officials are tentatively planning a referendum next spring to annex the Lake County portion of Buffalo

Grove into that district. The summer program is intended to serve as an example of the district's service, according to Ken Swanson, head librarian at the Wheeling facility.

Adults-only swim set at Lions Pool

The Prospect Heights Park District will open the Lions Park Pool from 6:30 to 7 p.m. for a businessmen and adults-only swim.

Anyone paying the daily admission is entitled to remain for the balance of the evening. Pass holders may come at any time, according to Ronald Greenberg, park district superintendent.

School slated to close in fall

Kildeer recommendations may be presented Monday

A committee of Dist. 90 school board members and residents may offer a recommendation on the future of Kildeer School next Monday at 8 p.m. at the school.

The district's newest school, Twin Groves in Buffalo Grove, is scheduled to be completed by the end of November. If it is finished on time, Kildeer will be closed and its students transferred to the new school.

IF CONSTRUCTION delays at Twin Groves postpone the opening of the school until March or April, school officials have said Kildeer will probably remain open at least until the end of the school year.

When Twin Groves is opened, the capacity of the district's three schools will far exceed the number of students. School officials have decided to operate only two of the schools until the student population increases.

The Community Relations Committee has been studying for the past several months the problem of which schools to use. They are also looking at plans for possible remodeling at Kildeer if that building is unoccupied for several months.

The committee will recommend a course of action to the school board who will make the final decision. The chairman of the committee, school board member, Tom Rusk, said yesterday it is likely the committee will offer its recommendation at Monday's meeting. The next school board meeting is July 16.

Beer and brats open July 4 festivities

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees will sponsor a "beer and brat fest" tomorrow in addition to its annual Fourth of July fireworks display.

The beer and brat fest will begin at 5 p.m. followed at 9 p.m. by the fireworks display. The festivities will be on Raupp Boulevard across from the village hall.

A band will be there to play German and traditional favorites. All residents of Buffalo Grove are invited to attend.

Earlier in the day the Buffalo Grove Recreation Association will sponsor all-star baseball games for village youngsters. The all-stars were chosen by teammates in their respective leagues. The farm league game will be at 10 a.m., the minor league game at 12:30 p.m. and the major league game at 3 p.m. The youngsters range in age from 7 to 13.

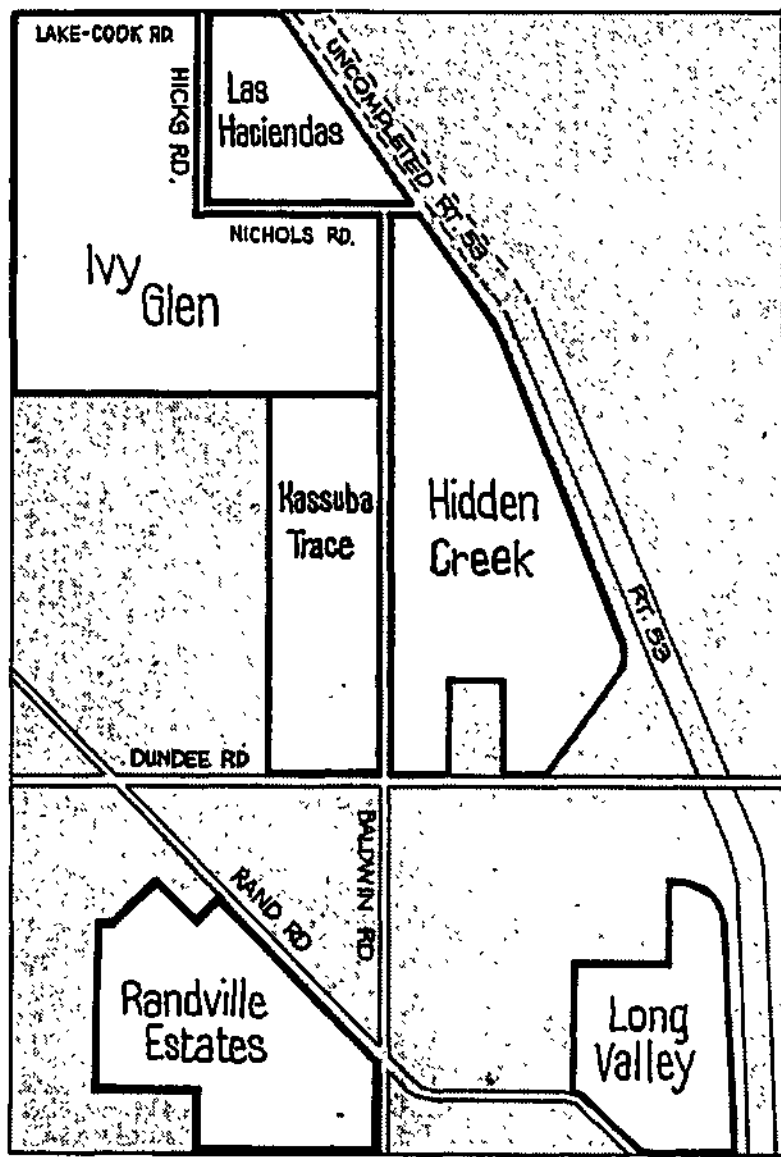

"I can't say definitely, but it's pretty cut and dried," Rusk said. "I don't see how we cannot make a recommendation to do some critical remodeling at Kildeer."

RUSK SAID REMODELING includes improving the heating system in the building and enclosing the courtyard in back of the library to expand the area into a learning center.

Chapman and Cutler, bonding attorneys for the district, have assured school officials that there is money available for remodeling at Kildeer in funds obtained in the district's 1971 referendum.

In that bond issue, $465,000 of the total $835,000 was allocated for the purchase of three school sites. The Twin Groves site was purchased and school officials are currently negotiating to buy another site on Gilmer Road. The third site, on a parcel known as the Wagner property, south of Aptakisic Road and east of Arlington Heights Road, was donated to the district by the developer Levitt & Sons, Inc.

The attorneys told school officials that since the Wagner site was donated to the district, the $71,500 that would have been used to purchase the property may be used to remodel Kildeer. Improvements to Kildeer were part of the work approved by voters in the referendum.

A POPULATION EXPLOSION is coming to the farmlands of northeastern Palatine Township. At least five massive apartment condominium developments will bring thousands of people to live in the unincorporated area near Rte. 53.

Fireworks ban—attack on tradition

by JOE SWICKARD

The boom and bang that traditionally greeted Independence Day may be a thing of the past.

Earlier this year, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission proposed a ban on almost all fireworks.

Should the proposed banning come to pass, the explosive souvenirs of Southern vacations would no longer plague police departments.

Capt. Maurice English, of the Arlington Heights police department, said the main source of the illegal fireworks is families returning from trips to states where the explosives still are legal.

"Every year right after Easter vacation we start getting more calls about kids with fireworks. They buy them in Florida or Georgia and bring them back here. Or the father buys a bag of firecrackers for the kids," he said.

THE ONLY restriction on fireworks nationwide currently is a ban on anything that contains an explosive charge in excess of two grains.

This makes cherry bombs and giant firecrackers illegal. However, they continue to be available on a bootleg basis. There is some doubt that even the proposed ban would eliminate this market entirely.

Firecracker fans have begun petitions to the commission to protest the proposals.

One petition signed by 70 persons, mostly from Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Mississippi, said it had been a "tradition since the founding of our nation to celebrate Independence Day with the booming of cannons and the display and shooting of fireworks."

"Let us not lose any more of our dwindling freedoms," the petitioners wrote.

ILLINOIS LAW prohibits devices that explode or are propelled by explosions. Local ordinances are closely patterned after the state law. Sparklers also are on the wrong side of the statute.

However, many neighboring states permit the sale of firecrackers, skyrockets and bottle rockets. Travelers returning from Missouri, Kentucky and Indiana often bring along a few items to lighten the neighborhood on a quiet night.

Despite reports of roadside stands selling fireworks just across the border in Indiana, the Illinois State Police make no special surveillance of Illinois residents stocking up on the contraband.

"If we stop a car and the devices are found, naturally we'll take the appropriate action. But we don't keep a steady watch for them coming back," a spokesman for the state police said.

Area police departments report that fireworks are being confiscated from juveniles, but in no greater numbers than usual. Most cases involve a youth with a few packets of small firecrackers. ALTHOUGH rockets, crackers and sparklers are illegal in Illinois, residents can celebrate with smoking and flashing items that look just like the real thing.

Some local stores stock a number of devices similar in appearance to the tiny bombs. "Magic glowworms," "snakes," and caps are offered for sale at the check-out counter.

Other items offered for sale carry warnings to use under adult supervision in emergency cases only. Directions for one smoke cartridge states, "Light and get away."

Apartment suburbia keeps a-growin'

Those cornfields ain't what they used to be...

by JULIA DAUER

There's a major new suburb springing up in the cornfields of northeastern Palatine Township. It has half a dozen different names, and within the next few months, it could have a population of 18,000 persons—all apartment dwellers.

The fastest-growing corner of Cook County is destined to become the serene retreat of harried city folks, who see their escape via the recently completed Ill. Rte. 53 expressway.

"That's the whole cause of it," said Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals secretary Paul Marcy, pointing to the four-lane divided highway on his zoning map. But officials of surrounding incorporated suburbs put the blame for the vast growth on the zoning board itself.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS have virtually no power to stop zoning change requests in unincorporated areas, and their repeated objections to the county zoning officials have had few successes at stopping the zoning changes.

"The county is giving much higher density than either Buffalo Grove or Arlington Heights would ever tolerate," said Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong.

Density—the number of apartments that a developer is allowed to build per acre on his property—is only one sore spot with the surrounding villages of Palatine, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

"There are an awful lot of people being injected into the area, and all kinds of public services are lacking," complained Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh.

BUFFALO GROVE is most worried about flooding from the developments, particularly between County Line Road and Dundee Road along Ill. Rte. 53. Branches of Buffalo Creek run through several of the developments, and Buffalo Grove residents live downstream.

One of the projects that created the greatest concern with Buffalo Grove is called Hidden Creek, a 96-acre apartment condominium and business development along Rte. 53. Buffalo Creek cuts across the development.

Several of the projects, which contain a mix of townhouses, condominium apartments, high-rise apartments and single-family homes, are already under construction.

Hearing to discuss sled hill set tonight

The Buffalo Grove Environmental Control Commission will have a public hearing tonight on a proposal to construct a sled hill in the White Pine ditch area.

The meeting will be in the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd. at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

struction. The largest, Ivy Glen, is being built on 120 acres of land on an L-shaped section between Baldwin Road and Long Grove Road, going from Lake-Cook Road to Gardenia Lane on the south. The property once was the Otto Bittner farm.

When the Bittner farm is transformed into the $50 million Ivy Glen complex, it will have 2,608 dwelling units and a population of 6,500 to 8,000.

NEXT DOOR, just east of Ivy Glen, is the 77-acre Hidden Creek residential development, which will house 4,075 when it is built. Hidden Creek developers received the necessary zoning change from the county earlier this year.

Kassuba Trace apartments are going up south of the Ivy Glen development, on 40 acres bordering the Weidner Egg and Poultry Farm. It will have 660 units and approximately 2,000 to 3,000 residents.

Another development, Las Haciendas, was recently approved and will have a population of 1,065 when built. The condominium apartment complex is west of Rte. 53 between Hidden Creek and Ivy Glen.

Randville Estates is a 92-acre development nearer to Palatine borders, on Rand Road west of Baldwin Road. Formerly dubbed Trafalgar Terrace, condominium apartments and homes will be included in the 1,095 units in the development.

THESE PROJECTS, either under construction or recently approved, are only a few of the sections in this corner of Palatine Township slated for high-density apartment development. Others received the rezoning several years ago, but have not started construction yet for financial reasons or other causes.

Even without the proposed developments that could be built but haven't been started yet, this area will probably have a population of 18,000 to 20,000 within the next five years. And the potential effect on the developments and surrounding communities may be "absolute chaos," according to Palatine Village President Wendell Jones.

"The county zoning board has put more emphasis on expediency and politics than they do on impact on the local communities," complained Jones.

in the region, apartment dwellers will be served by a police station in Niles and a fire station four miles away in Palatine.

ALL UNINCORPORATED areas of Cook County are served by the county sheriff's police. Some local residents in unincorporated parts of the township have already complained about inadequate police services from the county.

County police will "watch the crime statistics" after developments in this area open, said County Chief Edmund Dobbs. The area "could be part of a beat, or with increasing crime, could be a beat in and of itself," the chief explained. A beat is the area one patrolman cruises during his shift.

Manpower to police the projected population will probably come from other areas of the county. Personnel are shifted when other parts of the county are annexed into local police districts. And there's always the possibility that this region will get annexed, Dobbs suggested.

Developers have several advantages in building in unincorporated areas. They have one less level of government to work through and have lower taxes, since they do not have to pay taxes to the local municipal government. But the biggest single advantage is the developer's chances of getting a higher density, and a resulting higher income, than (Continued on Page 3)

Informant's tip led to arrests

Two Chicago men arraigned in Bollacker murder case

by JOHN MAES

Two more Chicago men were arraigned for murder Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court in connection with last Thursday's shotgun killing of Richard Bollacker.

Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733

Palmer Ave., and John Murphy, 18, of 5514 Augusta Blvd., were ordered held without bond in Cook County Jail by Associate Judge Marvin Peters pending a preliminary hearing in a Des Plaines court Thursday.

The two were arrested Sunday evening

by Chicago Police Area 5 homicide investigators at the apartment of a friend, Jerry Thurbush, 21, in the 5300 block of Dakin Street.

The arrests came from a tip supplied by an informant, Chicago police said.

An unnamed Oak Park girl, 16, also wanted in connection with the killing was taken into custody with Del Moro and Murphy. She was turned over to Chicago juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

Thurbush was also charged with aiding the two men. Police said an auto owned by Thurbush was used by the assailants the night of the killing.

Charges of battery and resisting arrest were also brought against De Moro.

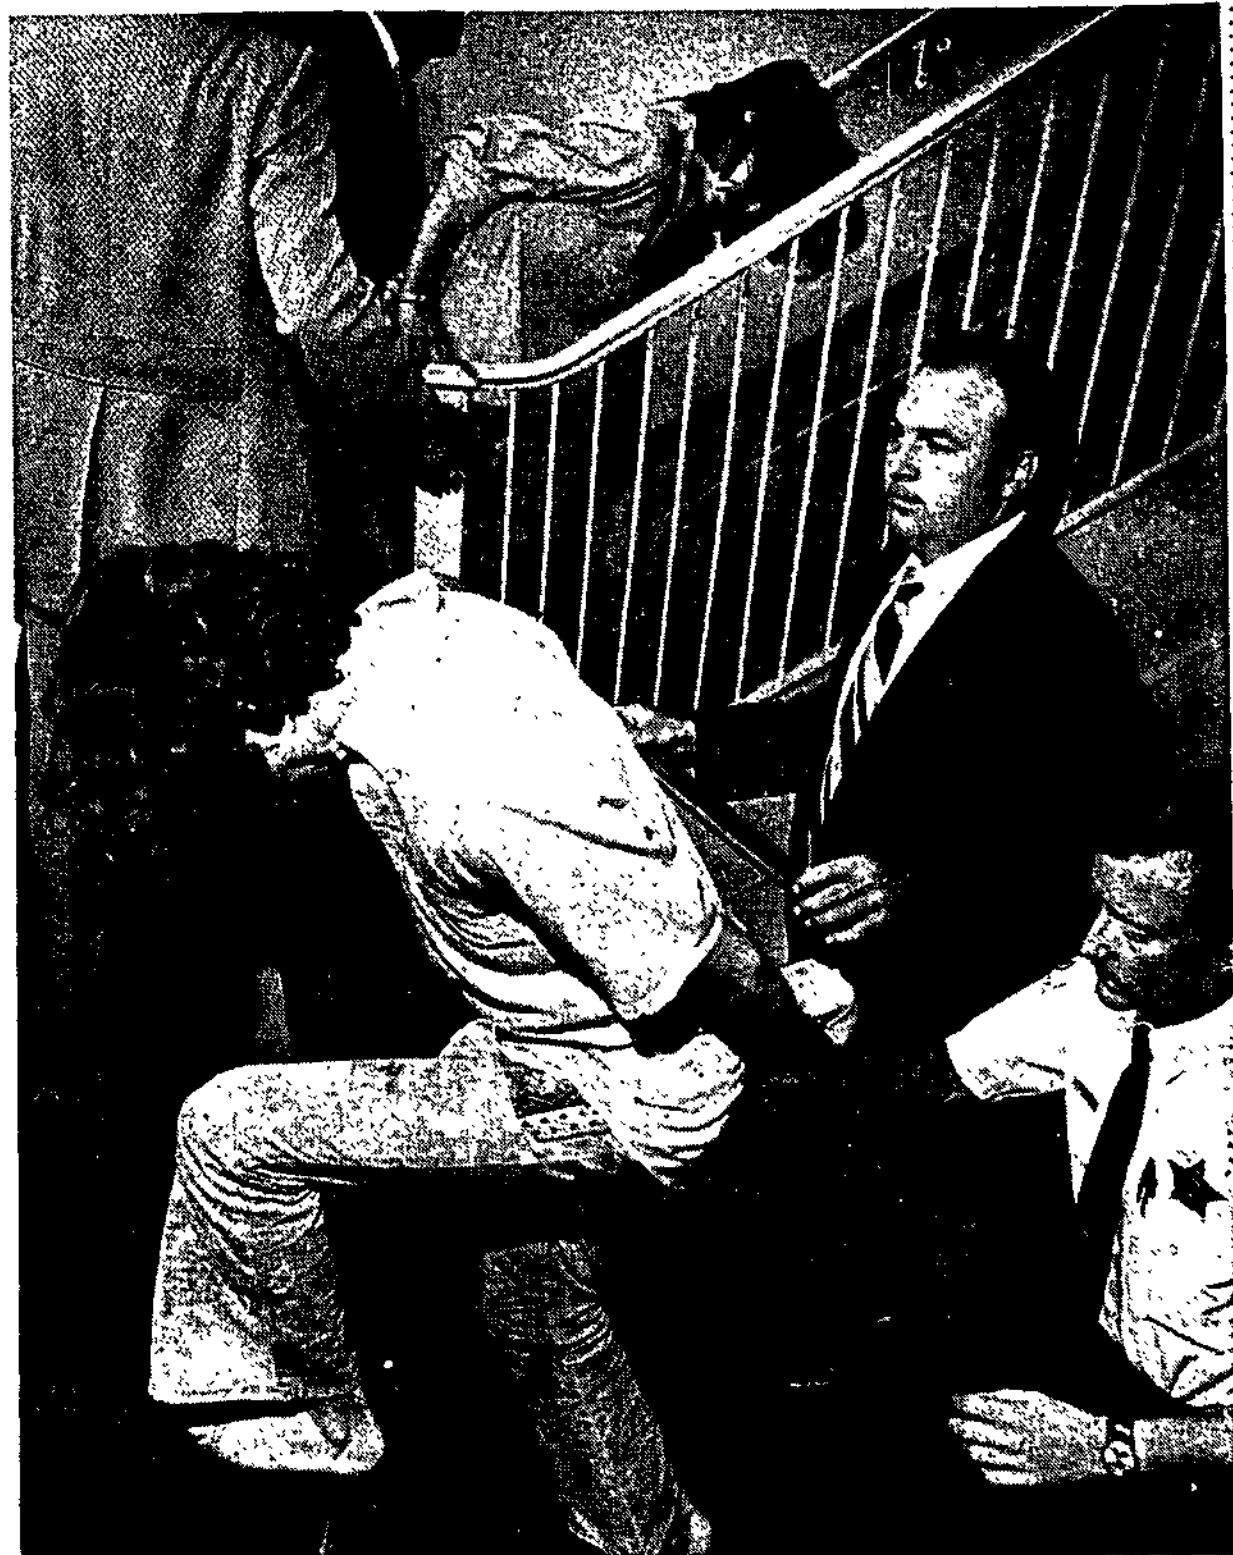

The other suspect, Peter Mukite, 21, of 1823 Haddon St., is currently in Cook County Jail awaiting the Thursday hearing, following his arraignment for the murder last week.

Mukite was arrested Thursday by Des Plaines police near Del Moro's home after being named as one of the killers by Bollacker's girlfriend, Cindy Graf, 16, who told police she was beaten and left for dead after watching Bollacker's death.

Bollacker's body was found in the Grand Forest preserve near Ballard and Rand Roads in Des Plaines after Miss Graf, who told police the suspects shot at her but missed, went to the road and hailed a passing motorist who alerted police.

The girl, who lived at a local psychological treatment center, Incentives Inc., 2424 Dempster St., is still under constant police watch at an undisclosed location.

Bollacker, who lived in a west side Chicago apartment at the time of his death, was reportedly involved in a love triangle with the girl and one of the suspects. An argument apparently started the night of the slaying after the couple announced they were planning to be married, police said.

TWO OF THE THREE men charged in the slaying of John Murphy, 17, were arrested Sunday by Chicago police. Richard Bollacker were taken to arraignment in Des Plaines, yesterday. The pair, Richard Del Moro, 18, and villages would probably allow. Also, more open farmland is available at a lower sale price in the unincorporated areas.

So a developer can build at less cost and realize a greater profit by constructing his units outside local municipal boundaries.

"It's irresponsible of the builders to take advantage of the situation," Walsh said, because the lack of public services, particularly nearby fire and police, will ultimately hurt the people who move into the development.

SOME EARLIER developers have built their projects in an unincorporated area, then come to the nearby village for annexation. This creates special problems for the local municipality, as they are faced with the plum of a high tax income, but the thorn of a development built under county building codes that differ from the village's codes and standards.

"We feel that apartment complexes this size should be in incorporated areas," said Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Dan Larson.

Jones, Palatine village president, believes such projects should be annexed before they are even developed. But would the village annex these areas after they're built?

"We haven't defined our boundaries yet," Jones said, adding that the village plan commission now is updating its master plan.

BUFFALO GROVE president Armstrong was also noncommittal about his village annexing some or all of the major developments.

"If we expand that way, we could annex it. We do go there," Armstrong said. Does Buffalo Grove want it? "It's really hard to say. There are some reasons to annex it, from a financial standpoint," Armstrong said.

Walsh said he had absolutely no interest in annexing the developments to Arlington Heights. The village has an industrial park bordering the developments across Rte. 53.

"I have no interest in it at all. It would dilute our resources," Walsh said. The one major advantage for Arlington Heights if it did annex the area, Walsh said, would be the village's ability to deal with problems that come up between the village and the new apartment area.

AS IT IS, there will be no good avenue for solving problems between residents of the unincorporated area and Arlington Heights, he said.

Residents of the developments will have a Palatine mailing address, but their closest levels of government will be Palatine Township and Cook County.

Fernside Heights Utility Company, a privately owned sewer and water company, will service most of the developments. Roads within each project will be built by the developer and will either be maintained by the building owners or by Palatine Township.

School-age children will eventually attend an elementary school in the Ivy Glen complex and a high school just north of Palatine.

NEITHER THE grade school nor high school is under construction yet. They are planned to be completed between 1975 and 1976. Until then, elementary school youngsters who move into the developments will be bused to Rolling Meadows, and high school youths will attend Fremd or Palatine high schools.

Shoppers who might otherwise go to surrounding villages for their purchases are expected to take Rte. 53 to the Woodfield complex instead. Grocery stores and small specialty shops are already planned for some of the developments, particularly along Dundee Road.

In fact, the corner of Palatine Township is starting to look very much like a suburban city. Real problems aren't expected to surface for another five or 10 years. But the construction is under way in unit after unit of condominium apartments. Sometimes, even the county zoning board has second thoughts about its recent rezoning.

During a recent January hearing for the Hidden Creek development, one zoning commissioner asked, "There's 240 acres already zoned multifamily. Do you consider it wise planning to zone another 77 acres multifamily?"

"Yes," the developer replied, "This will always be a tax plus to the community."

When braking, he has two left feet

Joe starts 'new' driving course on wrong foot

Editor's Note: Driver's education — that special course taught high school students before they receive their driver's license — has changed somewhat in recent years. Herald Staff Writer Joe Swickard was a driver's education student in 1961 and last week went through the modernized version of the how-to-drive class at Prospect High School. He recalls how things have changed.

by JOE SWICKARD

I apparently took driver's education in the Automotive Dark Ages of the mid-1960s.

Now I have learned that many things I held as sacrosanct were meaningless rituals having no place in the modern world of motoring.

If you learned to drive prior to six years ago, you can join me in this latest episode of future shock: brake with your left foot.

STILL ABLE to absorb more punishment? Well, now the neophyte driver no longer has to parallel park to earn his license.

George Gattas, Prospect High School athletic director and supervisor of driver education, was to be the debunker of earlier teachings.

He stood on the Prospect parking lot early one morning last week to explain the program. Although it was noticeably chilly, he seemed perfectly warm in his gym teacher tee-shirt, slacks and gym shoes. I thought at first the shoes were a carryover many coaches affect during the off season. Later, I was to learn they were necessary.

He explained the program is divided into four phases: class room, simulator, closed course and behind the wheel (or BTW as it is known by the men who ride the suicide seat with the novice drivers).

THE FIRST REAL jolt to my education came as I watched Gattas strap the student driver warning signs to the cars. None of those "low price three" for these kids. They were going to learn in style.

Lined up in the early morning sun were two Rivieras, an Electra and an Olds 88.

Students confined to the closed course would have to make do with Novas, Centuries, Montegos or LTD.

(A check with Bill Cook Buick, Arlington Heights, revealed he supplies the luxury cars because the demand for smaller cars is too great to consign them to students. The cars used are then sold at $200 below invoice price, said Don Cook, sales manager.)

Gattas said the students prefer the smaller cars for driving on the course. But, for the streets, there's nothing like a Detroit Dream.

My turn for the boat ride would come late, first stop was the classroom.

TONY LANZARATTA is a summer driving instructor. It was his minor at Illinois State University.

The students were in for a treat this morning. To break up the monotony of lectures in summer school, Lanzaratta had some slides to show.

The slides were supposed to give the students new perceptions — looking for the unexpected.

One hour of zig-zag lines, checks and squares all jumping around and changing while I tried to look at them. An hour later, my retinas barely recovered, found me in a driving simulator.

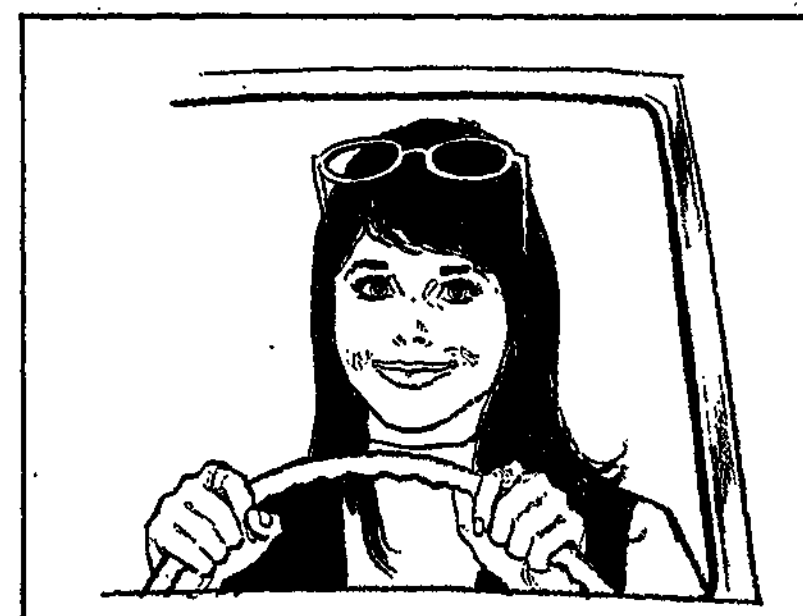

The idea is to have a mock-up of a car with the appropriate wheels, pedals and controls. The instructor shows a movie and the students are supposed to "drive" along.

A computer, attached to the simulator, registers everytime an error is made.

In reality, the simulators look like a bump-up car with a pinball machine hooked up to the dash. Do something wrong and the appropriate sign lights up.

THE FILM was swell. John Drury, channel 7's ace news announcer, took us for a ride through Des Plaines, Winnetka and Highland Park.

It showed an old girl friend's house and the site of my first traffic ticket.

After 45 minutes of watching for careless delivery men and children chasing balls into the street, John had us "drivers" "pull" into an angle parking place in Highland Park. He left us there.

Next stop for me was the enclosed course where the students drive around the parking lot and practice maneuvers.

I was somewhat envious of these "intermediate" cars the kids got to tool around in. The North Shore high school I attended gave us Corvairs (remember them) with governors that limited speeds to under 15 m.p.h.

I watched with Gattas as the Buicks, Chevys, LTD's and Montegos made left and right turns.

What about my old nemesis, parallel parking?

"We set up some pylons where they can practice. But not too much. It isn't on the tests anymore," Gattas said.

Parents in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove may register children to participate in the summer reading program sponsored by the Wheeling Public Library.

Residents of either community may sign up children in the second grade or older to participate in the program that will include skits, games, stories, crafts, movies, a candy contest and of course, reading books.

The program will be operated at the Wheeling library, 850 Jenkins Ct. and St. Mary's School on Buffalo Grove Road in Buffalo Grove.

The first event in the summer program is scheduled for Thursday at the library. The antics of the "Gunk That Got Thunk," The Wicked Witch, the Wicked Wizard, Dracula and Frankenstein will be featured. The show will be repeated Friday at St. Mary's School.

Although Lake County Buffalo Grove residents are outside the Wheeling Public Library District, they can participate in the summer program without paying out of district fees.

By allowing the Lake County residents to take part in the program, Wheeling library officials are attempting to persuade them not to support a planned November referendum to create a new Vernon Twp. Library district.

Wheeling library officials are tentatively planning a referendum next spring to annex the Lake County portion of Buffalo

Grove into that district. The summer program is intended to serve as an example of the district's service, according to Ken Swanson, head librarian at the Wheeling facility.

Adults-only swim set at Lions Pool

The Prospect Heights Park District will open the Lions Park Pool from 6:30 to 7 p.m. for a businessmen and adults-only swim.

Anyone paying the daily admission is entitled to remain for the balance of the evening. Pass holders may come at any time, according to Ronald Greenberg, park district superintendent.

"Sometimes it gets pretty hairy out here. You should have been here last week. The first time behind a wheel and there were cars all over the place. We've had some accidents, but we're lucky. At Wheeling they had a car totaled on the course," he said.

I rejoined Lanzaratta for my last hour: a ride with the students on the street.

"YOU'RE LUCKY. These guys are good drivers," he said.

They were, too. No shocks, thrills, chills or spills. A little harsh with the brakes, but...

They were using their left foot to brake.

Lanzaratta said calmly, "We teach left foot braking now. We used to worry about confusion when they drove with a clutch, but not any more. We start them with the foot just touching the brake, then they can later put it to one side."

Blasphemy. I called the Illinois State Police when I returned to the office. Those precision drivers would set the world right.

NO DICE. In the academy where troopers are taught high performance driving they use either foot.

I called drivers testing stations to get the answer to the preposterous situation of no parallel parking required for a license.

Libertyville doesn't require it. (But again, it never did. Some faint heart souls got tested there for just that reason.)

Elgin doesn't require it. Even Elston Avenue, the driver's testing station of high school nightmares, hasn't required it for over a year.

Ever since that day, I have occasionally been subject to spastic contortion while I struggle to get my left foot onto the brake.

It's no use. The conditioning is just too strong.

I think I'll just go back to the simulator and wait for John Drury to get me out of Highland Park.

Legal curbs turning Fourth 'bang' into a whimper?

by JOE SWICKARD

The boom and bang that traditionally greeted Independence Day may be a thing of the past.

Earlier this year, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission proposed a ban on almost all fireworks.

Should the proposed banning come to pass, the explosive souvenirs of Southern vacations would no longer plague police departments.

No matter what regulations become law, it is doubtful the Fourth ever will be celebrated with a whimper instead of a bang.

OCCASIONAL PONY Rides at area playgrounds are among the newly initiated summer programs and activities offered by the Elk Grove Village Park District this summer.

It's a park district love affair

by DIANE STEFANOS

For Elk Grove Village residents, the park district is as much a part of their daily lives as bread and butter.

Serving approximately 25,000 residents with recreational programs and facilities, park district officials estimate that each Elk Grove resident participates in some way, at some time in the year, in park district activities.

There are a few reasons for the growing "love affair" between old and young residents of the village and the park district.

"No matter what their age, people in the village are relying more and more on the park district for outside recreation after they come home from a long day at work, on weekends, and during their vacations. People want to get out," said Jack Claes, director of parks and recreation.

According to various surveys, Elk Grove has one of the most popular and successful park districts in the northwest suburbs. Claes attributes the successful development of the park district along with the community to the outstanding coordination between the district's board members and the administrative staff.

"OUR BOARD members were elected when the administrative staff was hired. This was in 1966, when the park district was founded. So they all learned to work and plan together," said Claes.

Claes explained that most park districts begin with one group of people serving as administrators and board members. When the time comes to distribute the responsibilities to two separate groups of people, animosity often results.

"We've followed the master plan for the park district that was drawn up for us seven years ago by people at the University of Illinois. That, along with attitude and interest surveys of the people in the village, gave us tools of professional guidance," he said.

Originally starting out with seven parks and expanding to 12, the original park district master plan is being updated for park development in the un-

Informant's tip led to arrests

Two Chicago men arraigned in Bollacker murder case

by JOHN MAES
Two more Chicago men were arraigned for murder Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court in connection with last Thursday's shotgun killing of Richard Bollacker.

Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733

Palmer Ave., and John Murphy, 18, of 5514 Augusta Blvd., were ordered held without bond in Cook County Jail by Associate Judge Marvin Peters pending a preliminary hearing in a Des Plaines court Thursday.

The two were arrested Sunday evening

by Chicago Police Area 5 homicide investigators at the apartment of a friend, Jerry Thurbush, 21, in the 5300 block of Dakin Street.

The arrests came from a tip supplied by an informant, Chicago police said.

An unnamed Oak Park girl, 16, also wanted in connection with the killing was taken into custody with Del Moro and Murphy. She was turned over to Chicago juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

Thurbush was also charged with aiding the two men. Police said an auto owned by Thurbush was used by the assailants the night of the killing.

Charges of battery and resisting arrest were also brought against De Moro.

The other suspect, Peter Mukite, 21, of 1823 Haddon St., is currently in Cook County Jail awaiting the Thursday hearing, following his arraignment for the murder last week.

Mukite was arrested Thursday by Des Plaines police near Del Moro's home after being named as one of the killers by Bollacker's girlfriend, Cindy Graf, 16, who told police she was beaten and left for dead after watching Bollacker's death.

Bollacker's body was found in the Grand Forest preserve near Ballard and Rand Roads in Des Plaines after Miss Graf, who told police the suspects shot at her but missed, went to the road and hailed a passing motorist who alerted police.

The girl, who lived at a local psychological treatment center, Incentives Inc., 2424 Dempster St., is still under constant police watch at an undisclosed location.

Bollacker, who lived in a west side Chicago apartment at the time of his death, was reportedly involved in a love triangle with the girl and one of the suspects. An argument apparently started the night of the slaying after the couple announced they were planning to be married, police said.

developed 1,100 acres of the village west of Rte. 53.

Various park sites are planned in this new area, and construction will begin soon.

"That's another reason why the park district has been so successful. We have excellent cooperation from the village. They have given us the land we need to develop parks. So with everyone working together, we've done a lot since 1969," Claes said.

Park district development is hardly at a stopping point. Park facility expansion and modification is planned to be completed by next summer under a recently approved bond referendum for $310,000.

TENNIS COURTS, baseball diamonds, playgrounds and picnic areas, lighted fields and equipment areas will be added to most of the area parks.

"We're keeping a close watch on facilities; keeping them in good shape and improving them, but our programming is what attracts most people," Claes said.

Park district programming has extended to about 73 summer programs and 120 fall-winter programs this year. With 2,030 residents enrolled in summer programs, "we don't and can't afford to give our prime time and efforts only to sports activities, so we offer a balanced share of crafts and other recreational activities as well," he said.

Because there is a large number of adult programs to meet the large flow of adult participation, programs like Women's Rest and Relaxation, and Crafts for Senior Citizens are being offered.

"Whether it's on a field or in a pool, people of all ages are participating in some kind of activity," Claes said.

In addition to the bus it had, the park district is continuing its weekday local bus service to area pools and the library with a new bus recently donated by the Lions Club.

THE PARK DISTRICT hires about 300 persons all year around for various part-time positions. Latest additions to the payroll have been three ponies that last week were making visits to area playgrounds for free kiddie rides. The covered wagon they pull, which was constructed by the park district's maintenance department, carried at least 2,000 children on rides last week.

"We eventually want to offer pony rides. We'll continue using the ponies for rides and parades, but that's it for the summer," Claes said.

Another offering for children in the village this summer has come in the form of "fun centers." By combining what used to be just free play with supervised programming, children are able to meet at area school playgrounds for outdoor programs.

Classes in aerobics, guitar and dance are offering children playground recreation at Cook, Clearmont, Rupley, Admiral and Salt Creek schools this summer.

With 12-month residential programming doubled in the past year and a half, the park district will be adopting another new programming concept in the fall to involve working members of the industrial park in the village.

"Many of the workers in the industrial park are involved in our recreational activities already. We would like to give them a chance for recreation right after their daily shifts let out, so we're going to begin a new program for them hopefully in October," Claes said.

SOFTBALL, VOLLEYBALL, chess and checker leagues are among those being considered for the special industrial park activities. The fall will also see the first formation of a major competitive boys' football league in the park district programming.

"Elk Grove is a blend of a residential and industrial community. Industry pays for a lot of the taxes, so it allows us to have more funds for park district programs. We should help the industrial park to contribute recreational activities for the people working there who want to get out some time during the day," Claes said.

According to the police report, Harold Holzengel, 34, of 1312 Mitchell, Arlington Heights, hit Donald Hintz, 14, as the boy was riding his bicycle last week near the intersection of Arlington Heights and Blesterfield roads.

Holzengel reportedly got out of his car to talk to the boy, then returned to his car and started to drive away, according to police. Construction workers in the area, who had gathered at the accident, told Holzengel to take Hintz, who lives in Rolling Meadows, to the hospital.

Police said Holzengel drove Hintz to Alexian Brothers Medical Center, but when they arrived, he did not take the boy into the hospital. Instead he drove back to the Grove Mall Shopping Center, dropped the boy off and drove away.

Hintz walked to a friend's house and the police were called. Later, the boy was taken back to Alexian Brothers, where he was treated for minor injuries and released.

Police were able to find Holzengel through the license number of his car. He voluntarily came to the station when called by police.

Holzengel said he had not taken the boy to the hospital because he had become scared. Police charged him with leaving the scene of an accident, failure to render aid and information and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

He was then released on bond.

Schaumburg High may expand in a few years

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Officials of High School Dist. 211 may study the possibility of enlarging Schaumburg High School during the next few years, according to Board Pres. Robert Creek.

"Anything is another couple of years away but we are fully aware that we have a facility that is less than Hoffman Estates High School," said Creek last Thursday.

Hoffman Estates High is scheduled to open in the fall with a 2,500 student capacity.

Creek's statement came in response to a report from Orland Vangsness, a former candidate for the Board, that residents of Hanover Park are still unhappy because their children will be transferred out of Schaumburg and sent to Conant and Hoffman Estates high schools next year.

RESIDENTS OF Hanover Park protested the boundary change at several meetings last spring.

Vangsness said he understood that Schaumburg High School was designed for 2,500 students but has an enrollment of only 2,100. He questioned why Hanover Park students must attend Conant if there is room for them at Schaumburg.

"I just wanted to throw these thoughts out," said Vangsness, who added he was speaking for his Hanover Park neighbors. Vangsness said the question came up during the election campaign last April but Hanover Park residents don't feel they have an answer.

Vangsness asked board members if they had given enough thought to attendance boundaries for Schaumburg and Conant high schools.

"It just seems to the taxpayer out there that it is not economical to move students 7½ miles when there is a school four miles away," he said.

According to school officials, Schaumburg High School was designed for 2,500 students but the actual capacity of the school is only 2,100.

SCHAUMBURG HIGH School was designed and built by the state in 1970 because Dist. 211 did not have enough bonding power to finance construction of the school itself. While the school was being constructed the state made some reductions in the building which lowered its capacity to about 2,100.

Board member Robert Seger said in the case of Hoffman Estates High School, "we are in control of our destiny. We weren't in control of our destiny" at Schaumburg.

"Schaumburg High School was not the high school that the board of education would have built," Seger said. When Schaumburg was designed and built by the state Dist. 211 officials were "virtually locked out" of planning for the school, he said.

IN OTHER action, the board approved the district's membership in the Illinois High School Association, a state-wide organization that regulates sports, music and speech contests.

Several board members objected to membership in the association, saying IHSA rules are too restrictive. Principals Leonard Newendorp of Palatine High School and Carl Weimer of Schaumburg High School addressed the board, telling the history of the association and the advantages the district receives as a member.

The association forms sports leagues for the member districts, they said, checks the eligibility of players and establishes uniform rules for all sports, music and speaking events. Weimer said the rules protect the coach and the player from being forced to forfeit a game because the player was ineligible.

Newendorp said the association is the largest group of its kind in Illinois that establishes leagues for its members.

"It's the only game in town," he said. The board approved membership but Se-ger saying "we have no alternative," voted against it.

THE BOARD also told the Dist. 211 administration to go ahead with its plans to offer a one semester course in consumer education this fall with a request from Seger that the administration investigate more alternatives for the state required program.

Several board members have voiced concern that expanding the nine-week program to a full semester may cause scheduling problems for some students. The nine-week course is required of all students by the state in order to graduate.

Teachers in the district said a nine-week course is too brief to cover all the material in the consumer education course.

"We felt there was a lot of worthwhile material that everybody needed," said Olga Smith, chairman of the business education department at Conant High School.

Millions for flood control

11th-hour OK for Salt Creek aid bill

After months of political maneuvering, the Illinois General Assembly has passed a multi-million-dollar appropriation to build flood-control structures on the Salt Creek.

The bill was passed in the frantic, last-minute actions of the legislature during the weekend.

John Guillo, director of the state division of waterways, said Monday that if Gov. Daniel Walker signs the bill, contracts can be bid immediately and construction work can start soon.

Walker has expressed support for the flood control program in the past.

GUILLOU SAID the amount of work that can begin depends on how much

Village budget OK expected tonight

The $3.1 million Elk Grove Village budget for 1973-74 is expected to be approved at tonight's village board meeting.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the village hall, 901 Wellington Ave.

This year's budget represents a 15 percent increase over 1972-73. Village trustees have met with the various village department heads during the past weeks to discuss appropriations for the budget.

The board is also expected to approve salaries for employees, with raises retroactive to May 1.

money was approved by the legislature. "I don't know what the final form of the bill is. We lost track of it early Friday morning," he said.

According to Guillo, on Friday the bill included about $4.3 million for Salt Creek flood controls as part of a $20 million state flood control appropriation bill.

Originally, Walker had proposed a $0.1 million state program, with $3.1 million for the Upper Salt Creek, north of Devon Ave. The Senate amended the bill to about $40 million, with more than $5 million for Salt Creek.

The house took the Senate's $40 million bill and reduced it to about $20 million. A conference committee of members of the Senate and House met over the weekend and worked out the final form of the bill.

GUILLOU SAID no copies of the final amendments to the bill were distributed so he is not aware what the exact amount is available are.

Guillo said his department will soon receive the design plans for the Busse Woods retention basin, the largest in the

Legal curbs turning Fourth 'bang' into a whimper?

by JOE SWICKARD

The boom and bang that traditionally greeted Independence Day may be a thing of the past.

Earlier this year, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission proposed a ban on almost all fireworks.

Should the proposed banning come to pass, the explosive souvenirs of Southern vacations would no longer plague police departments.

Capt. Maurice English, of the Arlington Heights police department, said the main source of the illegal fireworks is families returning from trips to states where the explosives still are legal.

"Every year right after Easter vacation we start getting more calls about kids with fireworks. They buy them in Florida or Georgia and bring them back here. Or the father buys a bag of firecrackers for the kids," he said.

THE ONLY restriction on fireworks nationwide currently is a ban on anything that contains an explosive charge in excess of two grains.

This makes cherry bombs and giant firecrackers illegal. However, they continue to be available on a bootleg basis. There is some doubt that even the proposed ban would eliminate this market entirely.

Firecracker fans have begun petitions to the commission to protest the proposals.

One petition signed by 70 persons, mostly from Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Mississippi, said it had been a "tradition since the founding of our nation to celebrate Independence Day with the booming of cannons and the display and shooting of fireworks."

"Let us not lose any more of our dwindling freedoms," the petitioners wrote.

ILLINOIS LAW prohibits devices that explode or are propelled by explosions. Local ordinances are closely patterned after the state law. Sparklers also are on the wrong side of the statute.

However, many neighboring states permit the sale of firecrackers, skyrockets and bottle rockets. Travelers returning from Missouri, Kentucky and Indiana often bring along a few items to enliven the neighborhood on a quiet night.

Despite reports of roadside stands selling fireworks just across the border in Indiana, the Illinois State Police make no special surveillance of Illinois residents stocking up the contraband.

"If we stop a car and the devices are found, naturally we'll take the appropriate action. But we don't keep a steady watch for them coming back," a spokesman for the state police said.

Area police departments report that fireworks are being confiscated from juveniles, but in no greater numbers than usual. Most cases involve a youth with a few packets of small firecrackers. ALTHOUGH rockets, 'crackers' and sparklers are illegal in Illinois, residents can celebrate with smoking and flashing items that look just like the real thing.

Some local stores stock a number of devices similar in appearance to the tiny bombs. "Magic glowworms," "snakes," and caps are offered for sale at the check-out counter.

Other items offered for sale carry warnings to use under adult supervision in emergency cases only. Directions for one smoke cartridge state, "Light and get away."

No matter what regulations become law, it is doubtful the Fourth ever will be celebrated with a whimper instead of a bang.

Village board denies hearing for ousted chief of police

The Palatine Village Board last night refused to grant a public hearing to ousted police chief Robert H. Centner.

In doing so, the trustees rejected a petition signed by 847 residents, and for the first time since their election two months ago, were openly booed by the audience which packed into the board chambers in village hall.

One resident, Judy Halbrecht, 1250 E.

Kenilworth Ave., angrily told Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones: "We put you where you're sitting. You are the one that leads the community. We should have a voice also."

Jones responded: "You have a voice through your elected representatives. That voice (rejecting the request for a public hearing) has just spoken."

JONES SAID the board "feels we have weighed the merits and demerits of the police chief. We have done it in such a way that we want a new police chief. It is the right of the board to do that."

A vote on a motion made by minority members of the village board to hold a public hearing was rejected 5-2. Voting against the hearing were Jones and trustees Bryan P. Coughlin Jr., Robert J. Guss Jr., Richard W. Fonte and James L. Shaw, all Republicans. Voting for the hearing were trustees Clayton W. Brown and Fred H. Zajonc, members of the Village Independent Party.

Another motion by the minority trustees, calling for a public Listen-In to explain the reasons for ousting Centner, was referred to committee.

FOLLOWING THE vote, Siegmar Oas Schneider, 44 S. Winston Drive, who initiated the petitions seeking a hearing, vowed to continue his efforts. "That pile (of petitions) is going to get so high that you won't be seen any more."

Schneider said he was requesting a hearing "to grant Centner a chance to defend himself, whatever the outcome is."

The police chief resigned last week under pressure from Republican members of the village board. Board members had publicly accused Centner of poor leadership and failure to establish a good drug-control program.

Brown said that "leveling charges in the newspaper and blackmail is the worst form of cowardice. If this board has nothing to fear," he said, "then let's have a public hearing."

Those cornfields are turning into apartments at a Boomtown pace...

Growth

by JULIA BAUER

There's a major new suburb springing up in the cornfields of northeastern Palatine Township. It has half a dozen different names, and within the next few months, it could have a population of 18,000 persons — all apartment dwellers.

The fastest-growing corner of Cook County is destined to become the serene retreat of harried city folks, who see their escape via the recently completed Ill. Rte. 53 expressway.

"That's the whole cause of it," said Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals secretary Paul Marcy, pointing to the four-lane divided highway on his zoning map. But officials of surrounding incorporated suburbs put the blame for the vast growth on the zoning board itself.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS have virtually no power to stop zoning change requests in unincorporated areas, and their repeated objections to the county zoning officials have had few successes at stopping the zoning changes.

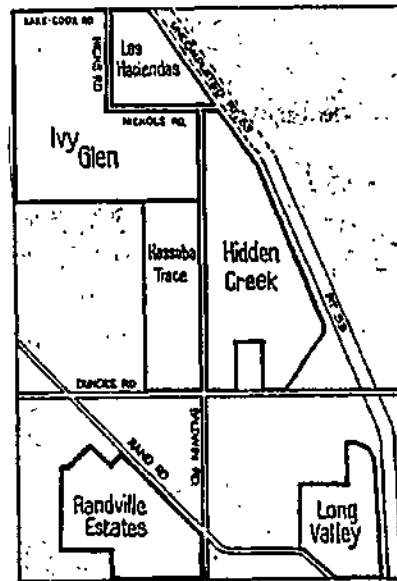

"The county is giving much higher density than either Buffalo Grove or Arlington Heights would ever tolerate," said Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong.

Density — the number of apartments that a developer is allowed to build per acre on his property — is only one sore spot with the surrounding villages of Palatine, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

"There are an awful lot of people being injected into the area, and all kinds of public services are lacking," complained Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh.

BUFFALO GROVE is most worried about flooding from the developments, particularly between County Line Road and Dundee Road along Ill. Rte. 53. Branches of Buffalo Creek run through several of the developments, and Buffalo Grove residents live downstream.

One of the projects that created the greatest concern with Buffalo Grove is called Hidden Creek, a 98-acre apartment condominium and business development along Rte. 53. Buffalo Creek cuts across the development.

Several of the projects, which contain a mix of townhouses, condominium apartments, high-rise apartments and single-family homes, are already under construction. The largest, Ivy Glen, is being built on 120 acres of land on an L-shaped section between Baldwin Road and Long Grove Road, going from Lake-Cook Road to Gardena Lane on the south. The property once was the Otto Blitner farm.

When the Blitner farm is transformed into the $50 million Ivy Glen complex, it will have 2,600 dwelling units and a population of 6,500 to 8,000.

NEXT DOOR, just east of Ivy Glen, is the 77-acre Hidden Creek residential development, which will house 4,075 when it is built. Hidden Creek developers received the necessary zoning change from the county earlier this year.

Kassuba Trace apartments are going up south of the Ivy Glen development, on 40 acres bordering the Weidner Egg and Poultry Farm. It will have 680 units and approximately 2,000 to 3,000 residents.

Another development, Las Haciendas, was recently approved and will have a population of 1,065 when built. The condominium apartment complex is west of Rte. 53 between Hidden Creek and Ivy Glen.

Randville Estates is a 92-acre development nearer to Palatine borders, on Rand Road west of Baldwin Road. Formerly dubbed Trafalgar Terrace, condominium apartments and homes will be included in the 1,096 units in the development.

THESE PROJECTS, either under construction or recently approved, are only a few of the sections in this corner of Palatine Township slated for high-density apartment development. Others received the rezoning several years ago, but have not started construction yet for financial reasons or other causes.

Even without the proposed developments that could be built but haven't been started yet, this area will probably have a population of 18,000 to 20,000 within the next five years. And the potential effect on the developments and surrounding communities may be "absolute chaos," according to Palatine Village President Wendell Jones.

"The county zoning board has put more emphasis on expediency and politics than they do on impact on the local communities," complained Jones.

Unless one of the three neighboring villages annex the apartments growing up

Informant's tip led to arrests

Two Chicago men arraigned in Bollacker murder case

by JOHN MAES
Two more Chicago men were arraigned for murder Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court in connection with last Thursday's shotgun killing of Richard Bollacker. Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733

Palmer Ave., and John Murphy, 18, of 5314 Augusta Blvd., were ordered held without bond in Cook County Jail by Associate Judge Marvin Peters pending a preliminary hearing in a Des Plaines court Thursday. The two were arrested Sunday evening by Chicago Police Area 5 homicide investigators at the apartment of a friend, Jerry Thurbush, 21, in the 5300 block of Dakin Street.

The arrests came from a tip supplied by an informant, Chicago police said.

An unnamed Oak Park girl, 16, also wanted in connection with the killing was taken into custody with Del Moro and Murphy. She was turned over to Chicago juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

Thurbush was also charged with aiding the two men. Police said an auto owned by Thurbush was used by the assailants the night of the killing.

Charges of battery and resisting arrest were also brought against De Moro.

The other suspect, Peter Mukite, 21, of 1823 Haddon St., is currently in Cook County Jail awaiting the Thursday hearing, following his arraignment for the murder last week.

Mukite was arrested Thursday by Des Plaines police near Del Moro's home after being named as one of the killers by Bollacker's girlfriend, Cindy Graf, 16, who told police she was beaten and left for dead after watching Bollacker's death.

Bollacker's body was found in the Grand Forest preserve near Ballard and Rand Roads in Des Plaines after Miss Graf, who told police the suspects shot at her but missed, went to the road and hailed a passing motorist who alerted police.

The girl, who lived at a local psychological treatment center, Incentives Inc., 2424 Dempster St., is still under constant police watch at an undisclosed location.

Bollacker, who lived in a west side Chicago apartment at the time of his death, was reportedly involved in a love triangle with the girl and one of the suspects. An argument apparently started the night of the slaying after the couple announced they were planning to be married, police said.

TWO OF THE THREE men charged in the slaying of John Murphy, 17, were arrested Sunday by Chicago police. Richard Bollacker were taken to arraignment in Des Plaines, yesterday. The pair, Richard Del Moro, 18, and

Eight businesses violating village's sign ordinance

Eight Palatine businesses are in violation of the village sign ordinance, which went into effect this weekend, according to the Palatine building department.

Four other businesses are in the process of complying with the ordinance and one plans to seek permission to keep its present sign.

The ordinance basically regulates the size, location and number of signs allowable, plus characteristics of the signs, such as flashing lights.

The sign ordinance was adopted by village trustees in 1968, and originally was to go into effect in 1970. That deadline, however, was extended to July 1, 1973, to allow businesses more time to comply.

Businesses whose signs are in violation of the ordinance, according to the building department, are: Robert Nelson Real Estate, 234 N. Northwest Hwy.; Hallock Pharmacy, 291 N. Northwest Hwy.; Tops Big Boy, 300 N. Northwest Hwy.; Family Medical Center, 530 E. Northwest Hwy.; Zayre's Auto Center, 1300 E. Northwest Hwy.; North States Oil, 57 E. Palatine Rd.; Kinsch Florists, 301 W. Johnson St.; and Palatine Masonic Temple, 1 N. Plum Grove Rd.

OTHER BUSINESSES with signs in violation but in the process of changing them, according to the building department, are: Jack-in-the-Box, 4 N. Northwest Hwy.; Clark Oil Co., 251 N. Northwest Hwy.; Arlington Park Dodge, 1400 E. Northwest Hwy.; Coleman Drugs, 40 N. Brockway St.

The Palatine Plaza shopping center's sign also is in violation, but an application is expected to be made for a variation.

One other sign, at Busch's Service Station, 137 S. Northwest Hwy., is in violation, but the station was exempted from the ordinance because the station will be torn down within the next couple of years when Northwest Highway-Hicks Road is widened.

Businesses whose signs are in violation of the ordinance are expected to be given warning citations in about two weeks, then, if necessary, court citations.

PARADES WILL follow this route to start the old-fashioned Fourth of July festivities tomorrow. Once the celebration reaches Community Park, an afternoon and evening of activities come next, ending with a burst of fireworks visible from the park at 9:15 p.m.

Police hunting robbery suspect

An Arlington Heights man is being sought by police in connection with a robbery of a market early Sunday morning.

William Calvert, 23, of 1 N. Hickory, Arlington Heights, was named in a warrant charging him and a companion with the $400 robbery of a 7-Eleven Store, 701 E. Kensington.

John W. O'Brien, 1010 Sterling, Palatine, was arrested at the store, after a customer notified police the clerk was in need of help. He was released on $10,000 bond pending an appearance in the Arlington Heights branch of the Cook County Circuit Court, July 20.

Police said the pair entered the store early Sunday morning and forced the lone clerk, Mark M. Johnson, into a rear storage room.

Johnson told police Calvert and O'Brien looted the cash register and then forced him to take off his clothes.

A customer entered the store at this point, according to Johnson's statement to police. The pair told Johnson to put his clothes on and wait on the customer, according to police.

Calvert apparently fled the store with about $400 in cash by a rear door when Johnson waited on the customer. O'Brien remained standing at the rear, after warning Johnson to keep quiet about the robbery, according to police.

Police said that Johnson managed to inform the customer of the situation without alerting O'Brien. The customer left the store and telephoned police, "The clerk at the 7-Eleven needs help."

O'Brien attempted to flee, but was captured just outside the store.

He was taken into custody and charged with robbery. He posted bond Sunday and was released pending his court date.

Police said they are still seeking Calvert, whom police described as being 6 feet 3 inches, and 170 pounds, having dark hair and a beard.

Apartment suburbia keeps a-growin'

Those cornfields ain't what they used to be...

in the region, apartment dwellers will be served by a police station in Niles and a fire station four miles away in Palatine.

ALL UNINCORPORATED areas of Cook County are served by the county sheriff's police. Some local residents in unincorporated parts of the township have already complained about inadequate police services from the county.

County police will "watch the crime statistics" after developments in this area open, said County Chief Edmund Dobbs. The area "could be part of a beat, or with increasing crime, could be a beat in and of itself," the chief explained. A beat is the area one patrolman cruises during his shift.

Manpower to police the projected population will probably come from other areas of the county. Personnel are shifted when other parts of the county are annexed into local police districts. And there's always the possibility that this region will get annexed, Dobbs suggested.

Developers have several advantages in building in unincorporated areas. They have one less level of government to work through and have lower taxes, since they do not have to pay taxes to the local municipal government. But the biggest single advantage is the developer's chances of getting a higher density, and a resulting higher income, than villages would probably allow. Also, more open farmland is available at a lower sale price in the unincorporated areas.

So a developer can build at less cost and realize a greater profit by constructing his units outside local municipal boundaries.

"It's irresponsible of the builders to take advantage of the situation," Walsh said, because the lack of public services, particularly nearby fire and police, will ultimately hurt the people who move into the development.

SOME EARLIER developers have built their projects in an unincorporated area, then come to the nearby village for annexation. This creates special problems for the local municipality, as they are faced with the plum of a high tax income, but the thorn of a development built under county building codes that differ from the village's codes and standards.

"We feel that apartment complexes this size should be in incorporated areas," said Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Dan Larson.

Jones, Palatine village president, believes such projects should be annexed before they are even developed. But would the village annex these areas after they're built?

"We haven't defined our boundaries yet," Jones said, adding that the village plan commission now is updating its master plan.

BUFFALO GROVE president Armstrong was also noncommittal about his village annexing some or all of the major developments.

"If we expand that way, we could annex it. We do go there," Armstrong said. Does Buffalo Grove want it? "It's really hard to say. There are some reasons to annex it, from a financial standpoint," Armstrong said.

Walsh said he had absolutely no interest in annexing the developments to Arlington Heights. The village has an industrial park bordering the developments across Rte. 53.

"I have no interest in it at all. It would dilute our resources," Walsh said. The one major advantage for Arlington Heights if it did annex the area, Walsh said, would be the village's ability to deal with problems that come up between the village and the new apartment area.

AS IT IS, there will be no good avenue for solving problems between residents of the unincorporated area and Arlington Heights, he said.

Residents of the developments will have a Palatine mailing address, but their closest levels of government will be Palatine Township and Cook County.

Ferndale Heights Utility Company, a privately owned sewer and water company, will service most of the developments. Roads within each project will be built by the developer and will either be maintained by the building owners or by Palatine Township.

School-age children will eventually attend an elementary school in the Ivy Glen complex and a high school just north of Palatine.

NEITHER THE grade school nor high school is under construction yet. They are planned to be completed between 1975 and 1978. Until then, elementary school youngsters who move into the developments will be bused to Rolling Meadows, and high school youths will attend Fremd or Palatine high schools.

Shoppers who might otherwise go to surrounding villages for their purchases are expected to take Rte. 53 to the Wood-field complex instead. Grocery stores and small specialty shops are already planned for some of the developments, particularly along Dundas Road.

In fact, the corner of Palatine Township is starting to look very much like a suburban city. Real problems aren't expected to surface for another five or 10 years. But the construction is under way in unit after unit of condominium apartments. Sometimes, even the county zoning board has second thoughts about its recent rezoning.

During a recent January hearing for the Hidden Creek development, one zoning commissioner asked, "There's 240 acres already zoned multifamily. Do you consider it wise planning to zone another 77 acres multifamily?"

"Yes," the developer replied, "This will always be a tax plus to the community."

Legal curbs turning Fourth 'bang' into a whimper?

by JOE SWICKARD

The boom and bang that traditionally greeted Independence Day may be a thing of the past.

Earlier this year, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission proposed a ban on almost all fireworks.

Should the proposed banning come to pass, the explosive souvenirs of Southern vacations would no longer plague police departments.

Capt. Maurice English, of the Arlington Heights police department, said the main source of the illegal fireworks is families returning from trips to states where the explosives still are legal.

"Every year right after Easter vacation we start getting more calls about kids with fireworks. They buy them in Florida or Georgia and bring them back here. Or the father buys a bag of firecrackers for the kids," he said.

THE ONLY restriction on fireworks nationwide currently is a ban on anything that contains an explosive charge in excess of two grains.

This makes cherry bombs and giant firecrackers illegal. However, they continue to be available on a bootleg basis. There is some doubt that even the proposed ban would eliminate this market entirely.

Firecracker fans have begun petitions to the commission to protest the proposals.

One petition signed by 70 persons, mostly from Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Mississippi, said it had been a "tradition since the founding of our nation to celebrate Independence Day with the booming of cannons and the display and shooting of fireworks."

"Let us not lose any more of our dwindling freedoms," the petitioners wrote.

ILLINOIS LAW prohibits devices that explode or are propelled by explosions. Local ordinances are closely patterned after the state law. Sparklers also are on the wrong side of the statute.

However, many neighboring states permit the sale of firecrackers, skyrocket and bottle rockets. Travelers returning from Missouri, Kentucky and Indiana often bring along a few items to enliven the neighborhood on a quiet night.

Despite reports of roadside stands selling fireworks just across the border in Indiana, the Illinois State Police make no special surveillance of Illinois residents stocking up the contraband.

"If we stop a car and the devices are found, naturally we'll take the appropriate action. But we don't keep a steady watch for them coming back," a spokesman for the state police said.

Area police departments report that fireworks are being confiscated from juveniles, but in no greater numbers than usual. Most cases involve a youth with a few packets of small firecrackers.

ALTHOUGH rockets, 'crackers' and sparklers are illegal in Illinois, residents can celebrate with smoking and flashing items that look just like the real thing.

Some local stores stock a number of devices similar in appearance to the tiny bombs. "Magic glowworms," "snakes," and caps are offered for sale at the check-out counter.

Other items offered for sale carry warnings to use under adult supervision in emergency cases only. Directions for one smoke cartridge states, "Light and get away."

No matter what regulations become law, it is doubtful the Fourth ever will be celebrated with a whimper instead of a bang.

Informant's tip led to arrests

Two Chicago men arraigned in Bollacker murder case

by JOHN MAES

Two more Chicago men were arraigned for murder Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court in connection with last Thursday's shotgun killing of Richard Bollacker.

Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733 Palmer Ave., and John Murphy, 18, of 5514 Augusta Blvd., were ordered held without bond in Cook County Jail by Associate Judge Marvin Peters pending a preliminary hearing in a Des Plaines court Thursday.

The two were arrested Sunday evening by Chicago Police Area 5 homicide investigators at the apartment of a friend, Jerry Thurbush, 21, in the 5300 block of Dakin Street.

The arrests came from a tip supplied by an informant, Chicago police said.

An unnamed Oak Park girl, 16, also wanted in connection with the killing was taken into custody with Del Moro and Murphy. She was turned over to Chicago juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

Thurbush was also charged with aiding the two men. Police said an auto owned by Thurbush was used by the assailants the night of the killing.

Millions for flood control

OK for Salt Creek aid bill

After months of political maneuvering, the Illinois General Assembly has passed a multi-million-dollar appropriation to build food-control structures on the Salt Creek.

The bill was passed in the frantic, last-minute actions of the legislature during the weekend.

John Guillo, director of the state division of waterways, said Monday that if Gov. Daniel Walker signs the bill, contracts can be bid immediately and construction work can start soon.

Walker has expressed support for the flood control program in the past.

GUILLOU SAID the amount of work that can begin depends on how much money was approved by the legislature.

"I don't know what the final form of the bill is. We lost track of it early Friday morning," he said.

According to Guillo, on Friday the bill included about $4.3 million for Salt Creek flood controls as part of a $20 million state flood control appropriation bill.

Originally, Walker had proposed a $9.1 million state program, with $3.1 million for the Upper Salt Creek, north of Devon Ave. The Senate amended the bill to about $40 million, with more than $5 million for Salt Creek.

The house took the Senate's $40 million bill and reduced it to about $20 million. A conference committee of members of the Senate and House met over the weekend and worked out the final form of the bill. GUILLOU SAID no copies of the final amendments to the bill were distributed so he is not aware what the exact amount is available.

Guillo said his department will soon receive the design plans for the Busse Woods retention basin, the largest in the Upper Salt Creek Watershed flood control program. The plans were done under an emergency appropriations bill approved by former Gov. Richard Ogilvie last January.

The Upper Salt Creek program is a $26.5 million project designed to reduce flooding on the creek by up to 90 per cent.

Approval for federal funds totaling $11.8 million still is being sought. A resolution to approve the funds is now being prepared for the Congressional public works committees.

When braking, he has two left feet

Joe starts 'new' driving course on wrong foot

Editor's Note: Driver's education — that special course taught high school students before they receive their driver's license — has changed somewhat in recent years. Herald Staff Writer Joe Swickard was a driver's education student in 1961 and last week went through the modernized version of the how-to-drive class at Prospect High School. He recalls how things have changed.

by JOE SWICKARD

I apparently took driver's education in the Automotive Dark Ages of the mid-1960s.

Now I have learned that many things I held as sacrosanct were meaningless rituals having no place in the modern world of motoring.

If you learned to drive prior to six years ago, you can join me in this latest episode of future shock: brake with your left foot.

STILL ABLE to absorb more punishment? Well, now the neophyte driver no longer has to parallel park to earn his license.

George Gattas, Prospect High School athletic director and supervisor of driver education, was to be the debunker of earlier teachings.

He stood on the Prospect parking lot early one morning last week to explain the program. Although it was noticeably chilly, he seemed perfectly warm in his gym teacher tee-shirt, slacks and gym shoes. I thought at first the shoes were a carryover many coaches affect during the off season. Later, I was to learn they were necessary.

He explained the program is divided into four phases: class room, simulator, closed course and behind the wheel (or BTW as it is known by the men who ride the suicide seat with the novice drivers).

THE FIRST REAL jolt to my education came as I watched Gattas strap the student driver warning signs to the cars. None of those "low price three" for these kids. They were going to learn in style.

Lined up in the early morning sun were two Rivieras, an Electra and an Olds 88.

Students confined to the closed course would have to make do with Novas, Centuries, Montego or LTD.

(A check with Bill Cook Buick, Arlington Heights, revealed he supplies the luxury cars because the demand for smaller cars is too great to consign them to students. The cars used are then sold at $200 below invoice price, said Don Cook, sales manager.)

Gattas said the students prefer the smaller cars for driving on the course. But, for the streets, there's nothing like a Detroit Dream.

My turn for the boat ride would come late, first stop was the classroom.

TONY LANZARATTA is a summer driving instructor. It was his minor at Illinois State University.

The students were in for a treat this morning. To break up the monotony of lectures in summer school, Lanzaratta had some slides to show.

The slides were supposed to give the students new perceptions — looking for the unexpected.

One hour of zig-zag lines, checks and squares all jumping around and changing while I tried to look at them. An hour later, my retinas barely recovered, found me in a driving simulator.

The idea is to have a mock-up of a car with the appropriate wheels, pedals and controls. The instructor shows a movie and the students are supposed to "drive" along.

A computer, attached to the simulator, registers everytime an error is made.

In reality, the simulators look like a bump-up car with a pinball machine hooked up to the dash. Do something wrong and the appropriate sign lights up.

THE FILM was swell. John Drury, channel 7's ace news announcer, took us for a ride through Des Plaines, Winnetka and Highland Park.

It showed an old girl friend's house and the site of my first traffic ticket.

After 45 minutes of watching for careless delivery men and children chasing balls into the street, John had us "drivers" "pull" into an angle parking place in Highland Park. He left us there.

Next stop for me was the enclosed course where the students drive around the parking lot and practice maneuvers. I was somewhat envious of these "intermediate" cars the kids got to tool around in. The North Shore high school I attended gave us Corvairs (remember them) with governors that limited speeds to under 15 m.p.h.

What about my old nemesis, parallel parking?

"We set up some pylons where they can practice. But not too much. It isn't on the tests anymore," Gattas said.

My contemporaries and myself considered the drivers test as rites of passage toward manhood. Parallel parking was our ordeal by fire. Now they don't even test it. No wonder this younger generation is getting soft.

"T-BACKING MANEUVERS" were on tap. This replaced the incomprehensible "three point turn about" I practiced for hours. Just more evidence of decadence.

I soon saw the necessity for the gym shoes worn by Gattas.

He called one car in to practice the move.

"Look out. She can't control the car," he said as he displayed some fancy foot work while grabbing a pylon out of harm's way.

Around 'round the cars went while Gattas watched for proper techniques such as hand over hand wheel turns and using the turn signal.

"Sometimes it gets pretty hairy out here. You should have been here last week. The first time behind a wheel and there were cars all over the place. We've had some accidents, but we're lucky. At Wheeling they had a car totaled on the course," he said.

I rejoined Lanzaratta for my last hour: a ride with the students on the street.

"YOU'RE LUCKY. These guys are good drivers," he said.

They were, too. No shocks, thrills, chills or spills. A little harsh with the brakes, but...

They were using their left foot to brake.

Lanzaratta said calmly, "We teach left foot braking now. We used to worry about confusion when they drove with a clutch, but not any more. We start them with the foot just touching the brake, then they can later put it to one side."

Blessphemy.

I called the Illinois State Police when I returned to the office. Those precision drivers would set the world right.

NO DICE. In the academy where troopers are taught high performance driving they use either foot.

I called drivers testing stations to get the answer to the preposterous situation of no parallel parking required for a license.

Libertyville doesn't require it. (But again, it never did. Some faint heart souls got tested there for just that reason.)

Elgin doesn't require it. Even Elston Avenue, the driver's testing station of high school nightmares, hasn't required it for over a year.

Ever since that day, I have occasionally been subject to spastic contortion while I struggle to get my left foot onto the brake.

It's no use. The conditioning is just too strong.

I think I'll just go back to the simulator and wait for John Drury to get me out of Highland Park.

Park excursions open

Spaces are still available for two Palatine Park District excursions scheduled in the coming two weeks. Next week, on July 13, youths who will begin seventh and eighth grades this fall are signing up for a Y.R.O. outing to the Chicago White Sox-Baltimore Orioles baseball game. The bus will leave Palatine at 6 p.m., returning at approximately 11 p.m. Tickets and bus fare are $2.50 per person.

"Rumpelstiltskin," a Mill Run Theatre production, will be seen on July 18 by Palatine youngsters who register for the trip. The play and transportation will cost $2.60, and the bus will leave at 9 a.m., returning at 1 p.m.

New policemen, youth counseling in new budget

The budget adopted last night by the Hoffman Estates Village Board provides for new employees in police and engineering departments and youth counseling services, plus extensive street repairs.

Total village expenditures for the year will amount to $5 million with about $1.6 million in the general fund. Most other funds are restricted either by the state or by tax levy limits and the village has little control over them. Last year's general fund levy totaled about $1.1 million. The increases are attributed mainly to man power and salary rate hikes and expenses that were approved last year but not made.

Six patrolmen will be added to the police department, and employees will receive pay raises of 6.5 per cent across the board. An allocation also is provided for a police task force, although the specific makeup of that force has not been determined.

The total salary provision for the police department is increased over last year's budget by about $100,000.

The village also plans to replace nine police squad cars for about $22,000.

The youth commission budget is increased from $3,776 to $23,155 because of an end to federal salary reimbursements and the addition of a female counselor. Until now, the village has employed only one youth counselor, a male, whose salary for the most part was paid for under the federal Emergency Employment Act.

Capital improvements in streets, water and sewer systems constitute a major portion of the 1973-74 budget.

THE STREET and bridge fund, which has expenditures totaling $290,400, will receive revenue from the village, state motor fuel taxes and federal revenue sharing. Of the total expenditures in that fund, roughly half are shown for salaries. Other expenses are for sidewalk and street improvements, equipment maintenance, snow and ice removal and tasks related to street work.

The village board still is conducting contract negotiations with water and sewer employees who recently formed a chapter of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees union.

The village will spend $17,000 from its corporate tax levy for improvements to Hillcrest Boulevard and the intersection of Frederick and Bedford streets. Receipts from motor fuel taxes will provide $82,500 to resurface about five miles of streets. Contracts are to be let in the coming winter for complete reconstruction of 9,200 feet of streets, to be financed with about $120,000 in federal revenue sharing funds.

A total of $43,200 also is budgeted to repair or construct sidewalks and curbs in various locations in the village, and another $30,000 is to be spent on purchase of a backhoe and dump truck.

hospital. The auction Saturday, sponsored by the Service League, netted approximately $2,500. Auctioneer Milton Cully of Des Plaines, left, and his helper, Schaumburg Trustee Ray Kossell, chair in hand, conducted the sale.

Get facts, figures ready --special census in fall

Fathers who can't remember the ages of their children may want to start preparing themselves now.

Hoffman Estates will conduct a special census in September or October, and the names and ages of members of households will be among questions asked.

Data collected in a special census is much less comprehensive than in the regular 10-year head counts, said a Chicago spokesman for the Census Bureau. In 1970, residents were asked to reveal such personal information as their income, the number of automobiles owned in the household and sanitary facilities in the home.

But in the special census, questions will relate only to name, address, age, race, sex and relationship to the head of the household, said the spokesman.

The village board last night approved spending $4,999 as the first installment of the village fee for the census. Total cost is estimated at about $12,000, but Village Clerk Helen Wozniak said the final bill will depend on the number of persons counted.

MRS. WOZNIAK now is recruiting persons to serve as census takers. She will not do the actual selection of employees, but is listing names of persons to be interviewed by the Census Bureau. Census takers must be at least 18 years old. While the bureau prefers persons with high school diplomas or the equivalent, other factors such as experience are also considered, said the spokesman. Census takers are paid 11 cents per name they record, and generally work for a few weeks in the house-to-house canvass.

The village timed its approval of the allocation so that its census will be conducted in fall, when most residents are home, said Mrs. Wozniak. The village was told the census would be scheduled 60 to 90 days after the $4,999 is paid, she (Continued on page 3)

Day-long festivities set for Fourth

"It's a Kid's World" but adults are welcome too at the annual Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the Independence Day Committee of Schaumburg Township.

A pet parade and a horse show complete with prizes will be among the new events at the day-long festivities. The Fourth begins with a parade and ends with a $2,000 fireworks display.

The 10 a.m. parade leads off from Illinois Boulevard and Schaumburg Road, and ends at the judges' reviewing stand at Chino Park, 161 Illinois Boulevard. Floats will be judged twice, in place and as they pass the reviewing stand. Entries will be in one of three categories: theme, (It's a Kid's World), patriotic, and commercial.

WMAQ-TV RADIO personality Jim Hill, honorary parade marshal, will lead the parade on a white horse. He will also award trophies to the winning floats and present the John Sheehan Marching Award to the outstanding non-professional marching group.

The funniest dressed pet and the most unusual pet in the animal parade will also win prizes. Four trophies will be presented to the best decorated bicycles and tricycles.

The Independence Day Committee was founded to provide a free day of entertainment for township families and to keep people off the highways for a safe holiday.

Free activities include a pie eating contest, watermelon eating contest, bingo, horseshoe pitch, tug of war, water balloon contest, adult races and a teen dance.

THE SCHEDULE leads off with the presentation of parade awards at 11:30 a.m., followed by the horse show from 12:30 to 2 p.m. A teen car smash runs from 1 to 5 p.m.; square dancing is from 1 to 3 p.m.; horseshoe pitching contest from 1 to 5 p.m.

The Ford Motor Co. National Punt, Pass, and Kick competition, sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association, will be held from 1 to 5 p.m., and the pie eating contest will run from 1 to 2 p.m. Bingo with prizes lasts from 2 to 4 p.m., and a magic and novelty show with children's magician Freddie Fredricks will be held from 3 to 4 p.m. Also scheduled for 3 to 4 p.m. are the watermelon contest and the water balloon contest.

The teen dance will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Adult and children races will be held from 4 to 5 p.m., and the tug of war is scheduled for 4:30 to 5 p.m.

All the above day-time activities will be held in Chino Park. A girls' softball game sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Community Baseball Association will be held at 12:30 p.m. at Hoffman School. A boys' major league baseball game also sponsored by the HECBA will be held at 2:30 p.m. at Hoffman School. From 5 to 7 p.m. an all star baseball game will be held at Conant High School.

A DRUM AND bugle corps competition will be held in the Conant stadium from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8080 and the Independence Day Committee are sponsoring the event.

COMPETING ARE the Northernaires from Menominee, Mich.; Page Park YMCA cadets, St. Louis, Mo.; the Southern Rebels, Metairie, La.; St. Paul Scouts, St. Paul, Minn.; and the Guardsmen and Guardsmen Cadets sponsored by VFW Post 8080 and American Legion Post 208, Arlington Heights.

Kelly's Acrobats, Arwood's K-9 Antics and the Edwardians, a group of young singers, will perform from 8 to 9:30 p.m. at the Conant stadium. The fireworks from 9:30 to 10:30 p.m. also at the stadium will end the day.

Dignitaries riding in the parade include Hoffman Estates Mayor Virginia Hayter, Hoffman Estates trustees and clerk, Hoffman Estates park district commissioners as well as Miss Hoffman Estates and Roselle's rose queen.

After the parade and before the judges' decision on the best floats, the Rev. R. Carl Menkens of the Church of the Cross will give the invocation. VFW Post 8080 color guard will conduct the flag raising ceremony and Charles De Paul, VFW commander, will lead the Pledge of Allegiance.

In anticipation of the day's crowds, more than 9,000 hot dogs, 12,000 cans of beer and nearly 11,000 ice cream bars have been purchased.

The Hoffman Estates Civil Defense Auxiliary Police, directed by Richard Monaghan, will channel traffic during the parade and patrol the grounds at Conant High School. Monaghan requested that parents keep their youngsters off the street during the parade in the interest of safety.

Groups sponsoring Fourth of July events include the Hoffman Estates Lions Club, St. Hubert Youth group, Hoffman Estates Park District, Hoffman Estates Jaycees, Theater Guild, Hoffman Estates Boys Club, the Regular Democratic Organization of Schaumburg Township, the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township, Conant Boosters, and the Hoffman Estates High School Boosters.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

President Nixon invited Chinese Ambassador Huang Chen to visit the White House, apparently to discuss a possible trip to Peking by Henry A. Kissinger.

The Federal Housing Administration ordered its field offices to suspend issuing mortgages for housing, apartment and office projects, as well as Title I loans. The FHA said it was going out of business because Congress failed to renew the National Housing Act, which expired Saturday.

Grocers and farmers have asked the administration to scrap the current price freeze as soon as possible. One witness insisted parts of the nation's food distribution system were near collapse.

The Pentagon announced a sharp hike in the U.S. bombing of Cambodia, but denied violation of a presidential agreement with Congress not to widen the war without provocation.

The highest court of military law turned down attempts by attorneys for 1st Lt. William Calley Jr. to make the government disclose any White House involvement in the My Lai investigation.

President Nixon will remain silent on the Watergate affair until the current phase of Senate hearings ends in August, then discuss it in an "appropriate forum," it was announced.

The Bay Area Rapid Transit system in Oakland, Calif., America's newest, was completely shut down by a strike of 1,200 employees demanding pay equalization.

Lawyers for New York's poor went on strike yesterday, adding to the city's labor problems that also included strikes by some hospital workers and gravediggers.

The state

William Workman, charged with killing seven persons in a rifle rampage in Palos Hills, was found mentally incompetent to stand trial.

Some 2,000 operating engineers, members of Local 520, went on strike yesterday in 18 southern Illinois counties. A few hours later they were ordered back to work by a 10-day restraining order.

Sports

Race driver Swede Savage died in Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis from injuries sustained in the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 30.

The world

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, meeting the American plane carrying the body of slain Attache Col. Yosef Alon, pledged Israel would "wipe out terrorist groups everywhere."

Cambodian troops have found 800 Communist bodies sprawled across battlefields near three of Phnom Penh's highways. They were believed killed by air and artillery strikes last month.

The Dow Jones industrial average tumbled 11.14 to 880.57. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index fell 1.16 to 103.10. The average price of a NYSE common share lost 45 cents. SCHAUMBURG'S BUNNY population could increase greatly if Lee Romano gets the go ahead to proceed with development of a more than 200-acre "futuristic city" within the village.

Romano, known as a land concept originator and planner, intends to include a Playboy Club in the complex though that fact has not specifically been brought out yet in sketchy plans given the village last week.

"Outer Planets," at 1-90 and Higgins Road, Romano said will be so complete a community that its residents will be able to live, work and play within the development. He also envisions a security system so complete that guardhouses will be erected at each entrance and exit. Hopefully, this would not prevent a resident from occasionally wandering into the outside world.

As plans continue to unfold during the next few months, "Outer Planets" will emerge as either a dream community or just a dream.

LEVITT'S SHEFFIELD Manor quadro-home residents will have their own recreation complex this month.

Sheffield Manor Swim Club is scheduled to open about July 15, according to Ken Campbell, Levitt's regional engineer.

Since automatic membership in the swim club was included in the purchase price of each manor four-plex, residents have been permitted to use Sheffield Swim and Racquet Club at no cost awaiting completion of their club.

RELATIVE COSTS of village services is reflected in a chart showing expenditures in the 1973-74 budget for Hoffman Estates. MFT refers to motor fuel tax, and signifies the village share of that tax for use in street improvements. General government is the account for salaries of the village manager and elected officials, election and census costs and costs of advisory boards and commissions.

New policemen, counseling services in new budget

$10,000 is included under the account for general governmental services. Another $10,000 is provided for special project studies.

The village will also purchase laboratory equipment for the health department.

The village garbage fund is increased by about $90,000 to a total of $234,800 this year. The increase is to provide for a plastic garbage bag program to be presented to the board within the next few weeks.

Village officials are anticipating the bags will cost homeowners 3.2 cents each, although the price could be different at the time of contracting. The budget provides for $60,000 to purchase the bags, and a total of $75,000 in billings to residents. The billings will include the cost for the bags and collection of garbage service charges that are overdue, and carried into this year's budget from last year's.

Previously, village residents were charged a rate for garbage service in addition to the tax they paid. This year the tax for garbage collection has increased by 10 cents per $100 assessed property value, but residents will be billed only for the bags they use. The billing for service is discontinued.

A total budget for revenue sharing funds has not been provided. It is estimated the village will receive $283,774 in federal sharing funds during the village fiscal year, from May 1, 1973 to April 30, 1974. But because the federal government will disburse the funds according to the calendar year, the village did not commit itself for specific expenditures of the funds to be received after Dec. 30.

Get figures ready; fall census on way

However, the bureau spokesman said it is more beneficial to conduct a census in the summer, unless the community has a college within its boundaries. Unless it is summer, said the spokesman, college students are counted as residents of the college town.

Because certain types of revenue are based on census certified population, it is most advantageous to take a special census in the summer, when college students are home, said the spokesman. Although the village is spending $12,000 for the census, it should more than make up the cost in revenue increases. The state disburses income tax and motor fuel tax to communities on the basis of population, with about $7 per person distributed for motor fuel taxes and about $10 per person distributed for income taxes.

THE VILLAGE estimates roughly a 3,000 to 4,000 population since the last special census was conducted in 1971. On that basis, the revenue increase would range roughly between $51,000 and $68,000.

However, for the current fiscal year, revenue would not jump that high. The population increase would be credited to

Two more arraigned in murder case

by JOHN MAES

Two more Chicago men were arraigned for murder Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court in connection with last Thursday's shotgun killing of Richard Bollacker.

Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733 Palmer Ave., and John Murphy, 18, of 5614 Augusta Blvd., were ordered held without bond in Cook County Jail by Associate Judge Marvin Peters pending a preliminary hearing in a Des Plaines court Thursday.

The two were arrested Sunday evening by Chicago Police Area 5 homicide investigators at the apartment of a friend, Jerry Thurbush, 21, in the 5300 block of Dekin Street.

The arrests came from a tip supplied by an informant, Chicago police said.

An unnamed Oak Park girl, 16, also wanted in connection with the killing was taken into custody with Del Moro and Murphy. She was turned over to Chicago juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

Thurbush was also charged with aiding the two men. Police said an auto owned by Thurbush was used by the assailants the night of the killing.

Charges of battery and resisting arrest were also brought against De Moro.

The other suspect, Peter Mukite, 21, of 1823 Haddon St., is currently in Cook County Jail awaiting the Thursday hearing, following his arraignment for the murder last week.

Mukite was arrested Thursday by Des Plaines police near Del Moro's home after being named as one of the killers by Bollacker's girlfriend, Cindy Graf, 16, who told police she was beaten and left for dead after watching Bollacker's death.

Bollacker's body was found in the Grand Forest preserve near Ballard and Rand Roads in Des Plaines after Miss Graf, who told police the suspects shot at her but missed, went to the road and hailed a passing motorist who alerted police.

The girl, who lived at a local psychological treatment center, Incentives Inc., 2424 Dempster St., is still under constant police watch at an undisclosed location.

Bollacker, who lived in a west side Chicago apartment at the time of his death, was reportedly involved in a love triangle with the girl and one of the suspects. An argument apparently started the night of the slaying after the couple announced they were planning to be married, police said.

TWO OF THE THREE men charged in the slaying of John Murphy, 17, were arrested Sunday by Chicago police. Richard Bollacker was taken to arraignment in Des Plaines, yesterday. The pair, Richard Del Moro, 18, and

Curbs taking 'bang' out of Fourth?

by JOE SWICKARD

The boom and bang that traditionally greeted Independence Day may be a thing of the past.

Earlier this year, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission proposed a ban on almost all fireworks.

Should the proposed banning come to pass, the explosive souvenirs of Southern vacations would no longer plague police departments.

Capt. Maurice English, of the Arlington Heights police department, said the main source of the illegal fireworks is families returning from trips to states where the explosives still are legal.

"Every year right after Easter vacation we start getting more calls about kids with fireworks. They buy them in Florida or Georgia and bring them back here. Or the father buys a bag of firecrackers for the kids," he said.

THE ONLY restriction on fireworks nationwide currently is a ban on anything that contains an explosive charge in excess of two grains.

This makes cherry bombs and giant firecrackers illegal. However, they continue to be available on a bootleg basis. There is some doubt that even the proposed ban would eliminate this market entirely.

Firecracker fans have begun petitions to the commission to protest the proposals.

One petition signed by 70 persons, mostly from Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Mississippi, said it had been a "tradition since the founding of our nation to celebrate Independence Day with the booming of cannons and the display and shooting of fireworks."

"Let us not lose any more of our dwindling freedoms," the petitioners wrote.

ILLINOIS LAW prohibits devices that explode or are propelled by explosions. Local ordinances are closely patterned after the state law. Sparklers also are on the wrong side of the statute.

However, many neighboring states permit the sale of firecrackers, skyrockets and bottle rockets. Travelers returning from Missouri, Kentucky and Indiana often bring along a few items to enliven the neighborhood on a quiet night.

Despite reports of roadside stands selling fireworks just across the border in Indiana, the Illinois State Police make no special surveillance of Illinois residents stocking up the contraband.

"If we stop a car and the devices are found, naturally we'll take the appropriate action. But we don't keep a steady watch for them coming back," a spokesman for the state police said.

Area police departments report that fireworks are being confiscated from juveniles, but in no greater numbers than usual. Most cases involve a youth with a few packets of small firecrackers. ALTHOUGH rockets, 'crackers' and sparklers are illegal in Illinois, residents can celebrate with smoking and flashing items that look just like the real thing.

Some local stores stock a number of devices similar in appearance to the tiny bombs. "Magic glowworms," "snakes," and caps are offered for sale at the check-out counter.

Other items offered for sale carry warnings to use under adult supervision in emergency cases only. Directions for one smoke cartridge states, "Light and get away."

No matter what regulations become law, it is doubtful the Fourth ever will be celebrated with a whimper instead of a bang.

Drive falls far short of quota

Donor lack may spell end to guaranteed blood supply

Mount Prospect residents may lose their guaranteed blood supplies unless more donors are found soon.

Under the North Suburban Blood Center's 4 per cent blood program, all residents of a community are guaranteed unlimited blood as needed, if 4 per cent of the population donates a pint each year.

With the 22 pints donated Saturday, Mount Prospect's blood drive reached a total of 294 pints — far below the 450 pints needed at the three-month point. In all, 1,800 pints, or 150 a month, must be donated to keep the program alive.

If the program fails, residents will only be able to draw from area hospitals as many pints as have been donated. Also, in the case of failure of the program, a donor and his immediate family would be covered for the year after the donation.

IN APRIL, a Jaycees spokesman said that while the blood donor drive was lagging, the Jaycees hoped to make up the slack through group donations. The Jaycees are running the blood program for its first year here.

At the time Chuck Bennett, then blood chairman, made those remarks, 117 pints had been donated. The current total of 294 pints shows that few organizations have contributed through group programs.

The next blood drive will be from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. July 22, a Sunday. This will be the first Sunday drive since the program began. Persons wishing to donate may call for an appointment time at the village hall, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Coverage for all residents was initiated in May when a special blood draw at St. Raymond's School boosted the village's total to 233 pints, just over the 225 pints that were required for full coverage. The monthly blood draws are at the Lions Park Recreation Center, 411 S. Maple St.

Fireworks ban—attack on tradition

by JOE SWICKARD

The boom and bang that traditionally greeted Independence Day may be a thing of the past.

Earlier this year, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission proposed a ban on almost all fireworks.

Should the proposed banning come to pass, the explosive souvenirs of Southern vacations would no longer plague police departments.

Capt. Maurice English, of the Arlington Heights police department, said the main source of the illegal fireworks is families returning from trips to states where the explosives still are legal.

"Every year right after Easter vacation we start getting more calls about kids with fireworks. They buy them in Florida or Georgia and bring them back here. Or the father buys a bag of firecrackers for the kids," he said.

THE ONLY restriction on fireworks nationwide currently is a ban on anything that contains an explosive charge in excess of two grains.

This makes cherry bombs and giant firecrackers illegal. However, they continue to be available on a bootleg basis. There is some doubt that even the proposed ban would eliminate this market entirely.

Firecracker fans have begun petitions to the commission to protest the proposals.

One petition signed by 70 persons, mostly from Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Mississippi, said it had been a "tradition since the founding of our nation to celebrate Independence Day with the booming of cannons and the display and shooting of fireworks."

"Let us not lose any more of our dwindling freedoms," the petitioners wrote.

ILLINOIS LAW prohibits devices that explode or are propelled by explosions. Local ordinances are closely patterned after the state law. Sparklers also are on the wrong side of the statute.

However, many neighboring states permit the sale of firecrackers, skyrockets and bottle rockets. Travelers returning from Missouri, Kentucky and Indiana often bring along a few items to enliven the neighborhood on a quiet night.

Despite reports of roadside stands selling fireworks just across the border in Indiana, the Illinois State Police make no special surveillance of Illinois residents stocking up on the contraband.

"If we stop a car and the devices are found, naturally we'll take the appropriate action. But we don't keep a steady watch for them coming back," a spokesman for the state police said.

Area police departments report that fireworks are being confiscated from juveniles, but in no greater numbers than usual. Most cases involve a youth with a few packets of small firecrackers.

ALTHOUGH rockets, "crackers" and sparklers are illegal in Illinois, residents can celebrate with smoking and flashing items that look just like the real thing.

Some local stores stock a number of devices similar in appearance to the tiny bombs. "Magic glowworms," "snakes," and caps are offered for sale at the check-out counter.

Other items offered for sale carry warnings to use under adult supervision in emergency cases only. Directions for one smoke cartridge states, "Light and get away."

Five-story apartment project to be studied

The Mount Prospect Village Board will consider at tonight's meeting the rezoning of property along River Road, north of Camp McDonald Road, to permit construction of 60 condominium apartments in a five-story building. The 8 p.m. meeting will be in the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

Also listed on the agenda are: • Discussion with Prospect Meadows homeowners. Residents of the subdivision west of Rand Road and north of Kensington Road have talked with village officials about annexation to the village.

• Mayor Robert D. Telchert's comments on the village police department's strength.

• Discussion of the proposed annexation of property at 524 E. Algonquin Rd., owned by Richard Fanslow. Last October the village plan commission unanimously voted to deny Fanslow's request for zoning to build 96 apartments. The commission at the time said Fanslow was seeking six more apartments on a acre than the village zoning codes allowed.

Telchert also has scheduled a further comment on petitions to the village board. Recently a furor developed over petitions against the Colony project, to be located at Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road.

Edward Datz, 821 S. Louis St., will address the board on airplane noise abatement.

The Old Glory Marching Kazoo Irregulars

Superkazoo? No, it's a Fourth of July parade

by MARY HOULIHAN

What does it take to play in a kazoo band?

"Just a lot of nerve," says Pat Smith wryly.

Mrs. Smith, a resident of the 400 block of Wille St. in Mount Prospect, should know. This is the second year she and her husband have organized the Pine-Willie Streets Old Glory Marching Kazoo Irregulars for the Mount Prospect Fourth of July parade.

"It all started because my husband thought we ought to get to know more people in the neighborhood," explained the red-headed Mrs. Smith.

"He went around the block last year asking people if they would be interested. He thought the kazoo would give everybody a purpose to walk (in the parade)."

"I felt pretty stupid," Smith laughed, explaining his door-to-door campaign to recruit band members. Most people were taken aback. They thought it was a put-on. But they are a nutty bunch of people so they all responded."

DESPITE HIS initial embarrassment, Smith was convinced that everybody who joined the band was secretly just dying for the chance to get into a parade. "There's a deep-seated thing. Everyone wants to be in a parade, but no one will admit it," he explained.

Sue Clay, a resident of Wille St. for two years, could have been one of those. "Last year I was hiding in the garage away from everyone. After that I pretended to play, but I really wasn't," she explained, smiling.

Asked if there is a special talent involved in playing the kazoo, Sue quipped, "Well, it's difficult. It's embarrassing because you have to sort of sing into it."

Though Mrs. Clay says she's still a little reticent (although she sure didn't look it at the practice session), her husband is definitely not on the shy side. According to Sue, her husband is going to be super-kazooing this year.

"I'm making like a Superman costume for him," she said. "It'll say S-K on the front and Superkazoo on the back."

HIS HUSBAND also will be wearing a mask, Sue said. "He thought he should have a mask because too many people know him in this town," she said.

Watching a recent kazoo practice, it's not hard to imagine why Sue's husband would want to wear a mask.

Sitting in the Smiths' living room, you get the distinct feeling that all these people are tremendously enjoying acting crazy for just one night.

Smith, a Gordon MacCrae-looking type with mustache, presides with his red and blue kazoo, springing from one foot to another in his patriotic blue and white starred gym shoes.

"The purpose of this (practice) is to get everyone to do it together," says Mrs. Smith, smiling. The seven or eight couples seated in her living room begin to look very ill at ease, kazoo in hand.

"We're not going to be graded on this now," she says to them reassuringly.

SMITH BLOWS on his kazoo for the first note of "Grand Old Flag" and hesitantly, the rest of the group begins to join in.

A baby seated in his mother's lap puts his fingers in his ears to block out the noise. Finally, the pain is too much and he begins to bite on one of the straw hats the kazooers will be wearing on the Fourth.

Finally, "Grand Old Flag" is finished with a flourish and everyone begins to gain a little confidence. The baby is definitely relieved.

NEXT COMES "Stars and Stripes Forever." Things are beginning to pick up, but when the band gets to the solo part, the show begins to bog down and laughter engulfs the kazooers.

"Does anybody feel secure enough to play it by themselves?" asks Mrs. Smith.

"I'm on the shy side of the family," yells one man standing in back of the couch.

Finally, Mrs. Smith gets together a group. "Quiet. We have a volunteer trio to play the root-a-toot-toot part," she says.

Informant's tip led to arrests

Two Chicago men arraigned in Bollacker murder case

by JOHN MAES

Two more Chicago men were arraigned for murder Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court in connection with last Thursday's shotgun killing of Richard Bollacker. Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733 Palmer Ave., and John Murphy, 18, of 5514 Augusta Blvd., were ordered held without bond in Cook County Jail by Associate Judge Marvin Peters pending a preliminary hearing in a Des Plaines court Thursday.

The two were arrested Sunday evening by Chicago Police Area 5 homicide investigators at the apartment of a friend, Jerry Thurbush, 21, in the 5300 block of Dakin Street.

The arrests came from a tip supplied by an informant, Chicago police said.

An unnamed Oak Park girl, 16, also wanted in connection with the killing was taken into custody with Del Moro and Murphy. She was turned over to Chicago juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

Thurbush was also charged with aiding the two men. Police said an auto owned by Thurbush was used by the assailants the night of the killing.

Charges of battery and resisting arrest were also brought against De Moro.

The other suspect, Peter Mukite, 21, of 1823 Haddon St., is currently in Cook County Jail awaiting the Thursday hearing, following his arraignment for the murder last week.

Mukite was arrested Thursday by Des Plaines police near Del Moro's home after being named as one of the killers by Bollacker's girlfriend, Cindy Graf, 16, who told police she was beaten and left for dead after watching Bollacker's death.

Bollacker's body was found in the Grand Forest preserve near Ballard and Rand Roads in Des Plaines after Miss Graf, who told police the suspects shot at her but missed, went to the road and hailed a passing motorist who alerted police.

The girl, who lived at a local psychological treatment center, Incentives Inc., 2424 Dempster St., is still under constant police watch at an undisclosed location.

Bollacker, who lived in a west side Chicago apartment at the time of his death, was reportedly involved in a love triangle with the girl and one of the suspects. An argument apparently started the night of the slaying after the couple announced they were planning to be married, police said.

TWO OF THE THREE men charged in the slaying of John Murphy, 17, were arrested Sunday by Chicago police. Richard Bollacker were taken to arraignment in Des Plaines, yesterday. The pair, Richard Del Moro, 18, and

Village, Prospect Heights bills OK'd

Three bills affecting Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights residents were passed yesterday by the Illinois General Assembly.

A bill providing for fire cadet programs throughout the state, sponsored by State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, was approved yesterday by the House.

The Mount Prospect Fire Department, which already has 10 youths in the state's pioneer cadet program, supported the bill. Firefighter Leonard Kaiser was instrumental in drawing up the legislation.

According to State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, Senate sponsor of the bill, a cadet training program will "assure that new members of the department will come to their duties with a background of training and experience that will equip them for immediate responsibility."

ALL TEN YOUTHS now in the Mount Prospect Fire cadet program are expected to continue with the second and final year of the normal cadet course.

Kaiser said that if the bill is signed by Gov. Daniel Walker, two of the youths could become full-fledged firefighters next year.

The Illinois House Monday also concurred in passage of a bill that will guarantee rapid reimbursement for educational costs for the River Road School at Maryville Academy, Des Plaines.

At present, the district has to wait six to 15 months to be reimbursed for money expended for the school. Under the bill passed by the legislature, the district will be able to receive reimbursement on a quarterly basis.

According to River Trails Dist. 26 Acting Supt. James Retzlaff, passage of the bill "creates a good feeling all around, especially with the board of education, when they aren't paying stuff out on a long term basis. It creates the feeling that the state is paying their way (Maryville students) on a current basis."

A SECOND BILL allowing the incorporation of Prospect Heights as a municipality also passed the General Assembly Monday.

The bill, sponsored by State Sen. John Nimrod, R-Niles, and State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, would permit unincorporated areas of 7,500 or more residents to incorporate without the approval of nearby municipalities. The bill was amended in the senate to allow municipalities to raise objections if incorporation affects services within their boundaries.

A similar bill sponsored by State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northfield, was passed by the General Assembly June 28.

A telephoned bomb threat Sunday caused evacuation of the Scanda House Restaurant in Mount Prospect.

Legal curbs turning Fourth 'bang' into a whimper?

by JOE SWICKARD

The boom and bang that traditionally greeted Independence Day may be a thing of the past.

Earlier this year, the Consumer Protection Safety Commission proposed a ban on almost all fireworks.

Should the proposed banning come to pass, the explosive souvenirs of Southern vacations would no longer plague police departments.

Capt. Maurice English, of the Arlington Heights police department, said the main source of the illegal fireworks is families returning from trips to states where the explosives still are legal.

$14 million program

Flood-control referendum to be set for September

A September date will be set for a referendum on a proposed $14 million Arlington Heights flood control package.

Village Pres. Jack Walsh has instructed the village board to be ready at its next meeting July 16 to fix a specific date in September when residents will vote on the sale of general obligation bonds to pay for the flood control projects.

A referendum on the flood plan designed by R. J. Peterson engineers has been postponed twice, once from Dec. 16 and again from June 2, because of unresolved problems.

OBJECTIONS OVER the use of Pioneer Park for a storm water reservoir and uncertainties over the ability of the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) to help finance some of the flood control work have held up the referendum.

Walsh said he doubted that it would ever be possible to resolve all the "nitty gritty facets" of a $14 million program and said that a degree of flexibility was desirable.

"It is important to put this question before the community," he said.

The bond issue, if approved, would cost an Arlington Heights homeowner with an assessed valuation of $10,000 about $514 over a 20-year period.

The average additional tax would be about $27 a year. During the first year the additional tax on a $10,000 assessment would be about $37. The figure would drop to about $19 by the 20th year.

Trustee Frank Palmatter said he would ask the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding, which he chairs and which has been developing flood control plans, to recommend a September date.

WALSH SAID he had no special date in mind but he suggested that the referendum be held late enough after summer vacation schedules in order "to allow as many people to participate as possible."

The Arlington Heights Park District is currently considering revised plans for a surface retention basin at Pioneer Park, the use of which has been a major stumbling block. Plans for more costly underground storm water storage have also been drawn in an effort to meet park objections to use of the Pioneer Park property.

A second unanswered question, the funding role of the MSD, is awaiting the publication of new guidelines by the MSD and agreement on how to pay for a project that would aid both Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect in the Weller Creek watershed.

Those cornfields are turning into apartments at a Boomtown pace...

Growth

by JULIA BAUER

There's a major new suburb springing up in the cornfields of northeastern Palatine Township. It has half a dozen different names, and within the next few months, it could have a population of 18,000 persons—all apartment dwellers.

The fastest-growing corner of Cook County is destined to become the serene retreat of harried city folks, who see their escape via the recently completed Ill. Rte. 53 expressway.

"That's the whole cause of it," said Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals secretary Paul Marcy, pointing to the four-lane divided highway on his zoning map. But officials of surrounding incorporated suburbs put the blame for the vast growth on the zoning board itself.

LOCAL GOVERNMENTS have virtually no power to stop zoning change requests in unincorporated areas, and their repeated objections to the county zoning officials have had few successes at stopping the zoning changes.

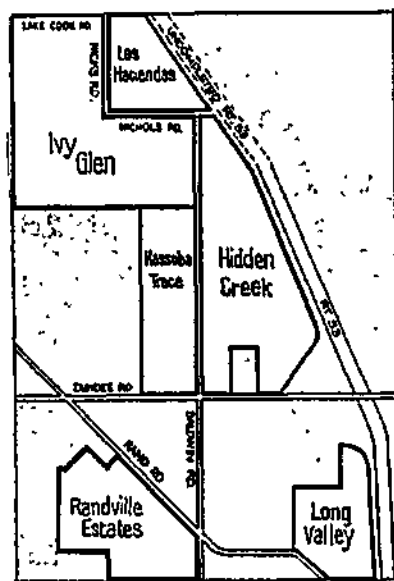

"The county is giving much higher density than either Buffalo Grove or Arlington Heights would ever tolerate," said Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Gary Armstrong.

Density—the number of apartments that a developer is allowed to build per acre on his property—is only one sore spot with the surrounding villages of Palatine, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

"There are an awful lot of people being injected into the area, and all kinds of public services are lacking," complained Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh.

BUFFALO GROVE is most worried about flooding from the developments, particularly between County Line Road and Dundee Road along Ill. Rte. 53. Branches of Buffalo Creek run through several of the developments, and Buffalo Grove residents live downstream.

One of the projects that created the greatest concern with Buffalo Grove is called Hidden Creek, a 96-acre apartment condominium and business development along Rte. 53. Buffalo Creek cuts across the development.

Several of the projects, which contain a mix of townhouses, condominium apartments, high-rise apartments and single-family homes, are already under construction. The largest, Ivy Glen, is being built on 120 acres of land on an L-shaped section between Baldwin Road and Long Grove Road, going from Lake-Cook Road to Gardena Lane on the south. The property once was the Otto Bittner farm.

When the Bittner farm is transformed into the $50 million Ivy Glen complex, it will have 2,606 dwelling units and a population of 6,500 to 8,000.

NEXT DOOR, just east of Ivy Glen, is the 77-acre Hidden Creek residential development, which will house 4,075 when it is built. Hidden Creek developers received the necessary zoning change from the county earlier this year.

Kassaba Trace apartments are going up south of the Ivy Glen development, on 40 acres bordering the Weidner Egg and Poultry Farm. It will have 660 units and approximately 2,000 to 3,000 residents.

Another development, Las Haciendas, was recently approved and will have a population of 1,065 when built. The condominium apartment complex is west of Rte. 53 between Hidden Creek and Ivy Glen.

Randville Estates is a 92-acre development nearer to Palatine borders, on Rand Road west of Baldwin Road. Formerly dubbed Trafalgar Terrace, condominium apartments and homes will be included in the 1,096 units in the development.

THESE PROJECTS, either under construction or recently approved, are only a few of the sections in this corner of Palatine Township slated for high-density apartment development. Others received the rezoning several years ago, but have not started construction yet for financial reasons or other causes.

Even without the proposed developments that could be built but haven't been started yet, this area will probably have a population of 18,000 to 20,000 within the next five years. And the potential effect on the developments and surrounding communities may be "absolute chaos," according to Palatine Village President Wendell Jones.

"The county zoning board has put more emphasis on expediency and politics than they do on impact on the local communities," complained Jones.

Informant's tip led to arrests

Two Chicago men arraigned in Bollacker murder case

by JOHN MAES
Two more Chicago men were arraigned for murder Monday in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court in connection with last Thursday's shotgun killing of Richard Bollacker.

Richard "Ricky" Del Moro, 18, of 4733 Palmer Ave., and John Murphy, 18, of 5514 Augusta Blvd., were ordered held without bond in Cook County Jail by Associate Judge Marvin Peters pending a preliminary hearing in a Des Plaines court Thursday.

The two were arrested Sunday evening by Chicago Police Area 5 homicide investigators at the apartment of a friend, Jerry Thurbush, 21, in the 5300 block of Dakin Street.

The arrests came from a tip supplied by an informant, Chicago police said.

An unnamed Oak Park girl, 16, also taken into custody with Del Moro and Murphy. She was turned over to Chicago juvenile authorities pending a hearing.

Thurbush was also charged with aiding the two men. Police said an auto owned by Thurbush was used by the assailants the night of the killing.

Charges of battery and resisting arrest were also brought against De Moro.

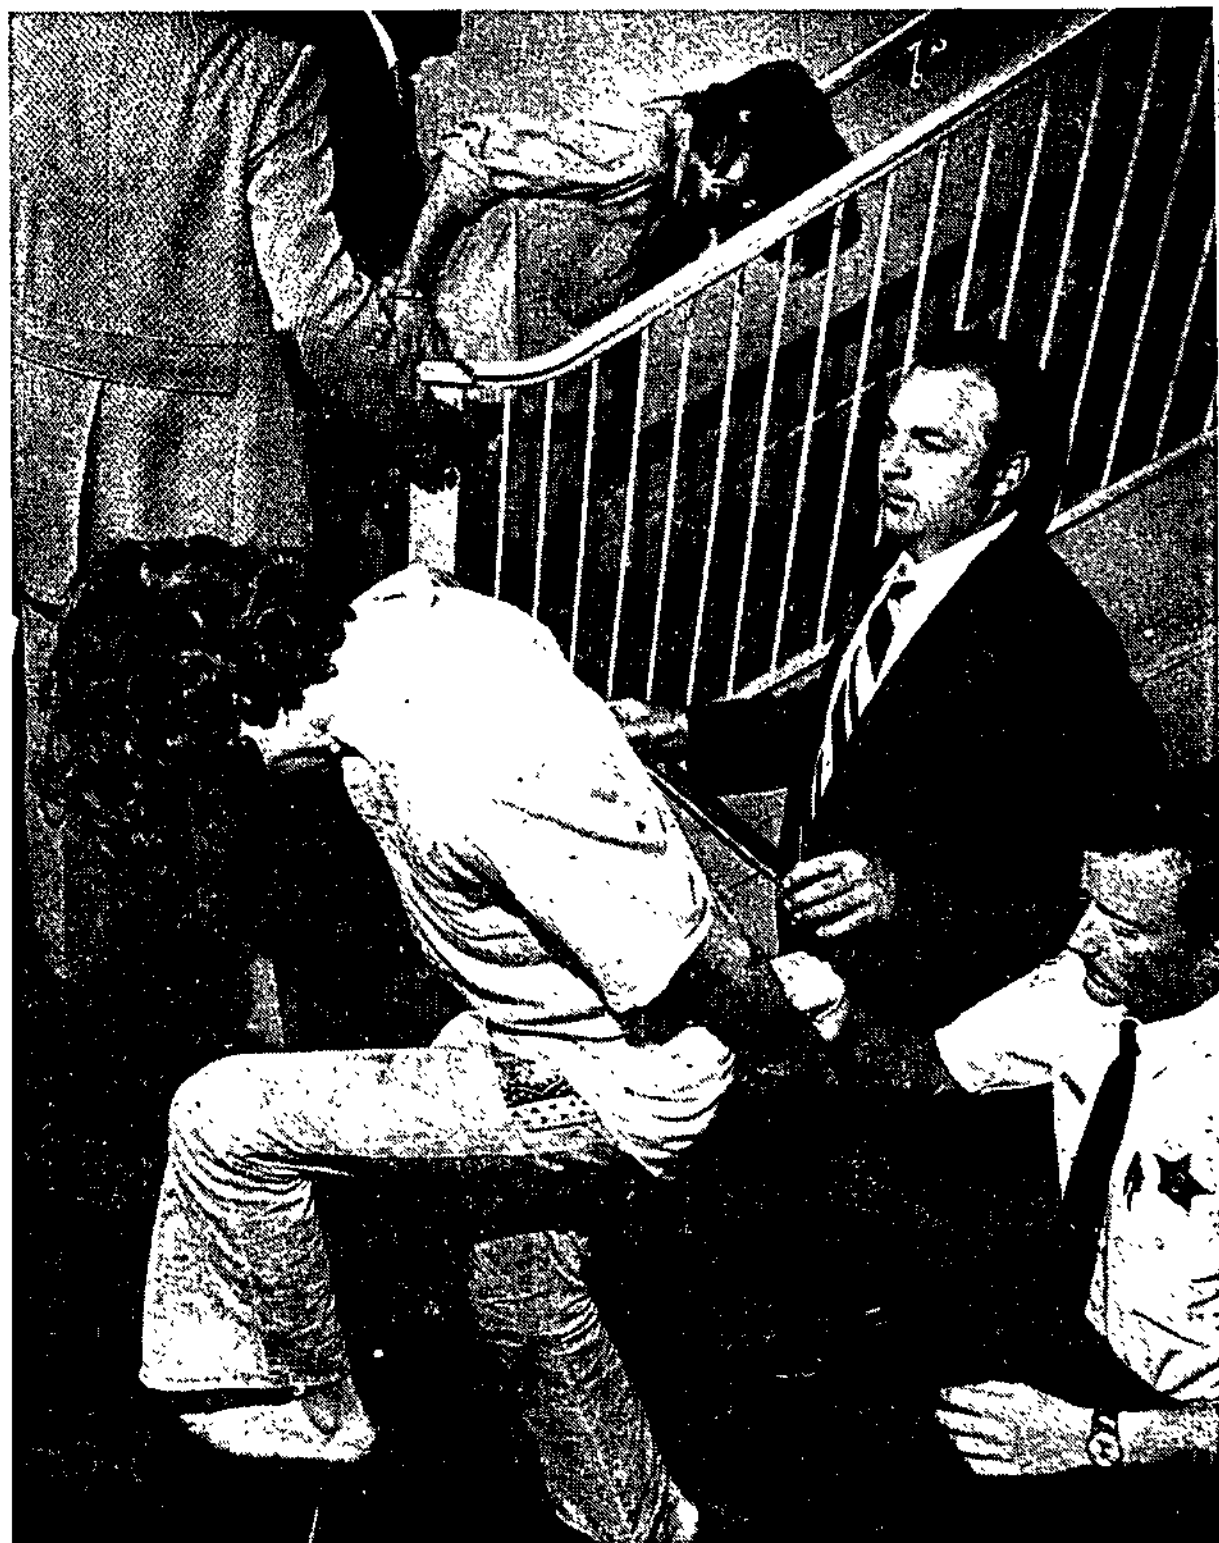

The other suspect, Peter Mukite, 21, of 1823 Haddon St., is currently in Cook County Jail awaiting the Thursday hearing, following his arraignment for the murder last week.

Mukite was arrested Thursday by Des Plaines police near Del Moro's home after being named as one of the killers by Bollacker's girlfriend, Cindy Graf, 16, who told police she was beaten and left for dead after watching Bollacker's death.

Bollacker's body was found in the Grand Forest preserve near Ballard and Rand Roads in Des Plaines after Miss Graf, who told police the suspects shot at her but missed, went to the road and hailed a passing motorist who alerted police.

The girl, who lived at a local psychological treatment center, Incentives Inc., 2424 Dempster St., is still under constant police watch at an undisclosed location.

Bollacker, who lived in a west side Chicago apartment at the time of his death, was reportedly involved in a love triangle with the girl and one of the suspects. An argument apparently started the night of the slaying after the couple announced they were planning to be married, police said.

TWO OF THE THREE men charged in the slaying of John Murphy, 17, were arrested Sunday by Chicago police. Richard Bollacker was taken to arraignment in Des Plaines, yesterday. The pair, Richard Del Moro, 18, and

Driver released on bond in hit-and-run case

An Arlington Heights driver was released on $300 bond after he failed to provide help when he hit a young boy on a bicycle, according to Elk Grove Village police.

According to the police report, Harold Holzengel, 34, of 1312 Mitchell, Arlington Heights, hit Donald Hintz, 14, as the boy was riding his bicycle last week near the intersection of Arlington Heights and Blesterfield roads.

Holzengel reportedly got out of his car to talk to the boy, then returned to his car and started to drive away, according to police. Construction workers in the area, who had gathered at the accident, told Holzengel to take Hintz, who lives in Rolling Meadows, to the hospital.

Police said Holzengel drove Hintz to Alexian Brothers Medical Center, but when they arrived, he did not take the boy into the hospital. Instead he drove back to the Grove Mall Shopping Center, dropped the boy off and drove away.

Hintz walked to a friend's house and the police were called. Later, the boy was taken back to Alexian Brothers, where he was treated for minor injuries and released.

Police were able to find Holzengel through the license number of his car. He voluntarily came to the station when called by police.

Holzengel said he had not taken the boy to the hospital because he had become scared. Police charged him with leaving the scene of an accident, failure to render aid and information and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

He was then released on bond.

Police seeking 7-Eleven store robbery suspect

An Arlington Heights man is being sought by police in connection with a robbery of a market early Sunday morning.

William Calvert, 23, of 1 N. Hickory, Arlington Heights, was named in a warrant charging him and a companion with the $400 robbery of a 7-Eleven Store, 701 E. Kensington.

John W. O'Brien, 1010 Sterling, Palatine, was arrested at the store, after a customer notified police the clerk was in need of help. He was released on $10,000 bond pending an appearance in the Arlington Heights branch of the Cook County Circuit Court, July 20.

Police said the pair entered the store early Sunday morning and forced the lone clerk, Mark M. Johnson, into a rear storage room.

Johnson told police Calvert and O'Brien looted the cash register and then forced him to take off his clothes.

A customer entered the store at this point, according to Johnson's statement to police. The pair told Johnson to put his clothes on and wait on the customer, according to police.

Calvert apparently fled the store with about $400 in cash by a rear door when Johnson waited on the customer. O'Brien remained standing at the rear, after warning Johnson to keep quiet about the robbery, according to police.

Police said that Johnson managed to inform the customer of the situation without alerting O'Brien. The customer left the store and telephoned police. "The clerk at the 7-Eleven needs help."

O'Brien attempted to flee, but was captured just outside the store.

He was taken into custody and charged with robbery. He posted bond Sunday and was released pending his court date.

Police said they are still seeking Calvert, whom police described as having 6 feet 3 inches, and 170 pounds, being dark hair and a beard.

Those cornfields ain't what they used to be...

in the region, apartment dwellers will be served by a police station in Niles and a fire station four miles away in Palatine.

ALL UNINCORPORATED areas of Cook County are served by the county sheriff's police. Some local residents in unincorporated parts of the township have already complained about inadequate police services from the county.

County police will "watch the crime statistics" after developments in this area open, said County Chief Edmund Dobbs. The area "could be part of a beat, or with increasing crime, could be a beat in and of itself," the chief explained. A beat is the area one patrolman cruises during his shift.

Manpower to police the projected population will probably come from other areas of the county. Personnel are shifted when other parts of the county are annexed into local police districts. And there's always the possibility that this region will get annexed, Dobbs suggested.

Developers have several advantages in building in unincorporated areas. They have one less level of government to work through and have lower taxes, since they do not have to pay taxes to the local municipal government. But the biggest single advantage is the developer's chances of getting a higher density, and a resulting higher income, than villages would probably allow. Also, more open farmland is available at a lower sale price in the unincorporated areas.

So a developer can build at less cost and realize a greater profit by constructing his units outside local municipal boundaries.

"It's irresponsible of the builders to take advantage of the situation," Walsh said, because the lack of public services, particularly nearby fire and police, will ultimately hurt the people who move into the development.

SOME EARLIER developers have built their projects in an unincorporated area, then come to the nearby village for annexation. This creates special problems for the local municipality, as they are faced with the plum of a high tax income, but the thorn of a development built under county building codes that differ from the village's codes and standards.

"We feel that apartment complexes this size should be in incorporated areas," said Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Dan Larson.

Jones, Palatine village president, believes such projects should be annexed before they are even developed. But would the village annex these areas after they're built?

"We haven't defined our boundaries yet," Jones said, adding that the village plan commission now is updating its master plan.

BUFFALO GROVE president Armstrong was also noncommittal about his village annexing some or all of the major developments.

"If we expand that way, we could annex it. We do go there," Armstrong said. Does Buffalo Grove want it? "It's really hard to say. There are some reasons to annex it, from a financial standpoint," Armstrong said.

Walsh said he had absolutely no interest in annexing the developments to Arlington Heights. The village has an industrial park bordering the developments across Rte. 53.

"I have no interest in it at all. It would dilute our resources," Walsh said. The one major advantage for Arlington Heights if it did annex the area, Walsh said, would be the village's ability to deal with problems that come up between the village and the new apartment area.

AS IT IS, there will be no good avenue for solving problems between residents of the unincorporated area and Arlington Heights, he said.

Residents of the developments will have a Palatine mailing address, but their closest levels of government will be Palatine Township and Cook County.

Fernside Heights Utility Company, a privately owned sewer and water company, will service most of the developments. Roads within each project will be built by the developer and will either be maintained by the building owners or by Palatine Township.

School-age children will eventually attend an elementary school in the Ivy Glen complex and a high school just north of Palatine.

NEITHER THE grade school nor high school is under construction yet. They are planned to be completed between 1975 and 1976. Until then, elementary school youngsters who move into the developments will be bused to Rolling Meadows, and high school youths will attend Fremd or Palatine high schools.

Shoppers who might otherwise go to surrounding villages for their purchases are expected to take Rte. 53 to the Wood-field complex instead. Grocery stores and small specialty shops are already planned for some of the developments, particularly along Dundee Road.

In fact, the corner of Palatine Township is starting to look very much like a suburban city. Real problems aren't expected to surface for another five or 10 years. But the construction is under way in unit after unit of condominium apartments. Sometimes, even the county zoning board has second thoughts about its recent rezoning.

During a recent January hearing for the Hidden Creek development, one zoning commissioner asked, "There's 240 acres already zoned multifamily. Do you consider it wise planning to zone another 77 acres multifamily?"

"Yes," the developer replied, "This will always be a tax plus to the community."
